Lewis Is Pledged Support of AFL In Coal Dispute

Executive Council Specifically Indorses Health Fund Demand

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—John L. Lewis was pledged the unqualified support of the American Federation of Labor today as his dispute with soft coal operators remained deadlocked.

The AFL executive council adopted a resolution promising that the federation's 7,000,000 members would back him "to the limit until victory is won." It specifically supported Lewis's demand for a health and welfare fund.

Officials sought some new step which might end the soft coal deadlock before the strike is renewed next weekend, but there were no indications that thy found one.

Watchful Waiting

The miners and the operators, for their part, held no further meetings and settled down to watchful waiting. Each side obviously felt it was up to the other to offer the first concession on the foremost stumbling block—the health and welfare fund demand.

In this connection the new issue of the United Mine Workers Journal declared that Charles O'Neill, of the operators, told President Truman on May 10 they would accept the law in principle, but that they later made "a complete repudiation of O'Neill's White House promise."

The president met with his cabinet during the day to discuss the coal dispute along with the threatened railroad strike and other current problems. There was no word of any decision, however. Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach was out of town.

The president's secretary, Charles G. Ross, told reporters earlier there was "not a thing" new on the coal situation.

Operators "Relax"

Lewis attended a meeting of the AFL executive council, of which he has been a member since he returned to the federation in January. The council opened a ten-day quarterly meeting Wednesday but the coal negotiations prevented Lewis from attending previously. William Green, AFL president, previously had assured Lewis of the organization's full support.

The operators "just relaxed," a management official reported.

Ross said he did not know when Mr. Truman would talk again with O'Neall and Lewis but remarked that "anything could happen at any time." The president told them to stand by for further discussions yesterday when they turned down

Ex-GI To Be Quizzed In Penknife Slaying Of Elderly Woman

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 17. (AP)—Police Chief Paul Thomas said today that William Headley, 23, an ex-soldier, was held for questioning in the pen-knife slaying of 78-year old Mrs. Harriet Walker in the bedroom of her Waynesburg home.

Thomas said that Mrs. Walker was found dead in bed this morning by her sister, Miss Kate Montgomery, 74, with whom she lived. When Mrs. Walker did not answer her call, the chief related, her sister walked in and found her lying in a pool of blood, her throat slashed. Thomas said she had been criminally assaulted.

Chief Thomas said Miss Montgomery saw Headley in the bedroom in an intoxicated condition and that he was still in the house when the police arrived in answer to the sister's alarm. The chief said lodging of a formal charge was delayed until Headley can be questioned at length.

Draft Boards To Call Up Childless Men 26 to 30

Selective Service Acts To Carry Out President's Instructions

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Selective Service today ordered local boards to call up draft-eligible childless men 26 through 29 for physical examinations.

This was the first step in carrying out President Truman's instructions to expand the draft to include these men. The president said yesterday this was necessary "in order to save what we can from the near wreckage of the Selective Service system."

He referred to legislation passed by Congress which extends the draft to July 1, but prohibits induction of teen-age youths and fathers. Previously the top draft age had been 25.

In a telegram to state selective service officers, Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey ordered preinduction examination for childless men 26 through 29 whom the boards "believe may qualify for military service under existing physical and occupational standards."

Hershey specifically excluded men who have been discharged from the armed forces. He said also that men with "manifest" physical disabilities should not be called for examination.

The cases of men 26 through 29 should be "reopened and reconsidered," Hershey directed, if they are found physically fit. This means they will be classified in 1-A—available for military service—unless they qualify for deferment on an occupational basis.

The War department has estimated that there are about 15,000 eligible men in the 26 to 30 age group.

Meanwhile influential senators advanced two plans to get early Senate approval of a teen-age draft under a year's extension of Selective Service and then come to grips quickly with the House on the hot issue.

Advocates of both agreed that the stop-gap draft extension will fall short of providing men needed by the armed forces.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) said he would ask the military committee to try for unanimous Senate approval of its own bill in order to begin conferences with the House immediately.

The bill calls for a full year extension with 18 and 19 year old subject to induction, an increase in pay for enlisted men of all services, and release of all fathers so desiring, together with all draftees who

Ex-Soldier Finds It Troublesome, Expensive To Come Back from Dead

TAMPA, Fla., May 17 (AP)—Carl D. Zarick, former soldier, is finding it troublesome and expensive to come back from the dead.

Zarick, now a hotel head waiter, was reported killed in action in Luxembourg and his death twice verified by the War department. His insurance policies were all paid, the government sent his mother six months pay and his Tampa landlady gave away his clothes.

And now, says the ex-soldier: "Insurance companies want their money back. The government wants the salary gratuity returned. I'm trying to replace my clothes. I'm finding my return from the casualty list complicated and expensive."

Federal Workers' Wage Boost Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A pay raise affecting 1,000,000 government employes received final congressional approval today.

The Senate approved and sent to the president a bill worked out by a conference committee of House and Senate members which would grant a fourteen per cent increase, or $250 annually, whichever is greater, to federal workers. The House previously had approved the compromise. The cost is estimated at $321,000,000 a year, but seventy-five per cent of this is to be born by an eventual reduction in the number of classified employes.

The Committee on Un-American Activities got another $75,000 which members said would be used to expose subversive elements after a sharp debate during which the group was called both a "smear" outfit and described as a bulwark against communistic activities.

In less than five minutes, the House Military committee accepted Gen. Jacob L. Devers's denial that he had referred to members of Con-

Stalin Is Said To Have Rejected Truman's Appeal

President Had Asked Russia To Co-operate in Combatting Famine

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A strategically-placed official said tonight that Generalissimo Stalin had turned down President Truman's appeal that Russia work with the United States and Britain in meeting the world famine crisis.

The official, declining to permit use of his name, said the Russian rejection was based on the contention that the appeal came too late. They said the Soviet reply indicated that commitments already made by Russia prevented fulfillment of the White House request.

There were unofficial reports that the president did not consider the Russian reply conclusive, that he was still pursuing the matter, and still hoped for Soviet aid.

This development came almost simultaneously with a joint United States-British declaration that "a risk of famine remains" despite the best they can do for other countries.

Diplomats saw the possibility of an implied reference to the Russian situation in the statement's additional comment:

No White House Comment

"Even more energetic measures are needed throughout the world. x x x This risk can be reduced insofar as other sources can be found in addition to those at present in sight and the two governments are resolved to do everything in their power to secure these additional supplies."

There was no White House comment on the report of a turn-down from Stalin.

Mr. Truman at his news conference Thursday was asked if he had been in communication with Stalin on the world food crisis. He would say only that he had been in touch with the Soviet leader and that he hoped to have something more on the matter later.

Washington diplomats said later that the president had made a direct appeal for Russian co-operation. There was nothing at that time to indicate any response had been received.

Cuts To Be Recommended

The joint communique announced that 10,000,000 tons of bread grains are in sight for the May-September period to meet requirements which the needy nations have set at 13,400,000 tons. Recommendations for "severe cuts" below these requirements accordingly will be made to the Combined Food Board.

In connection with Japan, the communique said the American government has received the import program to insure that "no imports shall be permitted which will have

Two Negroes, Found Guilty of Rape, Are Sentenced to Death

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., May 17 (AP) — James Clarence Raymond Washington, 16, and Willie Gray Taylor, 15, negro youths from Huntsville, Md., today were sentenced to death by hanging for raping a 19-year-old Seat Pleasant girl last March 17.

The sentences were announced in Prince Georges County Circuit Court by Judges Charles C. Marbury and John D. Grey, Jr., who specified that the executions be carried out on a date to be fixed by the governor. The judges found the youths guilty of rape in verdicts handed down Tuesday.

Two other youths, Charles Ross, 20, and his brother, Walter, 21, charged with the same offense, will be tried later in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court at Annapolis. Their attorney obtained a change of venue.

Schwellenbach Backs Political Action by Labor

Steel Workers Hear Secretary after Calling for Small's Dismissal

By JAMES P. HACKETT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 17. (AP) — Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach today voiced approval of political action by labor and declared unions "owe a duty and a responsibility" to the nation to improve living standards.

Schwellenbach spoke to the CIO-United Steel Workers after they passed a resolution calling on President Truman to discharge Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small and repudiate his suggestion that Congress outlaw strikes for six months.

He told the convention that "whenever a labor union attempts to do something to better the conditions of the people of the country, that is called insidious political activity." If that were so, Schwellenbach added, "then I have been doing insidious things all my life."

He urged the convention and through it the CIO to continue efforts to have Congress pass such legislation as the Fair Employment Practices Committee and the minimum wage bills without amendments.

He said:

"We live in a democracy and there is only one medium through which the people of this country may speak, and that is at the ballot box.

"I don't know of any reason in the world why the organized workers of America haven't just as much right to take an interest in the results in a free election as any other part of our population."

The steel workers charged Small with "betrayal both of his duties as civilian production administrator and of his responsibilities to the American way of life."

Small, saying he spoke only as a private citizen, said in Washington

Council Move Will Delay Action On Albania's Application to U.N.

By MAX HARRELSON

NEW YORK, May 17. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council today adopted a proposal by United States Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., which in effect defers consideration of Albania's application for United Nations membership until August.

The resolution was approved unanimously at the close of a two-hour debate on rules and procedure for the admission of new members to the world organization. The council then adjourned until an indefinite date — probably Tuesday or Wednesday of next week when the Iranian case will come up again.

The Stettinius resolution did not mention Albania specifically, but Polish Delegate Oscar Lange, one of the supporters of Albania's candidacy, pointed out that Albania was the only nation which now has an application before the United Nations.

The measure, offered as a supplement to three rules on the admission of members which the council had adopted earlier in the session, provided for a meeting or meetings of the Security council in August to consider all applications received by the secretary-general before July 15.

The applications first would be referred to a subcommittee and then reported to the council by August 1.

Lange noted that this would have the effect of delaying consideration of the Albanian application, but agreed to support the resolution with the understanding that this was not Stettinius's purpose.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, another supporter of Albania's application, offered no objection to the resolution beyond an observation that it was "useless" and that it duplicated rules already adopted. He did not mention Albania.

Stettinius, who had offered a resolution at the London session of the council proposing postponement of action on Albania's application, said his purpose in offering today's proposal was merely to facilitate the work of the council.

"Thus far," he said, "one application, that Albania, has been received, and under the resolution it would, of course, be considered by the committee.

"I think we may fairly assume, and indeed hope, that other states will soon be prepared to present their applications and that the council will be able to recommend a number of states for membership

Five Arab Countries Are Reassured by U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The United States tonight reassured five Arab countries that it would consult with them and the Jews before "taking any definite decision" to implement the recommendations of the Anglo-American committee on Palestine.

The committee called, among other things, for entry of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

The State department released identical notes sent to the diplomatic representatives of Egypt, Iraq, Lebannon, Saudi Arabia and Syria in reply to a joint Arab note of May 10.

The reply said the United States was conferring with Great Britain and made it plain that no action had yet been taken.

Cuba Frustrates Plot To Seize Army Camp

HAVANA, Cuba, May 17 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Genovevo Perez Damera, chief of the Cuban army, said today authorities had frustrated a plot by a "revolutionary movement" in the army and by civilians to seize Camp Columbia, army headquarters near Havana, early today.

"Supposedly the signal for the uprising was the two explosions accompanied by flares which occurred early this morning" at the camp, he said, but the "plan to seize the camp" did not come off.

The general issued his statement after conferring with President Ramon Grau San Martin. A flood of conflicting rumors had grown throughout the morning in the absence of any official statements.

Senate Continues To Debate Strike Control Measures

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Senate crept to the end of its first week of debate on labor disputes legislation today, still apparently far from a vote on the first of a dozen or more proposed amendments.

Advocates of new legislative restrictions have charged opponents with filibustering to block action. The opponents, for the most part strong supporters of administration policies, denied engaging in dilatory tactics. Nevertheless, there was no immediate prospect of a roll call when the Senate adjourned until Monday. The Senate is working on its version of the House-approved Case strike control measure.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) announced, however, that while he opposes most of the pending amendments to the labor laws he will fight any filibuster.

"The people apparently are going to have to learn at great cost to themselves that you can't keep democracy and go to the extreme of using government compulsion," he said. "If the Senate passes these measures in this wave of nationwide hysteria it will have bought for the American people incident after incident of violence and incident after incident of law violations."

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) stepped into the dispute over whether a filibuster is in progress. He

Lane Says He'll Win Without Sen. Tydings

BALTIMORE, May 17. (AP)—The exchange between Sen. Tydings (D-Md) and W. Preston Lane, Jr., candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, continued today with a declaration by Lane that he would win his political contest without Tyding's support.

The senator is supporting J. Millard Tawes for Democratic nomination to the governorship, over Lane and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin.

Replying to a speech by Tydings Tuesday, Lane accused the senator of "deserting" him after advising Lane to enter the primary contest. Tydings replied by saying he had never promised Lane his support but on the contrary had stated plainly to Lane that his support was not to be inferred.

In his second statement of the week, Lane reiterated that he had gone to Washington at Tydings's request and received help in preparing the announcement of his candidacy.

Franco Regime Aided Germany, Nazis Declare

Captured Officers' Statement Is Carried by Russian Newspaper

By REMBERT JAMES

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP) — Charges that the Franco regime "under the mask of neutrality actually participated in the war on the side of Germany" were made today in a statement carried by Izvestia and attributed to two captured Nazi officers who were former military attaches in Spain.

A 10,000-word statement by the two officers, addressed to the Soviet government, declared that secret plans for military collaboration on a large scale were worked out by the Spanish and German general staff at the close of the Spanish civil war.

The officers said that a secret plan was devised for the capture of Gibraltar through joint German-Spanish assault, that the Spaniards spied on British and American ship movements for the Germans, that they made Spain's ports and airfields available for German submarine and aircraft, and relayed valuable military information to Germany gained by Spanish representatives in London.

They said that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, now on trial at Nuernberg on war crimes charges, took leading roles in making the plans which included a secret "Isabella Felix" operation for seizing Gibraltar and widening Spanish possessions in Africa. It was not carried out because Hitler decided to concentrate all his efforts on beating Russia, the officers added.

The two captured Nazis were named by Izvestia as Col. Hans Remer, former German military attache in Tangier, and Lt. Gen. Gunther Krappe, former German military attache in Madrid.

"Due to the nature of our service activity in the capacity of military attaches in Tangier and Madrid, facts are known to us which show that Spain under a mask of neutrality actually participated in the war on the side of Germany," their statement said.

Krappe and Remer said that the "Isabella Felix" plan was supposed to have been carried out in con-

Union Leaders Declare Strike Will Take Place This Afternoon

President Asks Workers To Co-operate by "Remaining on Duty"

BUFORD IS NAMED FEDERAL MANAGER

Truman Declares Seizure Is Necessary in Interest of "War Effort"

By W. H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP) — (Saturday) — The federal government held control of the nation's railroad system today as it awaited workers' reaction to a presidential appeal not to go on strike at 4 p. m. this afternoon.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen and Alvanley Johnston, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the two unions involved in the strike threat, said late yesterday the strike would go on. The two unions represent 250,000 railroad workers.

But President Truman, in ordering seizure of the country's $27,000,000,000 network of rail lines, appealed to the workers over the union heads.

I call upon every employe of the railroads to co-operate with the government x x x by remaining on duty."

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomtive Fireman and Enginemen, said 25,000 members of that union would continue to operate trains on the 169 railroads for which they work, but there was some question whether they could man the equipment, under Interstate Commerce Commission rules, if yard men were not on duty.

Passenges Are Warned

Railroads meanwhile warned passengers that they might find themselves temporarily stranded after 4 p. m. (local time) should the strike go into effect.

President Truman, in ordering the federal Office of Defense Transportation to assume operation of the railroads said the seizure and continued operation of the carriers were necessary in the interest of the war effort." The country is still at war from a legal standpoint.

The seizure order, which placed the Office of Defense Transportation in command of the carriers, empowered ODT to ask the secretary of war to furnish protection for railroad employes and to supply any equipment and manpower deemed necessary.

Buford Is Named Manager

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, named Charles H. Buford, executive vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, as federal manager of the seized lines.

At the same time he appealed, in telegrams to heads of the strike-threatening unions, for recall of the walkout notice. The carriers themselves were asked in other telegrams to continue normal service.

The ODT said both executives and employes of the rail lines had been "reminded that rail operations now are a governmental undertaking and requested to fully and faithfully discharge their duties."

Johnson said he has asked the

Communism Reappears as Major Irritant in U.S.-Russian Relations

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — The state department today openly asserted its disfavor of communism in the United States and Japan.

An informal statement by Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson at a news conference focused attention on a issue which diplomatic authorities consider a major irritant in American-Russian relations and which some believe figured in the breakdown of the Paris foreign ministers conference.

This issue is an apparent struggle between Russia and the United States over the influence of communism in the domestic affairs of various countries in Europe and Asia. The policy implied in Acheson's news conference remark may be applicable to many other areas besides Japan.

Meanwhile, the Russian embassy information bulletin issued here, in an article on Soviet policy, assailed what it called American and British reactionary elements for allegedly trying to upset international cooperation. It declared that the capitalist system is failing to furnish security to its workers and to sustain employment.

Acheson's discussion of communism arose when he was asked, "Do you subscribe to the declaration of George Acheson in Tokyo that the United States does not want communism in either America or Japan?"

George Acheson is chairman and American member of the Allied Council for Japan. On May 15 he told the council in opposing actions requested by the Russian member that "the United States does not favor communism in the United States or Japan."

The acting secretary said that the State department supports this statemen.

Hoover Urges Greater Self-Denial To Save Millions from Starvation

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, reporting on his world survey of famine areas, called upon Americans tonight for greater self-denial to help save 800,000,000 persons from the "grimmest spectre of famine in all the history of the world."

Hoover departed from the text of his prepared address to assert, "these spectres are only thirty days away in most of these famine areas, for that is the outside limit of their supplies in transit."

He warned that unless more food is shipped to hunger-ridden areas during the next several months, millions will be condemned to a diet like that of prisoners in the Nazi concentration camps at Buchenwald and Belsen.

Hoover's address was for a Famine Emergency Committee meeting and a nationwide broadcast.

The former president said his 35,000-mile tour through twenty-five countries suffering from acute food shortages showed that "hunger hangs over the homes of more than 800,000,000 people—over one-third of the people of the earth.

"Hunger is a silent visitor who comes like a shadow. He sits beside every anxious mother three times each day. He brings not alone suffering and sorrow, but fear and terror. x x x

"We can save these people from the worst, if we will."

He offered two methods:

(1) Still more intensive conservation of breadstuffs and fats in North America, and

(2) The marketing of every grain of cereal on farms.

"If we can succeed in persuading every man and woman, every nation to do their utmost, we shall master this famine," he promised.

Hoover did not touch upon suggestions that this country return

An informal statement by Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson at a news conference focused attention on a issue which diplomatic authorities consider a major irritant in American-Russian relations and which some believe figured in the breakdown of the Paris foreign ministers conference.

This issue is an apparent struggle between Russia and the United States over the influence of communism in the domestic affairs of various countries in Europe and Asia. The policy implied in Acheson's news conference remark may be applicable to many other areas besides Japan.

Meanwhile, the Russian embassy information bulletin issued here, in an article on Soviet policy, assailed what it called American and British reactionary elements for allegedly trying to upset international cooperation. It declared that the capitalist system is failing to furnish security to its workers and to sustain employment.

Acheson's discussion of communism arose when he was asked, "Do you subscribe to the declaration of George Acheson in Tokyo that the United States does not want communism in either America or Japan?"

George Acheson is chairman and American member of the Allied Council for Japan. On May 15 he told the council in opposing actions requested by the Russian member that "the United States does not favor communism in the United States or Japan."

The acting secretary said that the State department supports this statemen.

Stalin Is Said To Have Rejected Truman's Appeal

President Had Asked Russia To Co-operate in Combatting Famine

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A strategically-placed official said tonight that Generalissimo Stalin had turned down President Truman's appeal that Russia work with the United States and Britain in meeting the world famine crisis.

The official, declining to permit use of his name, said the Russian rejection was based on the contention that the appeal came too late. They said the Soviet reply indicated that commitments already made by Russia prevented fulfillment of the White House request.

There were unofficial reports that the president did not consider the Russian reply conclusive, that he was still pursuing the matter, and still hoped for Soviet aid.

This development came almost simultaneously with a joint United States-British declaration that "a risk of famine remains" despite the best they can do for other countries.

Diplomats saw the possibility of an implied reference to the Russian situation in the statement's additional comment:

No White House Comment

"Even more energetic measures are needed throughout the world. x x x This risk can be reduced insofar as other sources can be found in addition to those at present in sight and the two governments are resolved to do everything in their power to secure these additional supplies."

There was no White House comment on the report of a turn-down from Stalin.

Mr. Truman at his news conference Thursday was asked if he had been in communication with Stalin on the world food crisis. He would say only that he had been in touch with the Soviet leader and that he hoped to have something more on the matter later.

Washington diplomats said later that the president had made a direct appeal for Russian co-operation. There was nothing at that time to indicate any response had been received.

Cuts To Be Recommended

The joint communique announced that 10,000,000 tons of bread grains are in sight for the May-September period to meet requirements which the needy nations have set at 13,400,000 tons. Recommendations for "severe cuts" below these requirements accordingly will be made to the Combined Food Board.

In connection with Japan, the communique said the American government has received the import program to insure that "no imports shall be permitted which will have

Two Negroes, Found Guilty of Rape, Are Sentenced to Death

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., May 17 (AP) — James Clarence Raymond Washington, 16, and Willie Gray Taylor, 15, negro youths from Huntsville, Md., today were sentenced to death by hanging for raping a 19-year-old Seat Pleasant girl last March 17.

The sentences were announced in Prince Georges County Circuit Court by Judges Charles C. Marbury and John D. Grey, Jr., who specified that the executions be carried out on a date to be fixed by the governor. The judges found the youths guilty of rape in verdicts handed down Tuesday.

Two other youths, Charles Ross, 20, and his brother, Walter, 21, charged with the same offense, will be tried later in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court at Annapolis. Their attorney obtained a change of venue.

Council Move Will Delay Action On Albania's Application to U.N.

By MAX HARRELSON

NEW YORK, May 17. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council today adopted a proposal by United States Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., which in effect defers consideration of Albania's application for United Nations membership until August.

The resolution was approved unanimously at the close of a two-hour debate on rules and procedure for the admission of new members to the world organization. The council then adjourned until an indefinite date — probably Tuesday or Wednesday of next week when the Iranian case will come up again.

The Stettinius resolution did not mention Albania specifically, but Polish Delegate Oscar Lange, one of the supporters of Albania's candidacy, pointed out that Albania was the only nation which now has an application before the United Nations.

The measure, offered as a supplement to three rules on the admission of members which the council had adopted earlier in the session, provided for a meeting or meetings of the Security council in August to consider all applications received by the secretary-general before July 15.

The applications first would be referred to a subcommittee and then reported to the council by August 1.

Lange noted that this would have the effect of delaying consideration of the Albanian application, but agreed to support the resolution with the understanding that this was not Stettinius's purpose.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, another supporter of Albania's application, offered no objection to the resolution beyond an observation that it was "useless" and that it duplicated rules already adopted. He did not mention Albania.

Stettinius, who had offered a resolution at the London session of the council proposing postponement of action on Albania's application, said his purpose in offering today's proposal was merely to facilitate the work of the council.

"Thus far," he said, "one application, that Albania, has been received, and under the resolution it would, of course, be considered by the committee.

"I think we may fairly assume, and indeed hope, that other states will soon be prepared to present their applications and that the council will be able to recommend a number of states for membership

Five Arab Countries Are Reassured by U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The United States tonight reassured five Arab countries that it would consult with them and the Jews before "taking any definite decision" to implement the recommendations of the Anglo-American committee on Palestine.

The committee called, among other things, for entry of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

The State department released identical notes sent to the diplomatic representatives of Egypt, Iraq, Lebannon, Saudi Arabia and Syria in reply to a joint Arab note of May 10.

The reply said the United States was conferring with Great Britain and made it plain that no action had yet been taken.

Schwellenbach Backs Political Action by Labor

Steel Workers Hear Secretary after Calling for Small's Dismissal

By JAMES P. HACKETT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 17 (AP) — Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach today voiced approval of political action by labor and declared unions "owe a duty and a responsibility" to the nation to improve living standards.

Schwellenbach spoke to the CIO-United Steel Workers after they passed a resolution calling on President Truman to discharge Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small and repudiate his suggestion that Congress outlaw strikes for six months.

He told the convention that "whenever a labor union attempts to do something to better the conditions of the people of the country, that is called insidious political activity." If that were so, Schwellenbach added, "then I have been doing insidious things all my life."

He urged the convention and through it the CIO to continue efforts to have Congress pass such legislation as the Fair Employment Practices Committee and the minimum wage bills without amendments.

He said:

"We live in a democracy and there is only one medium through which the people of this country may speak, and that is at the ballot box.

"I don't know of any reason in the world why the organized workers of America haven't just as much right to take an interest in the results in a free election as any other part of our population."

The steel workers charged Small with "betrayal both of his duties as civilian production administrator and of his responsibilities to the American way of life."

Small, saying he spoke only as a private citizen, said in Washington

Cuba Frustrates Plot To Seize Army Camp

HAVANA, Cuba, May 17 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Genovevo Perez Damera, chief of the Cuban army, said today authorities had frustrated a plot by a "revolutionary movement" in the army and by civilians to seize Camp Columbia, army headquarters near Havana, early today.

"Supposedly the signal for the uprising was the two explosions accompanied by flares which occurred early this morning" at the camp, he said, but the "plan to seize the camp" did not come off.

The general issued his statement after conferring with President Ramon Grau San Martin. A flood of conflicting rumors had grown throughout the morning in the absence of any official statements.

Senate Continues To Debate Strike Control Measures

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Senate crept to the end of its first week of debate on labor disputes legislation today, still apparently far from a vote on the first of a dozen or more proposed amendments.

Advocates of new legislative restrictions have charged opponents with filibustering to block action. The opponents, for the most part strong supporters of administration policies, denied engaging in dilatory tactics. Nevertheless, there was no immediate prospect of a roll call when the Senate adjourned until Monday. The Senate is working on its version of the House-approved Case strike control measure.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) announced, however, that while he opposes most of the pending amendments to the labor laws he will fight any filibuster.

"The people apparently are going to have to learn at great cost to themselves that you can't keep democracy and go to the extreme of using government compulsion," he said. "If the Senate passes these measures in this wave of nationwide hysteria it will have bought for the American people incident after incident of violence and incident after incident of law violations."

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) stepped into the dispute over whether a filibuster is in progress. He

Lane Says He'll Win Without Sen. Tydings

BALTIMORE, May 17. (AP)—The exchange between Sen. Tydings (D-Md) and W. Preston Lane, Jr., candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, continued today with a declaration by Lane that he would win his political contest without Tyding's support.

The senator is supporting J. Millard Tawes for Democratic nomination to the governorship, over Lane and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin.

Replying to a speech by Tydings Tuesday, Lane accused the senator of "deserting" him after advising Lane to enter the primary contest. Tydings replied by saying he had never promised Lane his support but on the contrary had stated plainly to Lane that his support was not to be inferred.

In his second statement of the week, Lane reiterated that he had gone to Washington at Tydings's request and received help in preparing the announcement of his candidacy.

Franco Regime Aided Germany, Nazis Declare

By REMBERT JAMES

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP) — Charges that the Franco regime "under the mask of neutrality actually participated in the war on the side of Germany" were made today in a statement carried by Izvestia and attributed to two captured Nazi officers who were former military attaches in Spain.

A 10,000-word statement by the two officers, addressed to the Soviet government, declared that secret plans for military collaboration on a large scale were worked out by the Spanish and German general staff at the close of the Spanish civil war.

The officers said that a secret plan was devised for the capture of Gibraltar through joint German-Spanish assault, that the Spaniards spied on British and American ship movements for the Germans, that they made Spain's ports and airfields available for German submarine and aircraft, and relayed valuable military information to Germany gained by Spanish representatives in London.

They said that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, now on trial at Nuernberg on war crimes charges, took leading roles in making the plans which included a secret "Isabella Felix" operation for seizing Gibraltar and widening Spanish possessions in Africa. It was not carried out because Hitler decided to concentrate all his efforts on beating Russia, the officers added.

The two captured Nazis were named by Izvestia as Col. Hans Remer, former German military attache in Tangier, and Lt. Gen. Gunther Krappe, former German military attache in Madrid.

"Due to the nature of our service activity in the capacity of military attaches in Tangier and Madrid, facts are known to us which show that Spain under a mask of neutrality actually participated in the war on the side of Germany," their statement said.

Krappe and Remer said that the "Isabella Felix" plan was supposed to have been carried out in con-

Hoover Urges Greater Self-Denial To Save Millions from Starvation

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, reporting on his world survey of famine areas, called upon Americans tonight for greater self-denial to help save 800,000,000 persons from the "grimmest spectre of famine in all the history of the world."

Hoover departed from the text of his prepared address to assert, "these spectres are only thirty days away in most of these famine areas, for that is the outside limit of their supplies in transit."

He warned that unless more food is shipped to hunger-ridden areas during the next several months, millions will be condemned to a diet like that of prisoners in the Nazi concentration camps at Buchenwald and Belsen.

Hoover's address was for a Famine Emergency Committee meeting and a nationwide broadcast.

The former president said his 35,000-mile tour through twenty-five countries suffering from acute food shortages showed that "hunger hangs over the homes of more than 800,000,000 people—over one-third of the people of the earth.

"Hunger is a silent visitor who comes like a shadow. He sits beside every anxious mother three times each day. He brings not alone suffering and sorrow, but fear and terror. x x x

"We can save these people from the worst, if we will."

He offered two methods:

(1) Still more intensive conservation of breadstuffs and fats in North America, and

(2) The marketing of every grain of cereal on farms.

"If we can succeed in persuading every man and woman, every nation to do their utmost, we shall master this famine," he promised.

Hoover did not touch upon suggestions that this country return

Union Leaders Declare Strike Will Take Place This Afternoon

BUFORD IS NAMED FEDERAL MANAGER

By W. H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP) — (Saturday) — The federal government held control of the nation's railroad system today as it awaited workers' reaction to a presidential appeal not to go on strike at 4 p. m. this afternoon.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen and Alvanley Johnston, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the two unions involved in the strike threat, said late yesterday the strike would go on. The two unions represent 250,000 railroad workers.

But President Truman, in ordering seizure of the country's $27,000,000,000 network of rail lines, appealed to the workers over the union heads.

I call upon every employe of the railroads to co-operate with the government x x x by remaining on duty."

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman and Enginemen, said 25,000 members of that union would continue to operate trains on the 169 railroads for which they work, but there was some question whether they could man the equipment, under Interstate Commerce Commission rules, if yard men were not on duty.

Passenges Are Warned

Railroads meanwhile warned passengers that they might find themselves temporarily stranded after 4 p. m. (local time) should the strike go into effect.

President Truman, in ordering the federal Office of Defense Transportation to assume operation of the railroads said the seizure and continued operation of the carriers were necessary in the interest of the war effort." The country is still at war from a legal standpoint.

The seizure order, which placed the Office of Defense Transportation in command of the carriers, empowered ODT to ask the secretary of war to furnish protection for railroad employes and to supply any equipment and manpower deemed necessary.

Buford Is Named Manager

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, named Charles H. Buford, executive vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, as federal manager of the seized lines.

At the same time he appealed, in telegrams to heads of the strike-threatening unions, for recall of the walkout notice. The carriers themselves were asked in other telegrams to continue normal service.

The ODT said both executives and employes of the rail lines had been "reminded that rail operations now are a governmental undertaking and requested to fully and faithfully discharge their duties."

Johnson said he has asked the

Mihailovic Treason Trial Is Postponed

BELGRADE, May 17 (AP) — An official of the Yugoslav ministry of information said today the treason trial of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, Chetnik leader and war minister for King Peter, had been postponed until June 10.

No reason was given. The trial had been expected to start in mid-May.

Re-enlistee Must Make Application For Allowance

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A couple of months ago I was discharged on points. Later I decided to re-enlist. I didn't do anything about my family allowance because I thought I could wait until I had reported to my Reception Center after my furlough. I've been told I should have applied as soon as I had re-enlisted. Will my wife and two children get the family allowance for the time I was on furlough?

STAFF SERGEANT

No. The law makes no provision for this. Fill out a new application as quickly as possible. The family allowance will be effective as of the first of the month in which the application is made. Since you were discharged on points and did not indicate that you were re-enlisting, the Office of Dependency Benefits has received notice of your discharge and has closed the former account.

Subsistence Allowance Increased

Dear Miss Fairfax:

If a disabled veteran wishes to take advantage of educational benefits under the GI Bill of Rights, will he receive the same subsistence allowance as an able veteran?

(MRS.) W. G.

Disabled veterans will receive the monthly subsistence allowance of $65 (without dependents) or $90 (with dependents) plus whatever pension they are entitled to by law. The minimum total amount such veterans will receive is set at $106 per month (without dependents) and $115 (with a dependent) plus $10 for the first child, $7 for each additional child, and $15 for any dependent parent.

If the veteran would otherwise receive less than these minimum amounts his allowance is raised to equal the minimum, during his period of training and for two months after.

Can't Claim Insurance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My brother died recently from a wound received while in action. He made his insurance payable to me as I had reared him and sent him to school. I've been informed that he was the father of a child born overseas, but to whose mother he was not married. If I die before all insurance is paid, can this child claim benefits?

(MRS.) F. J.

A stepchild or illegitimate child cannot be paid benefits under the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended, unless specifically designated as a principal or contingent beneficiary by the insured.

Rights Are Waived

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My daughter wishes to re-enlist in the Woman's Army Corps. However, if she should decide to marry before her second enlistment is up, will she be permitted to leave the service?

K. L. L.

No. One of the conditions for reentry in the WACS, after honorable discharge, is that volunteers must waive all rights to discharge because of marital status or age.

Some Do, Some Don't

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Why is it that some officers receive mustering-out pay and others do not?

MAJOR'S WIFE.

Certain persons discharged or released from active duty are excluded from benefits under the mustering-out pay law. Among these is any officer, who at time of discharge or release from active service, held a grade higher than that of captain in the army or marine corps, or lieutenant in the navy or coast guard, or any captain or lieutenant with over seventeen years' service for pay purposes.

Postwar Problems

If you're still in the armed services and you have a problem regarding insurance, allowances, allotments, maternity or infant care for wives and children, or desire the answer to any other service question, write to Beatrice Fairfax, care of this paper. If you wish a personal answer, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A Fabrication That Takes the Cake

OF ALL the asinine, crude and reprehensible fabrications engaged in of late, one just promulgated by the Democratic National Committee easily takes the cake.

A headline in the May issue of "The Democrat," the official publication of the committee, reads: "Truman First Year Ends in National Prosperity."

It may be wondered whether the author of such a misstatement actually believed it would find acceptance among even the most moronic of readers.

National prosperity? It is to laugh—or, rather to indulge in imprecations of despair. Instead of that the economic condition of the nation is in a chaotic condition with anything but prosperity obtaining. Seldom has there been so much unrest and dissatisfaction, so much actual hardship and frustration, so many well-meant plans knocked awry, so much uncertainty in business and industry everywhere as that which at present characterizes the national scene.

The coal strike is not yet settled and, while some transient relief has been obtained through the two weeks' working truce provided by John L. Lewis, industry everywhere is lagging, thousands of miners and other workers are idle and the prospects for a satisfactory settlement are glum. An equally serious railroad strike, with farflung possible injurious results, looms in the offing; and more than 1,000 strike notices are now on file under the Smith-Connally act. We have had enough of them in recent months to cause losses running into the billions of dollars.

Rising prices are eating away the buying power of wages and savings. Millions who were fortified by those savings are being forced to spend them and even going into debt. Food distribution is in a mess, and for the first time in the history of the nation, people are obliged to go without bread or to suffer only an inadequate supply of this staff of life.

The greatest opportunity to gain prosperity in the reconversion period has been deliberately kicked away and instead of a rising living standard which production would assure, the country is suffering exactly the opposite.

National prosperity? Why, think of the hardships and deprivations. You can't rent a house, or an apartment. You can't buy a new car. Or a refrigerator. Or a beefsteak. Or a pound of butter. Or even a pound of oleomargarine, unless you have a drag with some black marketer. Or a pair of nylons, without standing in line for hours and even then your chance of getting a pair is slim. Or a good suit at a reasonable price. Or a white shirt, or shorts, or undershirts, or a thousand and one other things classed as essentials.

And the Ku Klux Klan is reviving—and where it buys its white bedsheets, nobody knows, for you can't buy them in the stores.

What the Democratic National Committee should have stated, if it purposed to be truthful, is that, instead of national prosperity, we are witnessing—and suffering—national prostration.

Pressure Groups Defeat a Medium

MANY A THING is often made to defeat its own purposes. Time was when a congressman could get a pretty fair indication of how the political winds were blowing back home from the spontaneous mail received from his constituents. But he cannot do so now.

This is due to the work of the organized pressure groups, which shower him with letter-writing compaigns, subsidized telegrams and stereotyped postcards.

A good example of how far a congressman's mail has lessened in value is to be noted in the campaign over continuation of the OPA beyond its June 30 expiration date. This became so extensive that the anti-OPA lobbyists, frightened by the deluge of mail asking that it be retained, organized a counter mail offensive. In consequence congressmen were swamped with missives both pro and con, and it became a well-night impossible task to weed the artificial from the geneuine, which many of them did not have time to do.

Thus a genuine registration of honest opinion was frustrated. The game, if continued at its hot pace, will soon destroy, if it has not already done so, one of the best gauges of public opinion available to congressmen. In consequence, many of them will be forced to fall back on nothing better than their own judgments. That would be all right in the case of some, but as a rule two heads—or more—are better than one.

The Great Opportunity That Has Been Muffed

EVIDENCES that the American people are, as individuals, going back into debt are cited by the "Wheeling Intelligencer", along with some rather plaintive observations that the sad fact represents a nation's folly.

"The American people came out of this war with all the ingredients for an unprecedented era of plenty and prosperity at their finger tips," it says. "During the war years, they had used up a large part of the personal possessions which make up the American standard of living. They had outgrown their automobiles, their refrigerators, their radios, their clothes. They were short of houses and away back on maintenance of existing dwellings. Most of them had worked steadily throughout the war at high wages. Few of them were in debt. Almost all of them were possessed of nest-eggs of various sizes in the form of war bonds. Their industrial machine had been stepped up to a larger capacity and a faster production tempo than had existed before the war. Only a few relatively minor adjustments were needed to equip this plant for peacetime production. Most of the raw materials for the feeding of this industrial machine either were at hand or available. All we had to do was to go to work making the things we wanted."

But, alas and alack, this great opportunity has been deliberately muffed by Americans. Government threw monkey wrenches into the economic machinery, and it faltered, spluttered and rattled along when it could have slipped so easily into high gear. Today, it is noted, most of the things we need and want are scarcer than they were during war. We still stand in line for simple items of trade. Even bread has become a scarcity for the first time in the nation's history and in all probability will soon join butter and meat and stockings and sugar in the black market parade under the counter. Strikes have crippled industry, the housing program is nothing but blue prints and, in consequence, the people have exhausted their resources and are now mortgaging the future.

Where does the blame rest for thus booting away the greatest economic opportunity ever presented to any people any where at any time? Surely the American people, misled into this gigantic folly, are not so dumb as not to realize where it primarily rests.

The Glory of Being An American Citizen

THERE ARE, as this newspaper has frequently observed, entirely too many special days and weeks of observances; but none can gainsay the patriotic purposes of one of these numerous special days, which falls on Sunday, May 19, and which is known as "I Am an American day."

The day was first observed June 12 at the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles. In 1940 Congress authorized the president thus to proclaim the third Sunday of May of every year for nationwide celebrations at which the responsibilities as well as the privileges of American citizenship might be stressed.

The day is devoted especially to recently-naturalized citizens. As President Truman has noted in his proclamation, "our numerous citizens of foreign birth have . . . . helped to bring the final and complete victory over the enemies of the country which these citizens have made their own by naturalization."

Naturalization had a boom until recently as a result of the war. Aliens who had been content to remain unnaturalized begun to think differently after World War II broke out. This rush to become citizens together with sharp restrictions on immigration since 1914 has left relatively few aliens in the United States. In 1920 they numbered about eight per cent; by 1940 the figure had fallen to four and a half per cent and it is less than that now.

Every American citizen is proud and happy to say that "I Am an American" and can glory in it; while those in the country who cannot say it may well be envious of the privilege. Naturalization confers citizenship upon the alien, but being a real American implies something broader than the mere voting privilege. None can conscientously say, "I Am an American," who is not devoted to the principles enunciated in our great constitution or who violates the laws of the land and refuses to assume the responsibilities of citizenship. And that applies to those who had the good fortune to be born on American soil as well as to those who came from foreign lands to enjoy the blessings of freedom American accords them.

There should be hope that under the reorganization of governmental agencies proposed by the president the mergers will not require more jobholders than were on the pay roll beforehand but, if past experience is any criterion, it is pretty slim.

Democratic state and federal candidates are hurling "Did!" and "Didn't!" at one another now, but just wait a bit and they will be throwing heavier and hotter missiles.

A bill before a southern state legislature would make the use of lipstick unlawful. That seems to be an idea—the way some of the gals slap on the stuff is a perfect crime.

Public Opinion Is Seen Necessary To Move Senate

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Senate of the United States is in process of reacting to a crisis, a high function and a test of a legislative body's worth. Its first official action was decision to act. By a vote of 66 to 9, the Senate decided to take up labor legislation, and did so promptly.

That was the Senate as a whole. A second official action came from a small group within the Senate. These compose a majority of the committee on labor. They are only ten or eleven out of a committee membership of eighteen, and out of a total of ninety-six Senators. But by reason of their leverage in the committee on labor they have much power. The power has been used in the past to present action on measures which would restrict labor leaders and unions. That the Labor committee, through its majority, has done this is a commonplace of Washington discussion. It was put in words last week by Democratic Senator Scott Lucas, of Illinois: "I undertake to say that if the Congress of the United States cannot do anything until the committee on labor brings out legislation upon this important question . . . It may be a long, long time."

Hurry To Prevent Hurry

The committee majority's reaction to the present crisis was to propose delay. It was in a hurry to prevent hurry. It proposed a resolution that a sub-committee be appointed, a subcommittee of the committee itself, for a purpose stated as: "To examine the basic causes of labor-management disputes and the basic economic and other factors . . ."

If the crisis were not so serious, one might retain enough equanimity to recall a bit of American folklore, from a source whose stories and sayings have long been quoted to solve situations which they fitted.

The Arkansas Traveler, on a rainy day, coming upon a settler sitting on the porch of his cabin, and fiddling a lively tune, asked him why he did not put a patch on the leak in the roof. The settler, briefly interrupting his fiddling, replied tersely, "It's too wet," and resumed his tune. The traveler, persistent in interrogation, asked why he did not patch the roof when the weather was dry. To which the settler took enough time from his fiddling to say, succinctly, "Don't need it then."

Settler Would Do Likewise

If that Arkansas settler were in the position of the Labor committee majority, if he were under pressure to put his excuse for inaction in the form of a resolution, doubtless he would propose that a committee be appointed — to examine the basic causes of atmospheric phenomena which result in alternations of rain and dry weather.

Several conditions work for delay of Senate action. Some are legitimate and inescapable. The proposed legislation includes half a dozen or more separate points—mediation, cooling-off periods, liability of unions for breach of contract, methods of picketing, unionizing of foremen, royalties to unions. As to any of these there can be hours or even days of legitimate debate—upon whether a given point should be included, and, if included, what form it should take.

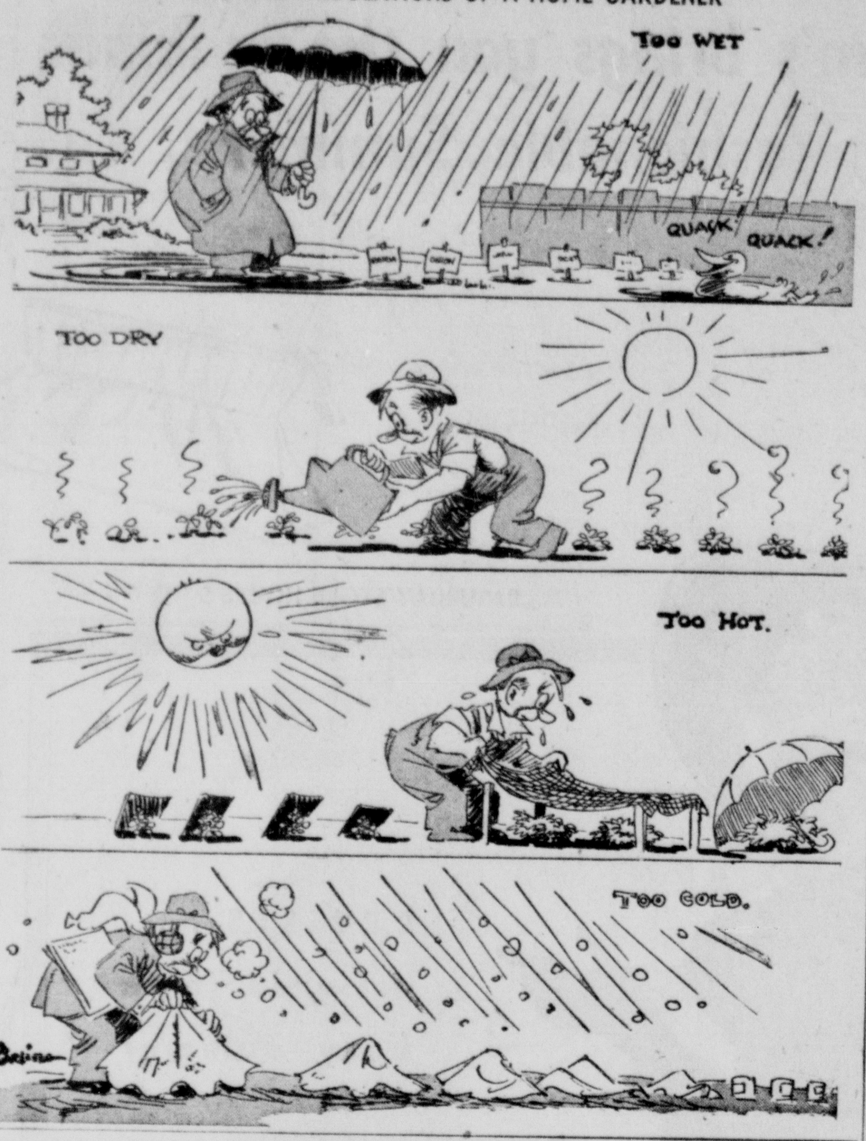

Other Measures Urgent

Aside from this, even though labor legislation be given priority, there are other measures upon which action is urgently needed, and which may have to be taken up even though the labor legislation be interrupted. Further, there is wish for a recess during a congressional campaign in which a third of the Senate seats, and all the House ones, are involved.

In addition to these conditions, there can be consumption of time by amendments proposed, or other devices, invoked for that purpose by those who wish to avoid any legislation at all. If, either by unaviodable delay or by obstructive tactics, passage of the measure is held up until the end of the present session in January, that would be triumph for the opposition. The bill that has already passed the House would die, and any legislation would have to begin all over in a new Congress.

Altogether, the outcome depends much on public opinion. Washington generally understands fully that the decisive factor is as it is put by Mr. Arthur Krock, of the New York Times: "The public pressure which drove the administration spokesmen in Congress to the present point must be sustained if really effective curbs on labor excesses are to be the outcome."

THE TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF A HOME GARDENER

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pearson Compares Rail Brotherhoods' Civil War to Row between CIO and AFL

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 17. — The threatened railroad strike, illustrates how labor politics can turn just as many somersaults as anything else on the Washington merry-go-round.

For instance, the two rail brotherhood chiefs who called the strike, A. F. Whitney, of the trainmen, and Alvaney Johnston, of the locomotive engineers, have turned a complete somersault compared with two years ago. Then they were all lovey-dovey with the government, took the initiative in arbitrating a strike, whereas the other three brotherhoods wouldn't.

But greatest somersault is by one Harry S. Truman. Two years ago, Harry Truman was whipping the brotherhoods toward wage increases. Now the same Harry Truman is trying to hold the whiphand over a rail strike.

At that time—the end of 1943—Sen. Truman had introduced a resolution providing an eight-cents-an-hour increase for railroad workers. FDR, however, opposed. And, at a meeting with the brotherhood leaders in December 1943, FDR had some strong words to say about the pay hike proposed by the man who was to succeed him.

"If Congress passes the Truman resolution," he decreed, "I shall veto it. And I shall veto any other attempt by a small group to get theirs at the expense of the nation. This is not government," he continued; "that is government by blackmail. I am shocked to come back from the battlefront, where everyone is doing such a good job, and find talk of a railroad strike.

Two Brotherhoods Do Flip Flop

Today, Harry Truman not only finds himself trying to prevent a higher wage-boost than that already given rail workers by an arbitration board—$1.28 per day—but he also finds himself with the two rail leaders who helped Roosevelt arbitrate, now flatly opposed to arbitration.

Roosevelt, faced with the strike threat, turned to his best fail-worker friend at one memorable rail conference, and said: "I'm going to begin by asking you, Al, if you will accept me as sole arbitrator."

"Speaking for the trainmen, we'll accept, Mr. President," replied Whitney without a moment's thought.

Other brotherhood leaders asked more time to consider, and a hot fight developed between Whitney and Johnston on one side and the three other brotherhood leaders: Harry Fraser of the conductors; Tom Cashen, of the switchmen, and Davey Robertsen, of the firemen. The latter three stubbornly resisted Roosevelt's arbitration plea and only accepted belatedly.

Now the situation is diametrically the opposite. The three who refused to arbitrate at Roosevelt's request—the conductors, firemen and switchmen—have already accepted Truman's arbitration offer and the award of $1.28 a day has been recommended. (They are not happy about the amount awarded, but believe in continuing their trade.) However, FDR's old friends, Whitney and Johnston, not even agreeing to arbitrate, have called the strike.

Rail Bitterness Deepens

For a long time, bad blood had existed between the trainmen-engineer brotherhoods and the other three—conductors, switchmen and firemen. It has been somewhat like the CIO-AFL row, but the bitterness deepened after the Roosevelt arbitration dispute.

Whitney, at the time, sent a letre to all his trainmen excoriating the other brotherhoods for refusing to arbitrate—a letter which doesn't put him in such a good light today.

Among other things, he made up a little poem which read:

"Three blind mice—hear how they talk!
They all refuse to arbitrate—
They're gambling with their country's fate—
Though the hour is getting late
For the three blind mice."

"Were they afraid to trust the president?" Whitney asked his fellow trainmen in the round-robin letter. "Or is it possible that they (the other three brotherhoods) were playing organization politics in the hope that they may strengthen their numerical and financial condition?"

The letter didn't help ease the brotherhood feud; though the conductors, switchmen and firemen, who have now accepted arbitration, consider Whitney's epistle just a little bit ludicrous today.

Lone Wolf Whitney

A. F. Whitney, the man who now refuses to arbitrate, is the son of a preacher, was born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the same state which nurtured John L. Lewis. He got his first job as a news butcher on the Chicago and Northwestern, later graduating to brakeman on the Illinois Central, is considered the most brilliant and able of the brotherhood leaders. FDR once sent him to Buenos Aires as a delegate to a Pan-American conference.

Whitney long has been the lone-wolf of the brotherhoods, and in one Chicago meeting in 1937, J. A. Phillips, then head of the railway conductors, made serious charges against him. Whitney replied with an epithet, and Phillips threw an ink bottle at Whitney's head.

One reason for Whitney's lone-wolf attitude, especially for his troubles with the Order of Railway Conductors, is that his union has about 16,000 conductors—or more than one third of the organized railroad conductors. This dates back to the days when many trainmen, promoted to be conductors, decided to remain with Whitney's trainmen instead of joining the Order of Railway Conductors.

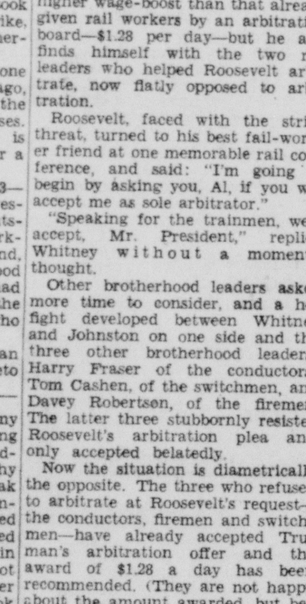

At one time, the Order of Railway Conductors staged a drive to organize all conductors, but made little headway in raiding Whitney's union. By and large, his conductors remained as loyal to him as Whitney himself was to his idol, the late Franklin Roosevelt.

Capital Chaff

It was a tribute to Majority Whip John Sparkman when the House voted to accept the compromise authorizing $400,000,000 in subsidies for the producers of building materials. Other administration leaders were afraid of the vote, but Sparkman knew that many congressmen had heard from disappointed veterans at home. So he went to work on the telephone and on the House floor—buttonholing both Democrats and Republicans. Housing subsidies were carried by nearly fifty votes. . . . Officers of the battleship Missouri put up a loud howl last Navy day when New York souvenir hunters took many objects from the ship. But when they were guests of Paul Alling, minister to Tangier, last month at his home there, Alling had to complain to the captain that dozens of silver and gold heirlooms disappeared from his home.

HEADS BOY SCOUTS

A VETERAN LEADER in the Boy Scouts of America since 1923, Amory Houghton, 47, industriallist, of Corning, N. Y., was elected president of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, at the organization's thirty-sixth annual meeting at St. Louis.

Active Leadership By President Is Viewed As Vital

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 17—President Truman has to make a major decision soon—whether he will allow the economic system to become further demoralized or whether he will use the powers of his office and the statutes as he did during the war to insure a continuance of of economic operations during the postwar period.

Britain legislated to retain her wartime controls for another five years because the conditions arising after V-J day were deemed to be a part of or to be in direct consequence of the war itself. Mr. Truman has indicated to callers that he thinks the British were foresighted and that he wishes America had done the same thing.

Opportunity Is Presented

Now the opportunity is presented for the president to insist that reconversion be regarded as of paramount necessity to the national welfare. He can, if he chooses, reinstitute wage and salary controls and maintain price controls under the Second War Prowers act. Extentensions required can be gotten from Congress if the president formulates an over-all program and takes his case to the country.

What is needed is executive leadership. Congress would rather see the president take the initiative than to do so itself. The coming elections have confused the members somewhat, as was indicated by their failure to give the Selective Service system the authority it requested.

There has recently been little cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of the government, largely because Mr. Truman has endeavored just to "get along" with Congress. Presidents in recent years have been succesful in getting legislation through the Senate and House only in proportion to their ability to persuade the country that it is necessary.

Drifting Loses Support

Naturally the country accepts the argument of a president when it has confidence in his judgment. Mr. Truman has allowed his hold on the country to be frittered away to some extent by his drifting policy on labor questions. He has hestitated—and it is said for political reasons—to put the weight of his office behind bills to curb the monopoly powers of labor unions and to penalize abuses of collective bargaining. If Mr. Truman permits the country to be injured by a drifting policy, he cannot expect to get supporters when he does cry "national disaster."

If Mr. Truman is thinking about politics, there's a good argument for an aggressive leadership on what might be termed "middle-o-the-road" policies. Certainly the nation isn't in a radical mood and the contention of the PAC folks that acceptance of their views is necessary to a 1948 victory for Mr. Truman falls to the ground because the Republicans will never nominate a radical or a New Dealer. Mr. Truman stands to benefit by retaining the middle or independent vote, plus the regular Democratic vote.

Majority Possible

By his appointments to the supreme court and by his willingness to get the Wagner Labor Relations act clarified without eliminating any of the rights that labor should retain, Mr. Truman will be able to maintain a majority in the electorate. Just as Mr. Roosevelt stayed in office by reaching into the opposite political party, so Mr. Truman will find it necessary to do likewise. Only Mr. Truman this time will discover that the voters on the radical fringe would not dare to start a third party and thus insure the election of a Republican and hence they must stay in the Democratic party.

It is unfortunate that politics must play such a controlling part in the making of decisions hereabouts. But if politics is the prime consideration, there is every reason the middle-of-the-road viewpoint for an asserted leadership to reflect which the country has today. That viewpoint is succinctly expressed in this way — America never has belonged and never should belong to any special group or class. The Jeffersonian motto of special privileges for none and equality for all still is the basic American doctrine which, if sincerely applied, can win elections.

One Day at a Time

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Too many people try to live two or three days all at once. The result is that they end with incomplete days, that is, days in which little have been accomplished, and with a confused mind thrown in.

Our abilities may be whipped to extremes, but if they do not merge, each supplementing the other, there is confusion, and time is consumed needlessly. We need to learn to appreciate the value of a single hour. Napoleon once said that the reason why he beat the Austrians was that they did not know "the value of five minutes." And it is also said of this same Napoleon that the reason he lost Waterloo was that he did not start the battle soon enough.

Life's achievements are a matter of the use of time. One day at a time is all that is portioned out to us. It's an equal gift to us all. If we worry about it, our mind immediately clouds up, and our efficiency is lowered. We can only make the most of each hour, and pack it full!

To make this one day at a time the most productive we must learn to concentrate upon but one thing at a time, and seek to do that one job better than it has ever been done before. Then we can happily pass to the next job, or to the next step ahead.

We cannot afford to clutter up these precious days with past regrets, or with mornings as to mistakes and failures. One day at a time is all that we have to work with. If we can season our lives with many a touch of beauty, many a good deed performed, or many a task conscienciously worked out successively, then we should end the day with at least a good measure of satisfaction.

To live but one day at a time is not an easy assignment, but nothing in life is actually easy, if it is worth while. I believe it was Lowell who wrote:

"Only those are crowned and sainted,
Who with grief have been acquainted,
Making nations nobler, freer."

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

They're really thinking of everything for the post-war world. Now they're going to have telephones in automobiles. And, of course, everyone is speculating on how practical it's going to be. I think it's a great idea, myself . . . especially, for the women drivers. If a pedestrian steps out in front of their cars, they can call up and have a bed all reserved for him at the nearest hospital before he hits the ground.

The idea should be especially popular in Los Angeles. Just think . . . pretty soon you'll be able to go through a red light and say goodbye to your family at the same time.

They've already experimented with a few, and they have worked out pretty well, too, except in one case. A fellow was talking to his wife and she happened to be the suspicious type. He had an awful time convincing her that the noise she heard was just his windshield wiper and not a girl slapping him. Of course, it is a little confusing for the telephone operators. One driver called to get the time and the operatime and the operator said, "When you hear the back-fire, it will be exactly seven-thirty."

And the telephone company has already developed a system to make sure you pay your bills. If you get too far overdue and you're driving long the highway, someone just pushes a button and your car automatically goes into reverse and backs into its nearest branch.

A Fabrication That Takes the Cake

OF ALL the asinine, crude and reprehensible fabrications engaged in of late, one just promulgated by the Democratic National Committee easily takes the cake.

A headline in the May issue of "The Democrat," the official publication of the committee, reads: "Truman First Year Ends in National Prosperity."

It may be wondered whether the author of such a misstatement actually believed it would find acceptance among even the most moronic of readers.

National prosperity? It is to laugh—or, rather to indulge in imprecations of despair. Instead of that the economic condition of the nation is in a chaotic condition with anything but prosperity obtaining. Seldom has there been so much unrest and dissatisfaction, so much actual hardship and frustration, so many well-meant plans knocked awry, so much uncertainty in business and industry everywhere as that which at present characterizes the national scene.

The coal strike is not yet settled and, while some transient relief has been obtained through the two weeks' working truce provided by John L. Lewis, industry everywhere is lagging, thousands of miners and other workers are idle and the prospects for a satisfactory settlement are glum. An equally serious railroad strike, with farflung possible injurious results, looms in the offing; and more than 1,000 strike notices are now on file under the Smith-Connally act. We have had enough of them in recent months to cause losses running into the billions of dollars.

Rising prices are eating away the buying power of wages and savings. Millions who were fortified by those savings are being forced to spend them and even going into debt. Food distribution is in a mess, and for the first time in the history of the nation, people are obliged to go without bread or to suffer only an inadequate supply of this staff of life.

The greatest opportunity to gain prosperity in the reconversion period has been deliberately kicked away and instead of a rising living standard which production would assure, the country is suffering exactly the opposite.

National prosperity? Why, think of the hardships and deprivations. You can't rent a house, or an apartment. You can't buy a new car. Or a refrigerator. Or a beefsteak. Or a pound of butter. Or even a pound of oleomargarine, unless you have a drag with some black marketer. Or a pair of nylons, without standing in line for hours and even then your chance of getting a pair is slim. Or a good suit at a reasonable price. Or a white shirt, or shorts, or undershirts, or a thousand and one other things classed as essentials.

And the Ku Klux Klan is reviving—and where it buys its white bedsheets, nobody knows, for you can't buy them in the stores.

What the Democratic National Committee should have stated, if it purposed to be truthful, is that, instead of national prosperity, we are witnessing—and suffering—national prostration.

Pressure Groups Defeat a Medium

MANY A THING is often made to defeat its own purposes. Time was when a congressman could get a pretty fair indication of how the political winds were blowing back home from the spontaneous mail received from his constituents. But he cannot do so now.

This is due to the work of the organized pressure groups, which shower him with letter-writing campaigns, subsidized telegrams and stereotyped postcards.

A good example of how far a congressman's mail has lessened in value is to be noted in the campaign over continuation of the OPA beyond its June 30 expiration date. This became so extensive that the anti-OPA lobbyists, frightened by the deluge of mail asking that it be retained, organized a counter mail offensive. In consequence congressmen were swamped with missives both pro and con, and it became a well-night impossible task to weed the artificial from the geneuine, which many of them did not have time to do.

Thus a genuine registration of honest opinion was frustrated. The game, if continued at its hot pace, will soon destroy, if it has not already done so, one of the best gauges of public opinion available to congressmen. In consequence, many of them will be forced to fall back on nothing better than their own judgments. That would be all right in the case of some, but as a rule two heads—or more—are better than one.

The Great Opportunity That Has Been Muffed

EVIDENCES that the American people are, as individuals, going back into debt are cited by the "Wheeling Intelligencer", along with some rather plaintive observations that the sad fact represents a nation's folly.

"The American people came out of this war with all the ingredients for an unprecedented era of plenty and prosperity at their finger tips," it says. "During the war years, they had used up a large part of the personal possessions which make up the American standard of living. They had outgrown their automobiles, their refrigerators, their radios, their clothes. They were short of houses and away back on maintenance of existing dwellings. Most of them had worked steadily throughout the war at high wages. Few of them were in debt. Almost all of them were possessed of nest-eggs of various sizes in the form of war bonds. Their industrial machine had been stepped up to a larger capacity and a faster production tempo than had existed before the war. Only a few relatively minor adjustments were needed to equip this plant for peacetime production. Most of the raw materials for the feeding of this industrial machine either were at hand or available. All we had to do was to go to work making the things we wanted."

But, alas and alack, this great opportunity has been deliberately muffed by Americans. Government threw monkey wrenches into the economic machinery, and it faltered, spluttered and rattled along when it could have slipped so easily into high gear. Today, it is noted, most of the things we need and want are scarcer than they were during war. We still stand in line for simple items of trade. Even bread has become a scarcity for the first time in the nation's history and in all probability will soon join butter and meat and stockings and sugar in the black market parade under the counter. Strikes have crippled industry, the housing program is nothing but blue prints and, in consequence, the people have exhausted their resources and are now mortgaging the future.

Where does the blame rest for thus booting away the greatest economic opportunity ever presented to any people any where at any time? Surely the American people, misled into this gigantic folly, are not so dumb as not to realize where it primarily rests.

The Glory of Being An American Citizen

THERE ARE, as this newspaper has frequently observed, entirely too many special days and weeks of observances; but none can gainsay the patriotic purposes of one of these numerous special days, which falls on Sunday, May 19, and which is known as "I Am an American day."

The day was first observed June 12 at the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles. In 1940 Congress authorized the president thus to proclaim the third Sunday of May of every year for nationwide celebrations at which the responsibilities as well as the privileges of American citizenship might be stressed.

The day is devoted especially to recently-naturalized citizens. As President Truman has noted in his proclamation, "our numerous citizens of foreign birth have . . . . helped to bring the final and complete victory over the enemies of the country which these citizens have made their own by naturalization."

Naturalization had a boom until recently as a result of the war. Aliens who had been content to remain unnaturalized begun to think differently after World War II broke out. This rush to become citizens together with sharp restrictions on immigration since 1914 has left relatively few aliens in the United States. In 1920 they numbered about eight per cent; by 1940 the figure had fallen to four and a half per cent and it is less than that now.

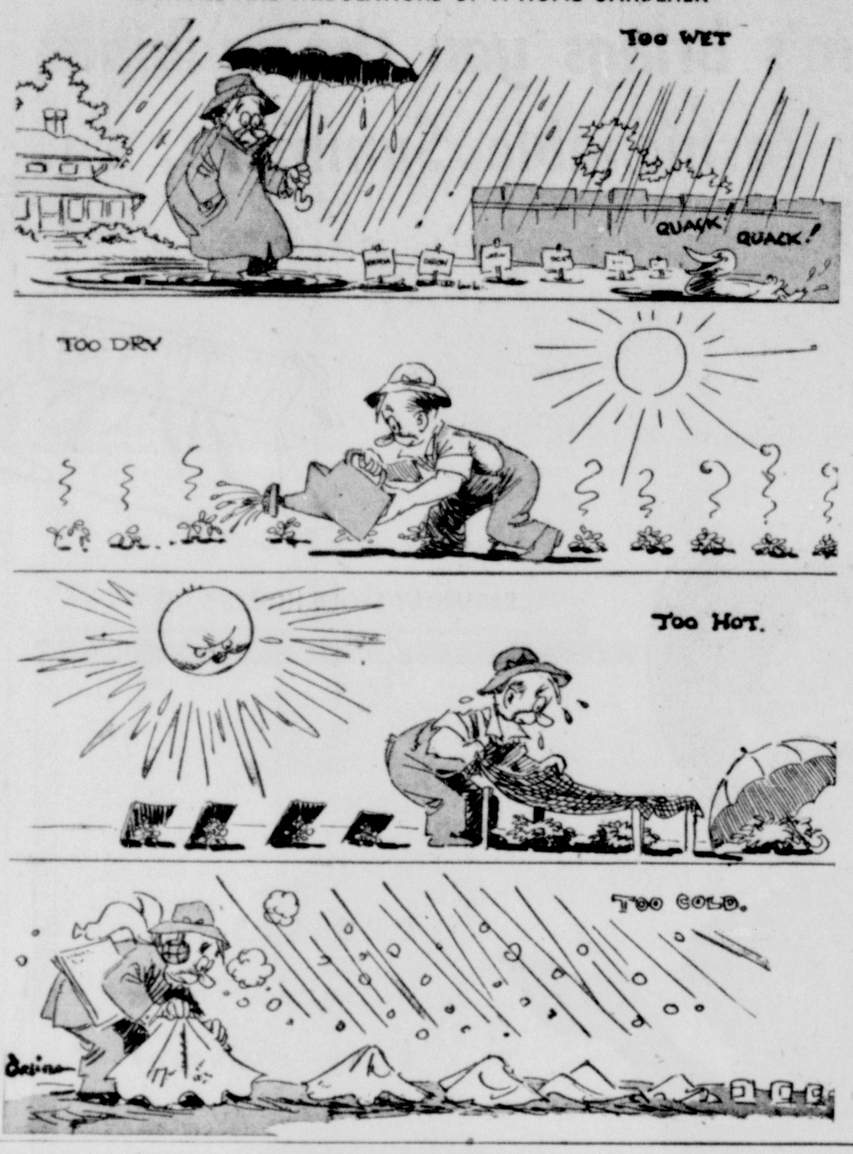

Every American citizen is proud and happy to say that "I Am an American" and can glory in it; while those in the country who cannot say it may well be envious of the privilege. Naturalization confers citizenship upon the alien, but being a real American implies something broader than the mere voting privilege. None can conscientously say, "I Am an American," who is not devoted to the principles enunciated in our great constitution or who violates the laws of the land and refuses to assume the responsibilities of citizenship. And that applies to those who had the good fortune to be born on American soil as well as to those who came from foreign lands to enjoy the blessings of freedom American accords them.

There should be hope that under the reorganization of governmental agencies proposed by the president the mergers will not require more jobholders than were on the pay roll beforehand but, if past experience is any criterion, it is pretty slim.

Democratic state and federal candidates are hurling "Did!" and "Didn't!" at one another now, but just wait a bit and they will be throwing heavier and hotter missiles.

A bill before a southern state legislature would make the use of lipstick unlawful. That seems to be an idea—the way some of the gals slap on the stuff is a perfect crime.

THE TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF A HOME GARDENER

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pearson Compares Rail Brotherhoods' Civil War to Row between CIO and AFL

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 17. — The threatened railroad strike illustrates how labor politics can turn just as many somersaults as anything else on the Washington merry-go-round.

For instance, the two rail brotherhood chiefs who called the strike, A. F. Whitney, of the trainmen, and Alvaney Johnston, of the locomotive engineers, have turned a complete somersault compared with two years ago. Then they were all lovey-dovey with the government, took the initiative in arbitrating a strike, whereas the other three brotherhoods wouldn't.

But greatest somersault is by one Harry S. Truman. Two years ago, Harry Truman was whipping the brotherhoods toward wage increases. Now the same Harry Truman is trying to hold the whiphand over a rail strike.

At that time—the end of 1943—Sen. Truman had introduced a resolution providing an eight-cents-an-hour increase for railroad workers. FDR, however, opposed. And, at a meeting with the brotherhood leaders in December 1943, FDR had some strong words to say about the pay hike proposed by the man who was to succeed him.

"If Congress passes the Truman resolution," he decreed, "I shall veto it. And I shall veto any other attempt by a small group to get theirs at the expense of the nation. This is not government," he continued; "that is government by blackmail. I am shocked to come back from the battlefront, where everyone is doing such a good job, and find talk of a railroad strike.

Two Brotherhoods Do Flip Flop

Today, Harry Truman not only finds himself trying to prevent a higher wage-boost than that already given rail workers by an arbitration board—$1.28 per day—but he also finds himself with the two rail leaders who helped Roosevelt arbitrate, now flatly opposed to arbitration.

Roosevelt, faced with the strike threat, turned to his best fail-worker friend at one memorable rail conference, and said: "I'm going to begin by asking you, Al, if you will accept me as sole arbitrator."

"Speaking for the trainmen, we'll accept, Mr. President," replied Whitney without a moment's thought.

Other brotherhood leaders asked more time to consider, and a hot fight developed between Whitney and Johnston on one side and the three other brotherhood leaders: Harry Fraser of the conductors; Tom Cashen, of the switchmen, and Davey Robertsen, of the firemen. The latter three stubbornly resisted Roosevelt's arbitration plea and only accepted belatedly.

Now the situation is diametrically the opposite. The three who refused to arbitrate at Roosevelt's request—the conductors, firemen and switchmen—have already accepted Truman's arbitration offer and the award of $1.28 a day has been recommended. (They are not happy about the amount awarded, but believe in continuing their trade.) However, FDR's old friends, Whitney and Johnston, not even agreeing to arbitrate, have called the strike.

Rail Bitterness Deepens

For a long time, bad blood had existed between the trainmen-engineer brotherhoods and the other three—conductors, switchmen and firemen. It has been somewhat like the CIO-AFL row, but the bitterness deepened after the Roosevelt arbitration dispute.

Whitney, at the time, sent a letre to all his trainmen excoriating the other brotherhoods for refusing to arbitrate—a letter which doesn't put him in such a good light today. Among other things, he made up a little poem which read:

"Three blind mice—hear how they talk!
They all refuse to arbitrate—
They're gambling with their country's fate—
Though the hour is getting late

"Were they afraid to trust the president?" Whitney asked his fellow trainmen in the round-robin letter. "Or is it possible that they (the other three brotherhoods) were playing organization politics in the hope that they may strengthen their numerical and financial condition?"

The letter didn't help ease the brotherhood feud; though the conductors, switchmen and firemen, who have now accepted arbitration, consider Whitney's epistle just a little bit ludicrous today.

Lone Wolf Whitney

A. F. Whitney, the man who now refuses to arbitrate, is the son of a preacher, was born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the same state which nurtured John L. Lewis. He got his first job as a news butcher on the Chicago and Northwestern, later graduating to brakeman on the Illinois Central, is considered the most brilliant and able of the brotherhood leaders. FDR once sent him to Buenos Aires as a delegate to a Pan-American conference.

Whitney long has been the lone-wolf of the brotherhoods, and in one Chicago meeting in 1937, J. A. Phillips, then head of the railway conductors, made serious charges against him. Whitney replied with an epithet, and Phillips threw an ink bottle at Whitney's head.

One reason for Whitney's lone-wolf attitude, especially for his troubles with the Order of Railway Conductors, is that his union has about 16,000 conductors—or more than one third of the organized railroad conductors. This dates back to the days when many trainmen, promoted to be conductors, decided to remain with Whitney's trainmen instead of joining the Order of Railway Conductors.

At one time, the Order of Railway Conductors staged a drive to organize all conductors, but made little headway in raiding Whitney's union. By and large, his conductors remained as loyal to him as Whitney himself was to his idol, the late Franklin Roosevelt.

Capital Chaff

It was a tribute to Majority Whip John Sparkman when the House voted to accept the compromise authorizing $400,000,000 in subsidies for the producers of building materials. Other administration leaders were afraid of the vote, but Sparkman knew that many congressmen had heard from disappointed veterans at home. So he went to work on the telephone and on the House floor—buttonholing both Democrats and Republicans. Housing subsidies were carried by nearly fifty votes. . . . Officers of the battleship Missouri put up a loud howl last Navy day when New York souvenir hunters took many objects from the ship. But when they were guests of Paul Alling, minister to Tangier, last month at his home there, Alling had to complain to the captain that dozens of sliver and gold heirlooms disappeared from his home.

Public Opinion Is Seen Necessary To Move Senate

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Senate of the United States is in process of reacting to a crisis, a high function and a test of a legislative body's worth. Its first official action was decision to act. By a vote of 66 to 9, the Senate decided to take up labor legislation, and did so promptly.

That was the Senate as a whole. A second official action came from a small group within the Senate. These compose a majority of the committee on labor. They are only ten or eleven out of a committee membership of eighteen, and out of a total of ninety-six Senators. But by reason of their leverage in the committee on labor they have much power. The power has been used in the past to present action on measures which would restrict labor leaders and unions. That the Labor committee, through its majority, has done this is a commonplace of Washington discussion. It was put in words last week by Democratic Senator Scott Lucas, of Illinois: "I undertake to say that if the Congress of the United States cannot do anything until the committee on labor brings out legislation upon this important question . . . It may be a long, long time."

Hurry To Prevent Hurry

The committee majority's reaction to the present crisis was to propose delay. It was in a hurry to prevent hurry. It proposed a resolution that a sub-committee be appointed, a subcommittee of the committee itself, for a purpose stated as: "To examine the basic causes of labor-management disputes and the basic economic and other factors . . ."

If the crisis were not so serious, one might retain enough equanimity to recall a bit of American folklore, from a source whose stories and sayings have long been quoted to solve situations which they fitted. The Arkansas Traveler, on a rainy day, coming upon a settler sitting on the porch of his cabin, and fiddling a lively tune, asked him why he did not put a patch on the leak in the roof. The settler, briefly interrupting his fiddling, replied tersely, "It's too wet," and resumed his tune. The traveler, persistent in interrogation, asked why he did not patch the roof when the weather was dry. To which the settler took enough time from his fiddling to say, succinctly, "Don't need it then."

Settler Would Do Likewise

If that Arkansas settler were in the position of the Labor committee majority, if he were under pressure to put his excuse for inaction in the form of a resolution, doubtless he would propose that a committee be appointed — to examine the basic causes of atmospheric phenomena which result in alternations of rain and dry weather.

Several conditions work for delay of Senate action. Some are legitimate and inescapable. The proposed legislation includes half a dozen or more separate points—mediation, cooling-off periods, liability of unions for breach of contract, methods of picketing, unionizing of foremen, royalties to unions. As to any of these there can be hours or even days of legitimate debate—upon whether a given point should be included, and, if included, what form it should take.

Other Measures Urgent

Aside from this, even though labor legislation be given priority, there are other measures upon which action is urgently needed, and which may have to be taken up even though the labor legislation be interrupted. Further, there is wish for a recess during a congressional campaign in which a third of the Senate seats, and all the House ones, are involved.

In addition to these conditions, there can be consumption of time by amendments proposed, or other devices, invoked for that purpose by those who wish to avoid any legislation at all. If, either by unavoidable delay or by obstructive tactics, passage of the measure is held up until the end of the present session in January, that would be triumph for the opposition. The bill that has already passed the House would die, and any legislation would have to begin all over in a new Congress.

Altogether, the outcome depends much on public opinion. Washington generally understands fully that the decisive factor is as it is put by Mr. Arthur Krock, of the New York Times: "The public pressure which drove the administration spokesmen in Congress to the present point must be sustained if really effective curbs on labor excesses are to be the outcome."

Active Leadership By President Is Viewed As Vital

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 17—President Truman has to make a major decision soon—whether he will allow the economic system to become further demoralized or whether he will use the powers of his office and the statutes as he did during the war to insure a continuance of of economic operations during the postwar period.

Britain legislated to retain her wartime controls for another five years because the conditions arising after V-J day were deemed to be a part of or to be in direct consequence of the war itself. Mr. Truman has indicated to callers that he thinks the British were foresighted and that he wishes America had done the same thing.

Opportunity Is Presented

Now the opportunity is presented for the president to insist that reconversion be regarded as of paramount necessity to the national welfare. He can, if he chooses, reinstitute wage and salary controls and maintain price controls under the Second War Prowers act. Extentensions required can be gotten from Congress if the president formulates an over-all program and takes his case to the country.

What is needed is executive leadership. Congress would rather see the president take the initiative than to do so itself. The coming elections have confused the members somewhat, as was indicated by their failure to give the Selective Service system the authority it requested.

There has recently been little cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of the government, largely because Mr. Truman has endeavored just to "get along" with Congress. Presidents in recent years have been succesful in getting legislation through the Senate and House only in proportion to their ability to persuade the country that it is necessary.

Drifting Loses Support

Naturally the country accepts the argument of a president when it has confidence in his judgment. Mr. Truman has allowed his hold on the country to be frittered away to some extent by his drifting policy on labor questions. He has hestitated—and it is said for political reasons—to put the weight of his office behind bills to curb the monopoly powers of labor unions and to penalize abuses of collective bargaining. If Mr. Truman permits the country to be injured by a drifting policy, he cannot expect to get supporters when he does cry "national disaster."

If Mr. Truman is thinking about politics, there's a good argument for an aggressive leadership on what might be termed "middle-o-the-road" policies. Certainly the nation isn't in a radical mood and the contention of the PAC folks that acceptance of their views is necessary to a 1948 victory for Mr. Truman falls to the ground because the Republicans will never nominate a radical or a New Dealer. Mr. Truman stands to benefit by retaining the middle or independent vote, plus the regular Democratic vote.

Majority Possible

By his appointments to the supreme court and by his willingness to get the Wagner Labor Relations act clarified without eliminating any of the rights that labor should retain, Mr. Truman will be able to maintain a majority in the electorate. Just as Mr. Roosevelt stayed in office by reaching into the opposite political party, so Mr. Truman will find it necessary to do likewise. Only Mr. Truman this time will discover that the voters on the radical fringe would not dare to start a third party and thus insure the election of a Republican and hence they must stay in the Democratic party.

It is unfortunate that politics must play such a controlling part in the making of decisions hereabouts. But if politics is the prime consideration, there is every reason the middle-of-the-road viewpoint for an asserted leadership to reflect which the country has today. That viewpoint is succinctly expressed in this way — America never has belonged and never should belong to any special group or class. The Jeffersonian motto of special privileges for none and equality for all still is the basic American doctrine which, if sincerely applied, can win elections.

Union Presents Proposed Contract To Retail Stores

Copies of proposed working agreements for clerks employed in local stores have been distributed to all downtown department and apparel stores, William R. McGinnis, Pittsburgh, international representative of the AFL Retail Clerks Union, reported yesterday.

McGinnis said the strike at Peskin's Shoe Store is still in progress but added the union and management are "closer together" and that the return of one discharged employe and a union shop are the chief issues now. He added union members decline to return to work while several workers who worked during the strike are kept on the payroll.

Propose Contract

The proposed contract calls for the following wage scale:

Clerks, $20 to $28 weekly; cashiers $22 to $30; department heads $35 to $40; seamstresses for women's clothing, $25 to $35; seamstresses for men's clothing, $30 to $45; stock clerks, $20 to $25; elevator operators, $20 to $25; office employes, $22 to $30.

Anyone not receiving an increase under the scale would be raised $3 weekly and commission would be set at two per cent of sales.

Other proposals include a union shop, 40-hour week, one-hour lunch period, no overtime work except in cases of emergencies when a regular employe is furloughed, customers in store at closing time to be serviced, extra employes to be paid for at least four hours, no staggering of hours, overtime at time and one-half with the exception that double time shall be paid for Sundays, New Year's day, Memorial day, Labor day, Thanksgiving day, and Christmas, no wage reductions.

Other Benefits

Commissions, discounts, health and other benefits to continue, contributions to charitable causes on voluntary basis, vacations of one week with pay for employes with one year service and two weeks for those with two years or more of service, sick leave of six days with pay after a year or more of service, seniority rights, arbitration in case of disputes, one week's notice in case of a discharge, and bulletin board provisions are also included in the proposals.

Magic of Metal

SUNDAY SNACK . . . With aluminum smorgasbord rack.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New aluminum designed for home use won't be confined exclusively to the kitchen in the present postwar world. Mrs. Housewife can take advantage of its lightness and brightness in the parlor, bedroom and bath too.

There will still be the usual run of kitchen utensils, but even these are streamlined. A new pressure cooker is shiny and bright enough to make its appearance at the dining table when the top is removed.

One special treat for Mom is the new rustproof aluminum indoor dryer which even Junior can lift. It can be stored away in the smallest place possible and will be perfectly at home in the broom closet.

Card tables of the metal have legs which can be easily manipulated merely by pushing a button. And if you don't like its metal top, you can have a bright red or green one.

For Sunday night suppers, there is a smorgasbord rack with plates and salad bowl of aluminum. Coasters, candlesticks and fruit bowl are of the same metal to carry out the theme.

Even baby comes in for his share with the new aluminum baby bath which makes it a cinch for Mom to carry baby, bath and all.

Of particular interest to Dad, say officials of the Aluminum Company of America, is the rowoat made entirely of the metal and weighing only about 35 pounds. The outboard motor is of the same metal and if Dad is going fishing he can also find a fly box of aluminum.

For the gardener there are rust-proof gardening tools.

The boys in the family who delight in putting their feet up on the chairs standing on them or using them to play games with will be delighted with the new scuff proof chairs.

A new aluminum house which will make its appearance soon is circular and has a domed roof. It is made of aluminum, stainless steel and plastic. Its design resembles that of a streamlined airplane. One advantage of this new circular house is that it is fireproof. The elimination of corners, in the circular rooms makes it virtually dustproof.

Salvation Army Expenses Mount

Expenses of the Salvation Army here in April were the heaviest in some time, Adjt. Robert S. Ball, local commander, told members of the Advisory board in submitting his monthly report.

Ball said total expenses amounted to $2,175.40, and pointed out that expenses seldom run in excess of $2,000. One factor causing the high figure, he said, was expenses incurred with the appearance here of the Cadet Crusaders.

The Salvation Army held ninety-two senior meetings with a total attendance of 1,894 in April. These included meetings of the Home League, public indoor meetings and open air services. Attendance at open air services includes only persons taking part.

There were forty-three young people's meetings, including Sunday school, religious training and character classes and youth program classes. Attendance was 900.

Service and relief included thirteen grocery orders, fifty-four garments and fourteen pairs of shoes. Transient relief included sixty-three meals, thirty-five lodgings and one transportation furnished.

Adjt. Ball announced that Commissioner William Osborne, London, England, has been elected general of the Salvation Army, the seventh general to be named, including Gen. William Booth who organized the Salvation Army in 1865 and served as a general until his death in 1912. The new general is a New Zealander by birth.

He discussed the standing of Western Maryland college, the improvements planned in the faculty, educational system and building program.

T. K. Harrison, alumni secretary, told of the home coming weekend at the college on May 25 and 26; and the alumni weekend June 8 and 9. The Rev. John B. Jones, director of public relations at the college, explained the Living Endowment fund.

Railroad Management

gardless of the government's action, he declared. Under the strike order United States mail trains will not be moved, it was indicated.

History of Case

In White's notice to B. and O. railroad officials, he included the following history of the case as released from Washington by President Harry S. Truman, yesterday afternoon:

"A request for wage increases and forty-four rules changes was made by the five operating unions. The carriers on July 24, 1945, made a counter proposal calling for twenty-nine rules changes. At about the same time proposals and counter proposals were made by fifteen non-operating unions and the carriers.

The Railway Labor act provides for negotiation, mediation and voluntary arbitration, or if arbitration cannot be agreed upon emergency fact finding boards or panels may be selected to hear and make recommendations as to the settlement of wage or rules issued.

In following the Railway Labor act machinery three of the operating unions and the fifteen non-operating unions representing eighty-five per cent of all the railroad employes agreed to give wage first attention thereby taking the rules out of the discussion until the wage requests were settled. These eighteen organizations then agreed to arbitrate the wage question. The Arbitration boards heard the wage case and awarded an increase of $1.28 per day.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen declined to separate the rules and wage requests, and upon failure to reach a settlement in mediation declined to arbitrate. They took a strike vote thus creating a situation requiring the appointment of an emergency board under Section 10 of the Railway Labor act. The emergency board heard the case and recommended a wage increase of $1.28 per day and some rules changes. It remanded the other proposed rules changes to the parties for negotiations under a time schedule which would permit the completion of the job.

Recommendations Rejected

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen rejected the emergency board recommendations in its entirety.

Under Section 10 of the Railway Labor act no change except by agreement may be made in conditions out of which a dispute arose until recommendation was filed April 18, 1946.

The union executive officers of the Engineers and Trainmen set 4 p. m., May 18, 1946, as the date for striking unless a settlement satisfactory to them should be reached prior to that time.

The order provided for the taking over of the roads by the government contains guarantees of preservation of existing wage rates and working conditions except as they may be changed by agreement in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor act."

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP) — A "stand by" agreement between the Western Maryland railway and the railroad brotherhoods promised to keep men on the line working tomorrow even if the threatened national strike should occur.

The agreement has been in effect several years and stipulates that any benefits derived through the brotherhoods by negotiations with other roads will be applied to trainmen and engineers of the Western Maryland, a company spokesman explained today.

It is similar to that on twenty-six other roads, mostly terminal and belt lines.

The Western Maryland, however, is a "class one" system and a large percentage of its business originates and terminates on its own trackage. The spokesman said the line will be able to continue some measure of operation if the strike occurs.

It apparently is the only Maryland road not threatened by the strike.

The Maryland and Pennsylvania, a "class two" line, does not have a "stand by" agreement. Superintendent J. G. Nance said that, in event of a national walkout, such an agreement would be "worthless" because ninety-nine per cent of the company's business is interchangeable with other lines and traffic would "dwindle to nothing."

Labor Group To Urge Adoption of Price Control Ordinance

The mayor and city council will be asked within a week or ten days to adopt a price control ordinance by a committee representing the Labor Unity Conference, according to Paul L. Burley, conference secretary.

At a meeting Thursday evening at the Allegany Trades Council hall the conference named a committee to get copies of the ordinance adopted in other cities and to submit them to the council.

The committee, which was also authorized to discuss the need for playground and recreational facilities with the council, includes C. E. Stutzman, William Boyd Coleman, W. J. Jones, G. E. Parker, Thomas Condon, Edward Brookman, J. H. Humbertson and Charles E. Bramble.

Parker reported on alleged rent control violations in Ridgeley and declared that enforcement is lacking. The situation will be called to the attention of rent control officials.

William McGinnis, international representative for the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association spoke regarding the strike at the Peskin Shoe store and the conference voted to urge support of the picket line.

Lacy Speaks Briefly

James J. Lacy, Baltimore, candidate for comptroller on the Lane ticket, told the audience that Lane's candidacy has gained much impetus in the last six weeks in the state and said that "Pres is taking Baltimore City by storm."

James E. Kenney, Westernport, chairman of the Lane for Governor committee, presided at last night's meeting and first introduced Simeon F. Reilly, attorney in charge of the Lane headquarters.

Reilly, who made an address that evoked considerable applause, told the audience there are two reasons why Allegany countains should support Lane. The first reason is local pride—pride in the fact that Lane is a Western Marylander, Reilly said. The second reason is the fact that Lane is a war veteran, the speaker said.

Reilly, who was recently discharged from the service, declared "and Pres Lane wasn't any cellophane-commissioned officer and he didn't get a Purple Heart for Pentagonitis. He was an infantry soldier and you know what that means. Pres Lane was an enlisted man's officer and no higher compliment can be paid to him. And he understands veterans' problems.

Following the meeting, Lane, a former commander of the Maryland State Guard, attended a dance given in his honor by Cumberland units of the Guard at the state armory. Meanwhile, at the Forty and Eight Club a short distance away a petition was being circulated to support Lane as the only veteran possibility in the gubernatorial race.

Brakel; and Dr. Nicholas Barbella, Washington, D. C., staff chemist for the unit.

Dr. Barbella, who joined the unit May 6 after working with a nutrition unit in Gainesville, Fla., formerly served as a research chemist for the department of Agriculture and a pharmacologist for the federal food and drug administration. From 1942 until 1945 he served in Colombia, South America, as director of nutrition for the health and sanitation division of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

During that time Dr. Barbella worked with the Colombian ministry of health and labor in setting up a nutrition program for the entire country. His work included building and equipping a research laboratory for the Colombian government at the capital, Bogota, training personnel and preparing national exhibits in nutrition, and studying edemic goiter, with which nearly one million persons, or one-tenth of the total population, were afflicted at that time.

EMERGENCY RADIO UNIT WILL BE ORGANIZED HERE

F. E. Handy, communications manager of the American Radio Relay League, national association of radio amateurs, announced yesterday that Wilfred A. Thompson, 428 Baltimore avenue, who operates Station W3AQV, and L. R. Jenkins, 708 Louisiana avenue, operator of Station W3JCR, have been selected to set up an organization of Cumberland amateur radio operators prepared to furnish organized emergency communication in case of disaster.

Their assignment, which carries the title of emergency coordinators, is to band together members of the amateur radio service in this community to perfect arrangements for emergency radio communication by hams in the event of natural disasters or other emergencies. In addition to use of normal station equipment working from commercial power, amateur stations using self-powered radio transmitting and receiving equipment are needed.

Thompson and Jenkins, as ARRL emergency coordinators, will call local meetings of amateurs, establish common operating procedures, and arrange regular drill periods when the hams' personal stations may be mobilized under simulated emergency conditions. Their duties also include liaison planning with the local chapter of the American Red Cross and other relief agencies, as suggested in the working understanding the ARRL Emergency Corps has with the national headquarters of the American Red Cross and other agencies. Liaison will be established also with local protective services, such as fire and police departments.

compensation, and workmen's compensation. These subjects need constant survey and improvement with changing conditions. I am against legislation seeking to impede and cripple labors right to organize".

Tawes stressed the rising wave of juvenile delinquency and said he favors two possible solutions, (A) city and county recreational, educational and cultural programs; (B) a method to provide workers who will see to it that the youth of the area will use the program. He recommends and favors state assistance and possible state-wide standard n such a program.

Elaborating on this subject Tawes says he favors the "Youth Correction act", as recommended by the American Law Institute, designed to treat juvenile delinquents as individuals and emphasizing those qualities which will guide the delinquent into becoming a friendlier member of society.

Promising to speak again and outline his and his running mates' program on the judicial system, state legislature, public health, veterans' legislation, administration of criminal justice, natural resources, state merit system and other fields of state activity, Tawes took a few minutes to comment upon two other things.

Referring to Cumberland flood control, he said he has studied the question and conferred with city officials and army engineers studying the project. He said he is convinced the program is sensible and workable, and as governor he would lend it his support and "would have no hesitation in advocating a bond issue designed to meet Cumberland's proportion for that construction."

He also expressed the opinion that an effort should be made, and he said he would help make the effort, that the Savage River Dam project should be completed.

"This partisan individual now has the unmitigated effrontery to propose that industry's greed for profits be furthered at the expense of working people by prohibiting strikes for six months x x x."

AFL Would Oust Small

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The AFL executive council voted today to ask President Truman to oust John D. Small as civilian production administrator because he suggested that Congress outlaw strikes for six months.

A similar request was voiced today by the CIO steel workers in a resolution adopted by their convention in Atlantic City.

Other events scheduled for Memorial day by the Lions include a parade in the morning and a baseball game between Hyndman and Mt. Savage in the afternoon.

The observance of Memorial day will be concluded with a street fair in the evening. Proceeds of the event will be used toward the fund for crippled children and purchasing hospital beds.

Centre Street Methodist Church Sanctuary Is Being Redecorated

Morning worship tomorrow and the following Sunday will be held in the social hall at Centre Street Methodist church, because the sanctuary, choir room and vestibules are being repainted, according to the Rev. Walter Marion Michael, pastor. At the evening worship service the prayer meeting room will be used.

The Rev. Mr. Michael said that services will be held as usual in the sanctuary on Sunday, June 2.

Redecorating work was started early this week by a Westernport contractor, and will take nearly three weeks for completion.

The work is part of a two-year program of improvements, the pastor said. Next year it is hoped to rearrange the downstairs section of the church, where Bible classes are conducted in two rooms separated by folding doors, so that part of the space can be converted into a chapel for evening and prayer services. The chapel will be planned to seat 100 persons. Repairs to the steeple will also be made next year.

The Rev. Mr. Michael also announced that rollerskating parties held each Friday evening for the past several months in the church basement for youngsters up to 12 years of age will be discontinued Friday, May 24, for the summer months. The parties, under the direction of Lloyd Valentine, a teacher in the church Sunday school, will be resumed in the fall.

Three Forfeit Bonds On Motor Law Charges

Three bond forfeitures were docketed yesterday in trial magistrates' court, when three motorists failed to appear in answer to charges preferred by Maryland State Police officers.

Kenneth W. Morrisey, of Harrison street, arrested by State Trooper Thomas G. Barton on a charge of failure to stop at a boulevard stop sign, forfeited bond of $6.75.

Betty J. Diehl, of Wiley Ford, W. Va., forfeited bond of $11.45 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license. John Breighner, also of Wiley Ford, forfeited a bond of like amount, for permitting an unlicensed person to drive his car. The pair was arretsed by Trooper H. A. Holsinger, on North Centre street.

Remer said he was asked in July, 1940, to issue fifty false passports for German officers assigned to study the fitness of Spanish roads for Nazi motorized armed columns.

In August, 1940, the statement added, Spain increased her forces in Morocco from 30,000 to 100,000 men. The next month a Spanish division practicing maneuvers to storm Gibraltar performed so well their commander told the Germans his men "could take Gibraltar in twenty minutes."

The Nazis said the roads, fortifications and even rock samples from Gibraltar were studied, and that the attackers were to consist of one Spanish infantry division and one German Alpine division, supported by German artillery and aircraft.

Krappe and Remer said that the last fixed date for storming Gibraltar was January 10, 1941, but the operation was never carried out because Hitler decided against trying to invade England and 'concentrated on defeating the Soviet Union.

The second plan, advanced by Sen. Hill (D-Ala), Democratic whip, calls for the Senate to take up the draft act next week even if it means temporarily putting aside pending anti-strike legislation.

Union Leaders

secretary of war and the attorney general for such assistance as may be needed, but Buford said he contemplates no use of the military for running the trains.

Asked what would happen if the unions did not rescind their strike call, Johnson said the next step would depend on how the men behave.

"If they quit there will be a very perilous time in transportation," he said. "I would continued to run the roads but very much reduced."

Johnson Is Hopeful

He said "firemen can run the trains," but newsmen told him heads of those unions had said their men would not do other men's work.

"Did they?" Johnson asked.

Asked if he had any expectation that the engineers and trainmen would remain at work, Johnson replied:

"I have great hopes that they will."

The strike, if it materializes, raises the prospect of a complete tie-up of the nation's biggest transportation agencies, on the heels of a soft coal walkout that already has thrown the reconversion effort out of gear.

The seizure order was signed by Mr. Truman at 2:50 p. m. in the presence of A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, and Alvanley Johnston, chief of the engineers' brotherhood, the two unions directly involved in the strike threat.

Then as they left the White House after a visit of only three or four minutes, the two union leaders told reporters the strike would go on. The time for it is 4 p. m. Local standard time in all zones.

While only the 250,000 engineers and trainmen are directly involved in the strike call, some 1,400,000 employes of the nation's rail system will be affected, since the two brotherhoods are composed of key men who run the trains on the 227,335 miles of American railroads.

337 Carriers Are Seized

The seizure order, effective at 4 p. m., EST., yesterday named 337 carriers specifically. Twenty-seven small systems, mostly terminal and belt lines, were exempt from the strike order under stand-by agreements which guarantee their workers any benefits the unions win from the bigger carriers.

Before the union leaders conferred with Mr. Truman, Whitney told reporters:

"We'll keep our mouths shut if the roads are taken over by the government.

"We'll abide by the Smith-Connally (labor disputes) act, and all you've got to do is keep your mouth closed. The Smith-Connally act is not in effect now."

Whitney argued that the Smith-Connally act's penalties for encouraging a strike against a government-seized facility do not operate unless the call is issued after the property is seized. The current strike call came out a month ago.

Three other operating brotherhoods who also are arguing with the carriers over pay and working conditions, were reported ready to show up on the job for the government, but they could do little without engineers and trainmen. They are the conductors, firemen and switchmen. H. W. Fraser, head of the conductors, said these workers would not do anyone else's job.

Maryland Trainmen Prepare for Walkout

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Heads of local railroad brotherhoods said tonight their members, trainmen and engineers on the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads, were going ahead with plans for tomorrow's strike, in the absence of orders to the contrary from national officers.

William Morris, acting state legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in Maryland, said the 4,500 to 5,000 members of his organization were set to strike at 4 p. m., tomorrow, in accordance with the original plan.

W. C. Thompson, president of Local 52, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the 300 members of his union would meet tomorrow morning to complete strike plans. "So we'll be all prepared at 4 o'clock."

gardless of the government's action, he declared. Under the strike order United States mail trains will not be moved, it was indicated.

History of Case

In White's notice to B. and O. railroad officials, he included the following history of the case as released from Washington by President Harry S. Truman, yesterday afternoon:

"A request for wage increases and forty-four rules changes was made by the five operating unions. The carriers on July 24, 1945, made a counter proposal calling for twenty-nine rules changes. At about the same time proposals and counter proposals were made by fifteen non-operating unions and the carriers.

The Railway Labor act provides for negotiation, mediation and voluntary arbitration, or if arbitration cannot be agreed upon emergency fact finding boards or panels may be selected to hear and make recommendations as to the settlement of wage or rules issued.

In following the Railway Labor act machinery three of the operating unions and the fifteen non-operating unions representing eighty-five per cent of all the railroad employes agreed to give wage first attention thereby taking the rules out of the discussion until the wage requests were settled. These eighteen organizations then agreed to arbitrate the wage question. The Arbitration boards heard the wage case and awarded an increase of $1.28 per day.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen declined to separate the rules and wage requests, and upon failure to reach a settlement in mediation declined to arbitrate. They took a strike vote thus creating a situation requiring the appointment of an emergency board under Section 10 of the Railway Labor act. The emergency board heard the case and recommended a wage increase of $1.28 per day and some rules changes. It remanded the other proposed rules changes to the parties for negotiations under a time schedule which would permit the completion of the job.

Recommendations Rejected

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen rejected the emergency board recommendations in its entirety.

Under Section 10 of the Railway Labor act no change except by agreement may be made in conditions out of which a dispute arose until recommendation was filed April 18, 1946.

The union executive officers of the Engineers and Trainmen set 4 p. m., May 18, 1946, as the date for striking unless a settlement satisfactory to them should be reached prior to that time.

The order provided for the taking over of the roads by the government contains guarantees of preservation of existing wage rates and working conditions except as they may be changed by agreement in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor act."

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP) — A "stand by" agreement between the Western Maryland railway and the railroad brotherhoods promised to keep men on the line working tomorrow even if the threatened national strike should occur.

The agreement has been in effect several years and stipulates that any benefits derived through the brotherhoods by negotiations with other roads will be applied to trainmen and engineers of the Western Maryland, a company spokesman explained today.

It is similar to that on twenty-six other roads, mostly terminal and belt lines.

The Western Maryland, however, is a "class one" system and a large percentage of its business originates and terminates on its own trackage. The spokesman said the line will be able to continue some measure of operation if the strike occurs.

It apparently is the only Maryland road not threatened by the strike.

The Maryland and Pennsylvania, a "class two" line, does not have a "stand by" agreement. Superintendent J. G. Nance said that, in event of a national walkout, such an agreement would be "worthless" because ninety-nine per cent of the company's business is interchangeable with other lines and traffic would "dwindle to nothing."

Labor Group To Urge Adoption of Price Control Ordinance

The mayor and city council will be asked within a week or ten days to adopt a price control ordinance by a committee representing the Labor Unity Conference, according to Paul L. Burley, conference secretary.

At a meeting Thursday evening at the Allegany Trades Council hall the conference named a committee to get copies of the ordinance adopted in other cities and to submit them to the council.

The committee, which was also authorized to discuss the need for playground and recreational facilities with the council, includes C. E. Stutzman, William Boyd Coleman, W. J. Jones, G. E. Parker, Thomas Condon, Edward Brookman, J. H. Humbertson and Charles E. Bramble.

Parker reported on alleged rent control violations in Ridgeley and declared that enforcement is lacking. The situation will be called to the attention of rent control officials.

William McGinnis, international representative for the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association spoke regarding the strike at the Peskin Shoe store and the conference voted to urge support of the picket line.

Lacy Speaks Briefly

James J. Lacy, Baltimore, candidate for comptroller on the Lane ticket, told the audience that Lane's candidacy has gained much impetus in the last six weeks in the state and said that "Pres is taking Baltimore City by storm."

James E. Kenney, Westernport, chairman of the Lane for Governor committee, presided at last night's meeting and first introduced Simeon F. Reilly, attorney in charge of the Lane headquarters.

Reilly, who made an address that evoked considerable applause, told the audience there are two reasons why Allegany countains should support Lane. The first reason is local pride—pride in the fact that Lane is a Western Marylander, Reilly said. The second reason is the fact that Lane is a war veteran, the speaker said.

Reilly, who was recently discharged from the service, declared "and Pres Lane wasn't any cellophane-commissioned officer and he didn't get a Purple Heart for Pentagonitis. He was an infantry soldier and you know what that means. Pres Lane was an enlisted man's officer and no higher compliment can be paid to him. And he understands veterans' problems.

Following the meeting, Lane, a former commander of the Maryland State Guard, attended a dance given in his honor by Cumberland units of the Guard at the state armory. Meanwhile, at the Forty and Eight Club a short distance away a petition was being circulated to support Lane as the only veteran possibility in the gubernatorial race.

Dr. Barbella, who joined the unit May 6 after working with a nutrition unit in Gainesville, Fla., formerly served as a research chemist for the department of Agriculture and a pharmacologist for the federal food and drug administration. From 1942 until 1945 he served in Colombia, South America, as director of nutrition for the health and sanitation division of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

During that time Dr. Barbella worked with the Colombian ministry of health and labor in setting up a nutrition program for the entire country. His work included building and equipping a research laboratory for the Colombian government at the capital, Bogota, training personnel and preparing national exhibits in nutrition, and studying edemic goiter, with which nearly one million persons, or one-tenth of the total population, were afflicted at that time.

EMERGENCY RADIO UNIT WILL BE ORGANIZED HERE

F. E. Handy, communications manager of the American Radio Relay League, national association of radio amateurs, announced yesterday that Wilfred A. Thompson, 428 Baltimore avenue, who operates Station W3AQV, and L. R. Jenkins, 708 Louisiana avenue, operator of Station W3JCR, have been selected to set up an organization of Cumberland amateur radio operators prepared to furnish organized emergency communication in case of disaster.

Their assignment, which carries the title of emergency coordinators, is to band together members of the amateur radio service in this community to perfect arrangements for emergency radio communication by hams in the event of natural disasters or other emergencies. In addition to use of normal station equipment working from commercial power, amateur stations using self-powered radio transmitting and receiving equipment are needed.

Thompson and Jenkins, as ARRL emergency coordinators, will call local meetings of amateurs, establish common operating procedures, and arrange regular drill periods when the hams' personal stations may be mobilized under simulated emergency conditions. Their duties also include liaison planning with the local chapter of the American Red Cross and other relief agencies, as suggested in the working understanding the ARRL Emergency Corps has with the national headquarters of the American Red Cross and other agencies. Liaison will be established also with local protective services, such as fire and police departments.

compensation, and workmen's compensation. These subjects need constant survey and improvement with changing conditions. I am against legislation seeking to impede and cripple labors right to organize".

Tawes stressed the rising wave of juvenile delinquency and said he favors two possible solutions, (A) city and county recreational, educational and cultural programs; (B) a method to provide workers who will see to it that the youth of the area will use the program. He recommends and favors state assistance and possible state-wide standard n such a program.

Elaborating on this subject Tawes says he favors the "Youth Correction act", as recommended by the American Law Institute, designed to treat juvenile delinquents as individuals and emphasizing those qualities which will guide the delinquent into becoming a friendlier member of society.

Promising to speak again and outline his and his running mates' program on the judicial system, state legislature, public health, veterans' legislation, administration of criminal justice, natural resources, state merit system and other fields of state activity, Tawes took a few minutes to comment upon two other things.

Referring to Cumberland flood control, he said he has studied the question and conferred with city officials and army engineers studying the project. He said he is convinced the program is sensible and workable, and as governor he would lend it his support and "would have no hesitation in advocating a bond issue designed to meet Cumberland's proportion for that construction."

He also expressed the opinion that an effort should be made, and he said he would help make the effort, that the Savage River Dam project should be completed.

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The AFL executive council voted today to ask President Truman to oust John D. Small as civilian production administrator because he suggested that Congress outlaw strikes for six months.

Centre Street Methodist Church Sanctuary Is Being Redecorated

Morning worship tomorrow and the following Sunday will be held in the social hall at Centre Street Methodist church, because the sanctuary, choir room and vestibules are being repainted, according to the Rev. Walter Marion Michael, pastor. At the evening worship service the prayer meeting room will be used.

The Rev. Mr. Michael said that services will be held as usual in the sanctuary on Sunday, June 2.

Redecorating work was started early this week by a Westernport contractor, and will take nearly three weeks for completion.

The work is part of a two-year program of improvements, the pastor said. Next year it is hoped to rearrange the downstairs section of the church, where Bible classes are conducted in two rooms separated by folding doors, so that part of the space can be converted into a chapel for evening and prayer services. The chapel will be planned to seat 100 persons. Repairs to the steeple will also be made next year.

The Rev. Mr. Michael also announced that rollerskating parties held each Friday evening for the past several months in the church basement for youngsters up to 12 years of age will be discontinued Friday, May 24, for the summer months. The parties, under the direction of Lloyd Valentine, a teacher in the church Sunday school, will be resumed in the fall.

John Breighner, also of Wiley Ford, forfeited a bond of like amount, for permitting an unlicensed person to drive his car. The pair was arretsed by Trooper H. A. Holsinger, on North Centre street.

Remer said he was asked in July, 1940, to issue fifty false passports for German officers assigned to study the fitness of Spanish roads for Nazi motorized armed columns.

In August, 1940, the statement added, Spain increased her forces in Morocco from 30,000 to 100,000 men. The next month a Spanish division practicing maneuvers to storm Gibraltar performed so well their commander told the Germans his men "could take Gibraltar in twenty minutes."

The Nazis said the roads, fortifications and even rock samples from Gibraltar were studied, and that the attackers were to consist of one Spanish infantry division and one German Alpine division, supported by German artillery and aircraft.

Krappe and Remer said that the last fixed date for storming Gibraltar was January 10, 1941, but the operation was never carried out because Hitler decided against trying to invade England and 'concentrated on defeating the Soviet Union.

Other developments:

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) offered an amendment which would require compulsory arbitration of strikes involving public utilities.

Sen. Overton (D-La) advocated formation of a consumers' league to protect the interests of the vast buying public.

Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) proposed legislation giving the federal bureau of mines authority to enforce safety regulations in the coal industry. He explained that the bureau now has power to inspect mines, but no authority to require that its safety standards be met

Meanwhile the Agriculture department announced grain exports of 105,000 tons during the first ten days of May against a quota of 1,100,000 tons for the whole month.

Herbert Morrison, president of the British cabinet council, disclosed that Britain has agreed to relinquish another 200,000 tons of wheat for other nations during the May-September period and called this a "hard blow."

95 ENTRIES ARE SUBMITTED HERE IN PICTURE CONTEST

Ninety-five entries were submitted to the chamber of commerce in its contest to obtain pictures of Cumberland for use in a descriptive pamphlet on the city, according to a report submitted at the meeting of the chamber's directors Thursday night.

The entries were turned over to the judges Thursday and the winners will be announced at a later date. The range of subjects was termed excellent.

The Highway Transportation committee, Oscar Gurley, chairman, reported that it plans to meet with the state roads commission to see what road development is scheduled for the county this year.

An industrial survey of Allegany county being conducted by Dr. Eugene Halaas, of the University of Maryland, is progressing, the Industrial committee reported. Dr. Halaas recently returned to the university after spending a week here collecting additional information, and now he is beginning the compilation of data.

The twenty-sixth hole is now being drilled at Dutch Hollow, near Mt. Savage, in an exploration of coal seams of the county, according to the industrial committee.

Henry W. Price, national councilor, reported on the national convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States held April 30 to May 3 at Atlantic City.

The annual meeting of the chamber has been set for July 23.

The second plan, advanced by Sen. Hill (D-Ala), Democratic whip, calls for the Senate to take up the draft act next week even if it means temporarily putting aside pending anti-strike legislation.

Union Leaders

secretary of war and the attorney general for such assistance as may be needed, but Buford said he contemplates no use of the military for running the trains.

Asked what would happen if the unions did not rescind their strike call, Johnson said the next step would depend on how the men behave.

"If they quit there will be a very perilous time in transportation," he said. "I would continued to run the roads but very much reduced."

Johnson Is Hopeful

He said "firemen can run the trains," but newsmen told him heads of those unions had said their men would not do other men's work.

"Did they?" Johnson asked.

Asked if he had any expectation that the engineers and trainmen would remain at work, Johnson replied:

"I have great hopes that they will."

The strike, if it materializes, raises the prospect of a complete tie-up of the nation's biggest transportation agencies, on the heels of a soft coal walkout that already has thrown the reconversion effort out of gear.

The seizure order was signed by Mr. Truman at 2:50 p. m. in the presence of A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, and Alvanley Johnston, chief of the engineers' brotherhood, the two unions directly involved in the strike threat.

Then as they left the White House after a visit of only three or four minutes, the two union leaders told reporters the strike would go on. The time for it is 4 p. m. Local standard time in all zones.

While only the 250,000 engineers and trainmen are directly involved in the strike call, some 1,400,000 employes of the nation's rail system will be affected, since the two brotherhoods are composed of key men who run the trains on the 227,335 miles of American railroads.

337 Carriers Are Seized

The seizure order, effective at 4 p. m., EST., yesterday named 337 carriers specifically. Twenty-seven small systems, mostly terminal and belt lines, were exempt from the strike order under stand-by agreements which guarantee their workers any benefits the unions win from the bigger carriers.

Before the union leaders conferred with Mr. Truman, Whitney told reporters:

"We'll keep our mouths shut if the roads are taken over by the government.

"We'll abide by the Smith-Connally (labor disputes) act, and all you've got to do is keep your mouth closed. The Smith-Connally act is not in effect now."

Whitney argued that the Smith-Connally act's penalties for encouraging a strike against a government-seized facility do not operate unless the call is issued after the property is seized. The current strike call came out a month ago.

Three other operating brotherhoods who also are arguing with the carriers over pay and working conditions, were reported ready to show up on the job for the government, but they could do little without engineers and trainmen. They are the conductors, firemen and switchmen. H. W. Fraser, head of the conductors, said these workers would not do anyone else's job.

Maryland Trainmen Prepare for Walkout

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Heads of local railroad brotherhoods said tonight their members, trainmen and engineers on the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads, were going ahead with plans for tomorrow's strike, in the absence of orders to the contrary from national officers.

William Morris, acting state legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in Maryland, said the 4,500 to 5,000 members of his organization were set to strike at 4 p. m., tomorrow, in accordance with the original plan.

W. C. Thompson, president of Local 52, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the 300 members of his union would meet tomorrow morning to complete strike plans. "So we'll be all prepared at 4 o'clock."

Radio Week Is Observed Here By Kiwanis Club

Program Is Presented by Charles Z. Heskett and Miss Maxwell Croft

The Cumberland Kiwanis Club observed "Kiwanis Radio Week" at its meeting Thursday with Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, who is connected with the Associated Broadcasting Company, which operates WTBO here, and Miss Maxwell Croft, a member of the WTBO staff participating in the program.

Miss Croft, who came here from Texas about a year and a half ago entertained the Kiwanians with two readings which were well received.

Heskett traced the histroy of radio and said the growth of radio in this country is proof that free enterprise is not dead in America. He said the impact of radio on the business world has been tremendous and that radio as a medium for entertainment and marchandising has had a marked influence on the American way of life.

Radio executives are continually searching for young persons with talent who can be used in radio work, Heskett stated. He said he was aware of the fact that there is some criticisms of commercials, but added that sponsors of various radio shows are making it possible for millions to listen to good programs. He said every effort is being made to keep commercials from being offensive.

Heskett said that it is the duty of the radio and press to give the public the truth, but that how to always obtain the truth is quite a problem. He says radio is trying to determine what is the truth in disseminating information and that it always will struggle to obtain it. He urged the preservation of American ideals and spoke out against government interferring with the liberty of Americans.

The Rev. H. Hall Sharp gave a brief report on the visit of twenty-two Kiwanians to Washington last week and reviewed the high spots of the address of Hamilton Holt, president of Kiwanis International.

Della B. Wright Wins Annulment Of Her Marriage

Cocktail Lounge Employe Charges Her Husband Was already Married

Chief Judge William A. Huster has annulled the marriage of Della Blue, commonly known as Della Blue Wright, to Harold B. Wright.

Mrs. Wright, 29, 147 Polk street, who is employed in a downtown cocktail lounge, informed the court that after her marriage to Wright last year she learned that he had another wife in Pennsylvania.

The petitioner said that she and Wright were married after knowing each other a month. Three days after they were married, her husband was arrested on a charge of car stealing and was sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction, she said.

When her husband confessed that he was already married, the petitioner made inquiries and learned that he was still wedded to Mrs. Blanche Malehorn Wrigitt, Dauphin, Pa.

The court also gave the petitioner the right to resume her maiden name of Blue. She was represented by William A. Gunter.

The court granted an absolute divorce to Genevieve Joan (Stowell) Arnold from Lawrnce Christian Arnold and dismissed the crossbill filed by the husband.

In her petition docketed by Morgan C. Harris, Mrs. Arnold, 31, 113 South Allegany street, said they were married in 1937 at Westernport. Later they lived at 314 Washington street, Cumberland and they separated in 1943. Mrs. Arnold charged that she caught her husband in a bathroom with another woman while attending a party in Westernport.

After the separation, the wife joined the WAC and served from 1943 to 1945, when she was given a medical discharge. She is unable to support herself at present due to her health, she said. She charged that her husband earns $400 a month, which was denied by the husband in his cross bill.

The husband was represented by Edward J. Ryan.

It was indicated last night that the members of the club were prepared to hear Mr. Rittase's remarks regarding their work with composure and equanimity.

The regular meeting of the club will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Knights of Malta hall. Contestants have been asked to submit their pictures by Saturday at Harvey's Jewelry Store.

CARTER ADMITS TWO MORE CHECK CHARGES

Two more allegedly bad checks amounting to more than $100 were added to the list of forged checks which authorities say Elmer James Carter, Midlothian, admits he passed on Cumberland and Frostburg establishments.

Carter, arraigned Monday in trial magistrates court on charges of forging four checks, was committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bond to await action of the October grand jury.

Yesterday, Carter was returned to the state's attorney's office where he signed a supplemental statement saying he forged two more checks and had them cashed at the Gunter hotel, Frostburg, on March 2. One of the checks was for $63 and the other for $47.

The four checks for which Carter was arraigned Monday amounted to $320.36, and were passed on Maurice's store here, the Shannon shoe store, Frostburg, Lou's auto store, Frostburg, and Lytle's auto parts, Frostburg, authorities said.

Carter told the state's attorney he and his family are in destitute circumstances, and that he had to give up his job because of stomach trouble.

CARTER ADMITS TWO MORE CHECK CHARGES

Two more allegedly bad checks amounting to more than $100 were added to the list of forged checks which authorities say Elmer James Carter, Midlothian, admits he passed on Cumberland and Frostburg establishments.

Carter, arraigned Monday in trial magistrates court on charges of forging four checks, was committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bond to await action of the October grand jury.

Yesterday, Carter was returned to the state's attorney's office where he signed a supplemental statement saying he forged two more checks and had them cashed at the Gunter hotel, Frostburg, on March 2. One of the checks was for $63 and the other for $47.

The four checks for which Carter was arraigned Monday amounted to $320.36, and were passed on Maurice's store here, the Shannon shoe store, Frostburg, Lou's auto store, Frostburg, and Lytle's auto parts, Frostburg, authorities said.

Carter told the state's attorney he and his family are in destitute circumstances, and that he had to give up his job because of stomach trouble.

County Teachers To Meet Saturday

Victor D. Heisey, president of the Teachers Association of Allegany county will explain the difference between the retirement plan now in effect for Maryland teachers and the proposed plan under federal sponsorship, at a meeting of the association to be held at Fort Hill high school this morning starting at 10 o'clock.

A delegate to attend the National Education Association meeting in Buffalo will be elected and committee reports submitted.

Della B. Wright Wins Annulment Of Her Marriage

Cocktail Lounge Employe Charges Her Husband Was already Married

Chief Judge William A. Huster has annulled the marriage of Della Blue, commonly known as Della Blue Wright, to Harold B. Wright.

Mrs. Wright, 29, 147 Polk street, who is employed in a downtown cocktail lounge, informed the court that after her marriage to Wright last year she learned that he had another wife in Pennsylvania.

The petitioner said that she and Wright were married after knowing each other a month. Three days after they were married, her husband was arrested on a charge of car stealing and was sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction, she said.

When her husband confessed that he was already married, the petitioner made inquiries and learned that he was still wedded to Mrs. Blanche Malehorn Wright, Dauphin, Pa.

The court also gave the petitioner the right to resume her maiden name of Blue. She was represented by William A. Gunter.

The court granted an absolute divorce to Genevieve Joan (Stowell) Arnold from Lawrnee Christian Arnold and dismissed the crossbill filed by the husband.

In her petition docketed by Morgan C. Harris, Mrs. Arnold, 31, 113 South Allegany street, said they were married in 1937 at Westernport. Later they lived at 314 Washington street, Cumberland and they separated in 1943. Mrs. Arnold charged that she caught her husband in a bathroom with another woman while attending a party in Westernport.

After the separation, the wife joined the WAC and served from 1943 to 1945, when she was given a medical discharge. She is unable to support herself at present due to her health, she said. She charged that her husband earns $400 a month, which was denied by the husband in his cross bill.

The husband was represented by Edward J. Ryan.

CAMERA CLUB WILL HOLD ITS ANNUAL BANQUET MONDAY

Plans have been completed for the annual banquet of the Cumberland Camera Club scheduled for Monday night at the Clary Club where W. M. Rittase, Philadelphia will be the principal speaker.

According to Dr. John R. Craft, of the Washington County Museum, Rittase is "one of the most brilliant photographers in the east but is considered by many to be a caustic critic."

Since Rittase will judge and criticize the monthly print competition of the camera club Monday night, Dr. Craft warned the members not to expect their visitor to pull his punches. It was indicated last night that the members of the club were prepared to hear Mr. Rittase's remarks regarding their work with composure and equanimity.

The regular meeting of the club will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Knights of Malta hall. Contestants have been asked to submit their pictures by Saturday at Harvey's Jewelry Store.

AP Chesapeake Group Will Hold Spring Meeting

Cultivation of All Maryland News Sources Will Be Discussed

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—A clinic devoted to intensive cultivation of all Maryland news sources as a postwar project will be held by members of the Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press at their annual spring meeting in Baltimore May 25, Chairman William L. Geppert, Cumberland, announced tonight.

The association, composed of Associated Press newspapers in Maryland and the District of Columbia, will have as guests correspondents who handle regional news in communities throughout the state.

"The need for full and thorough domestic coverage has been demonstrated daily by the avidity with which our readers have looked for it since the year ended," Geppert said, "and member newspapers are engaged just now in improving their own and outside news sources.

"A collective study of these sources with those who produce the news will be mutually helpful to all."

The association's business meeting will be held the afternoon of Saturday, May 25, with Geppert presiding. A report will be presented by Max Fullerton, appointed chief of bureau at Baltimore last December.

Hamilton Owens, editor-in-chief of the Sunpapers, will speak at the afternoon session on his impressions of European editors.

The Baltimore Sunpapers, Paul Patterson, president, will be hosts at a dinner in the Lord Baltimore hotel Saturday evening. The speaker will be Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor and author of the "Atomic Age."

Among the guests at the meeting will be W. C. Stouffer, managing editor of the Roanoke, Va., World-Times, chairman of Virginia Associated Press members, and Charles Hodel, published of the Beckley, W. Va., newspapers, chairman of the West Virginia association.

White Answers Charge Of Making Inspection In Owners' Absence

Referring to a statement that he and another OPA official had inspected a rented apartment in the owner's absence, Caleb White, area rent director, said last night that the statement was misleading.

The charge was made by F. Y. Borden, 646 Washington street, at a public meeting on rent control Wednesday evening in the city hall auditorium. At that time, Borden said that White had inspected one of his apartments at the Washington street address without his, Borden's knowledge, and when no one was on the premises.

White said last night that he and Robert Yost, of the regional OPA office in New York, were inspecting one of Borden's apartments, registered at the rent office, when a woman tenant suggested that they look at an unfinished apartment which was being completed in the basement of the building.

White and Yost did look at the latter apartment, but no regular inspection was made until after it was completed and registered by Borden at the local rent office, White stated.

New Drug Offers Hope to Epileptic, Doctor Reports

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EPILEPSY is a distressing disease of manifold symptoms. It is usually thought of as being characterized by convulsions of the whole body and loss of consciousness. It may, however, on occasion, present a very different picture.

In recent years progress has been made in controlling the convulsive type of seizure, but the drugs which make this possible, unfortunately, have little effect on what is known as psychomotor attacks. In these, there are no convulsions, although there may be some twisting of the trunk muscles, or the patient may stand still and slowly turn his body.

Abnormal Behavior

The principal symptom of a psychomotor attack is a period of abnormal behavior. The patient is confused. He may do something that is unreasonable or without any purpose. Frequently, he mutters to himself or makes chewing movements or his bladder may empty itself. The patient usually is not aware of what he is doing, and after the attack is over he is not aware of what has occurred, even though he was completely conscious during the attack.

At times, he may become irritable or violent and it has even been reported that crimes have been committed during such an attack. The seizure may last for a few minutes or for several hours.

Brain Wave

It is possible to diagnose epilepsy not only by the symptoms, but also by a study of the tracings of the brain waves, made with a special type of string galvanometer. In the types of epilepsy in which there are convulsions such drugs as bromides, phenobarbital and diphenyl, hydantoin sodium may be helpful but, according to Dr. Russell N. DeJong, Ann Arbor, Michigan, these preparations have little, if any, value in the psychomotor seizures.

He has used a new preparation called tridione in treating a number of patients with the psychomotor attacks and has found that it is effective in controlling them. In some cases the improvement was spectacular.

Lacks Effectiveness Alone

However, it was not found to be sufficiently effective when employed alone because many of the patients on whom it was used also had convulsions, so that in these cases it was found necessary to use phenobarbital, bromides and diphenyl hydantoin sodium as well. If these preparations were not employed, the convulsions recurred. When the tridione was used with these drugs the psychomotor seizures in a large percentage of the cases were almost completely controlled.

The tridione is given by mouth three times a day. No toxic symptoms occurred and there appeared to be no contraindications to its use. In all the patients treated, the diagnosis was made not only on the basis of the symptoms, but also on the electroencephalogram or brain-wave tracings.

Many of the patients had had attacks for many years and had failed to respond to other forms of treatment. Thus it would appear that this new drug is a weapon offered to the physicians for the control of a most troublesome disorder.

SHOULD OLDSTERS BE HONORED?

Honor thy elders—that's a noble old commandment. But it's also a mischievous one, since it has served as an alibi for endless laziness and cussedness.

Shouldn't oldsters be honored? Of course they should—providing they earn it. But the mere fact that we're getting on in years does not automatically entitle us to special respect. Cirrhosis of the liver does not necessarily endow us with superior character. An oldster of 60 who pampers his own laziness, malice and conceit may be quite as obnoxious and unworthy of honor as a hoodlum of 16.

But how about experience? Don't old people have more experience than young ones and doesn't that entitle them to special consideration? Maybe not. Experience is only as valuable as the use we make of it, the lessons we learn from it. Some people will live to be 90 yet remain untouched by the years of varied experience; others may be enriched by every happening. Birthdays are no guarantee of a fine mind or a mellow spirit.

IT'S NOT THE NUMBER OF OUR YEARS BUT WHAT WE HAVE DONE WITH THEM.

Unfortunately many oldsters reject this basic fact. They are sold on the ancient tradition that mere hardening of the arteries entitles them to veneration and they proceed to become as pompous and arrogant as spoiled children. This is particularly true of older parents who bewail the disrespect of their offspring. But why should children respect them when they have ceased to respect themselves? Why should their advice be valued when they have done nothing to make it valuable? The simple fact that they have given birth and accumulated wrinkles entitles them to no niche in the Hall of Fame.

Regardless of age we deserve no honor unless we have won it by our personal effort.

Actually, oldsters are harmed by the sentimental practice of giving honor where none is due. They become tiresome bores and pests years before their time. There is no reason why normal older persons should not keep as abrest of the times as a youngster and command respect on their own merit. Long beards per se get you nowhere in 1946 and breed nothing but dandruff.

CITY COUNCIL REJECTS OIL BURNER FEE PLAN

A proposal to levy an inspection fee when oil burner furnaces are installed here has been rejected by the mayor and city council Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said the fee had been suggested by Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicke.

Heskett himself opposed the fee idea, declaring it would be the same as levying a tax on bath tubs as was done many places a century ago.

It was agreed, however, that the city should inspect oil burner installations. No decision was made whether inspection should be made by a fireman or a plumber.

The Cumberland Choral Society was given permission to use the city hall auditorium for rehearsals.

The application for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to sponsor the John W. Marks shows at the Community Park, June 10-15, inclusive, was tabled until Monday. Marks had been granted permission for May 20-25 but the exhibition has been called off because of the ban on carnival movements by rail due to the coal strike.

Commissioner William J. Edwards was not at the meeting as he is attending a water conference in Baltimore. Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller was also unable to attend as his wife suffered another stroke at Memorial hospital.

AP Chesapeake Group Will Hold Spring Meeting

Cultivation of All Maryland News Sources Will Be Discussed

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—A clinic devoted to intensive cultivation of all Maryland news sources as a postwar project will be held by members of the Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press at their annual spring meeting in Baltimore May 25, Chairman William L. Geppert, Cumberland, announced tonight.

The association, composed of Associated Press newspapers in Maryland and the District of Columbia, will have as guests correspondents who handle regional news in communities throughout the state.

"The need for full and thorough domestic coverage has been demonstrated daily by the avidity with which our readers have looked for it since the year ended," Geppert said, "and member newspapers are engaged just now in improving their own and outside news sources.

"A collective study of these sources with those who produce the news will be mutually helpful to all."

The association's business meeting will be held the afternoon of Saturday, May 25, with Geppert presiding. A report will be presented by Max Fullerton, appointed chief of bureau at Baltimore last December.

Hamilton Owens, editor-in-chief of the Sunpapers, will speak at the afternoon session on his impressions of European editors.

The Baltimore Sunpapers, Paul Patterson, president, will be hosts at a dinner in the Lord Baltimore hotel Saturday evening. The speaker will be Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor and author of the "Atomic Age."

Among the guests at the meeting will be W. C. Stouffer, managing editor of the Roanoke, Va., World-Times, chairman of Virginia Associated Press members, and Charles Hodel, published of the Beckley, W. Va., newspapers, chairman of the West Virginia association.

White Answers Charge Of Making Inspection In Owners' Absence

Referring to a statement that he and another OPA official had inspected a rented apartment in the owner's absence, Caleb White, area rent director, said last night that the statement was misleading.

The charge was made by F. Y. Borden, 646 Washington street, at a public meeting on rent control Wednesday evening in the city hall auditorium. At that time, Borden said that White had inspected one of his apartments at the Washington street address without his, Borden's knowledge, and when no one was on the premises.

White said last night that he and Robert Yost, of the regional OPA office in New York, were inspecting one of Borden's apartments, registered at the rent office, when a woman tenant suggested that they look at an unfinished apartment which was being completed in the basement of the building.

White and Yost did look at the latter apartment, but no regular inspection was made until after it was completed and registered by Borden at the local rent office, White stated.

New Drug Offers Hope to Epileptic, Doctor Reports

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EPILEPSY is a distressing disease of manifold symptoms. It is usually thought of as being characterized by convulsions of the whole body and loss of consciousness. It may, however, on occasion, present a very different picture.

In recent years progress has been made in controlling the convulsive type of seizure, but the drugs which make this possible, unfortunately, have little effect on what is known as psychomotor attacks. In these, there are no convulsions, although there may be some twisting of the trunk muscles, or the patient may stand still and slowly turn his body.

Abnormal Behavior

The principal symptom of a psychomotor attack is a period of abnormal behavior. The patient is confused. He may do something that is unreasonable or without any purpose. Frequently, he mutters to himself or makes chewing movements or his bladder may empty itself. The patient usually is not aware of what he is doing, and after the attack is over he is not aware of what has occurred, even though he was completely conscious during the attack.

At times, he may become irritable or violent and it has even been reported that crimes have been committed during such an attack. The seizure may last for a few minutes or for several hours.

Brain Wave

It is possible to diagnose epilepsy not only by the symptoms, but also by a study of the tracings of the brain waves, made with a special type of string galvanometer. In the types of epilepsy in which there are convulsions such drugs as bromides, phenobarbital and diphenyl, hydantoin sodium may be helpful but, according to Dr. Russell N. DeJong, Ann Arbor, Michigan, these preparations have little, if any, value in the psychomotor seizures.

He has used a new preparation called tridione in treating a number of patients with the psychomotor attacks and has found that it is effective in controlling them. In some cases the improvement was spectacular.

Lacks Effectiveness Alone

However, it was not found to be sufficiently effective when employew alone because many of the patients on whom it was used also had convulsions, so that in these cases it was found necessary to use phenobarbital, bromides and diphenyl hydantoin sodium as well. If these preparations were not employed, the convulsions recurred. When the tridione was used with these drugs the psychomotor seizures in a large percentage of the cases were almost completely controlled.

The tridione is given by mouth three times a day. No toxic symptoms occurred and there appeared to be no contraindications to its use. In all the patients treated, the diagnosis was made not only on the basis of the symptoms, but also on the electroencephalogram or brain-wave tracings.

Many of the patients had had attacks for many years and had failed to respond to other forms of treatment. Thus it would appear that this new drug is a weapon offered to the physicians for the control of a most troublesome disorder.

SHOULD OLDSTERS BE HONORED?

Honor thy elders—that's a noble old commandment. But it's also a mischievous one, since it has served as an alibi for endless laziness and cussedness.

Shouldn't oldsters be honored? Of course they should—providing they earn it. But the mere fact that we're getting on in years does not automatically entitle us to special respect. Cirrhosis of the liver does not necessarily endow us with superior character. An oldster of 60 who pampers his own laziness, malice and conceit may be quite as obnoxious and unworthy of honor as a hoodlum of 16.

But how about experience? Don't old people have more experience than young ones and doesn't that entitle them to special consideration? Maybe not. Experience is only as valuable as the use we make of it, the lessons we learn from it. Some people will live to be 90 yet remain untouched by the years of varied experience; others may be enriched by every happening. Birthdays are no guarantee of a fine mind or a mellow spirit.

IT'S NOT THE NUMBER OF OUR YEARS BUT WHAT WE HAVE DONE WITH THEM.

Unfortunately many oldsters reject this basic fact. They are sold on the ancient tradition that mere hardening of the arteries entitles them to veneration and they proceed to become as pompous and arrogant as spoiled children. This is particularly true of older parents who bewail the disrespect of their offspring. But why should children respect them when they have ceased to respect themselves? Why should their advice be valued when they have done nothing to make it valuable? The simple fact that they have given birth and accumulated wrinkles entitles them to no niche in the Hall of Fame.

Regardless of age we deserve no honor unless we have won it by our personal effort.

Actually, oldsters are harmed by the sentimental practice of giving honor where none is due. They become tiresome bores and pests years before their time. There is no reason why normal older persons should not keep as abrest of the times as a youngster and command respect on their own merit. Long beards per se get you nowhere in 1946 and breed nothing but dandruff.

CITY COUNCIL REJECTS OIL BURNER FEE PLAN

A proposal to levy an inspection fee when oil burner furnaces are installed here has been rejected by the mayor and city council. Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said the fee had been suggested by Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicke.

Heskett himself opposed the fee idea, declaring it would be the same as levying a tax on bath tubs as was done many places a century ago.

It was agreed, however, that the city should inspect oil burner installations. No decision was made whether inspection should be made by a fireman or a plumber.

The Cumberland Choral Society was given permission to use the city hall auditorium for rehearsals.

The application for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to sponsor the John W. Marks shows at the Community Park, June 10-15, inclusive, was tabled until Monday. Marks had been granted permission for May 20-25 but the exhibition has been called off because of the ban on carnival movements by rail due to the coal strike.

Commissioner William J. Edwards was not at the meeting as he is attending a water conference in Baltimore. Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller was also unable to attend as his wife suffered another stroke at Memorial hospital.

Woman Is Injured When Hit by Car

A 21-year-old LaVale woman, LaVerne Wineland, was slightly injured Thursday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock when she was struck by a car on Baltimore street, between the B. and O. tracks and George street.

According to the accident report filed with the state commissioner of Motor vehicles, the woman was injured when she was struck by a car Dr. Frank M. Wilson was driving west on Baltimore street.

Dr. Wilson took the local woman to a physician for treatment of a bruise below the left knee.

The report indicated the LaVale woman was walking north against traffic when she stepped from behind a car and into the path of the vehicle.

Special Issues Negotiate Good Advances in "Thin" Stock Market

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Another exceptionally "thin" stock market today saw an assortment of special issues negotiate good advances while many leaders loafed in the losing ranks.

Dealings tapered after fairly active forenoon intervals and minus and plus signs were almost evenly divided at the close. Transfers of 980,000 shares compared with 1,140,000 the day before. It was the first drop to under the million mark for a full session since May 1.

Reports of a granted price boost for carbon plates put Lukens Steel up two and seven-eights at $26. American Sumatra Tobacco added one and three-fourth at $64.75 on an increased extra disbursement while a raised payment on the common enabled Industrial Rayon to tack on one and one-half at $51.50. American Woolen was up one at $59.87. Schenley two at $82.62, Homestake two at $48, Liggett and Myers "B" one and one-fourth at $102.25, Youngstown Sheet two at $76.75, Texas and Pacific Railway one and three-fourth at $58.50 and Howe Sound one at $47.50.

Ahead were Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, International Telephone, United Gas Improvement, American Can, General Electric, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, United States Lines, American Tobacco "B," National Distillers, Standard Oil (NJ) and Erie.

The recently - soaring Publicker Industries conceded two and one-fourth at $61 and Hiram Walker, up six and one-half in the preceding session, backed down one and seven-eighth at $135.12 as talk of a split waned. Other casualties were United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, Beech Aircraft, Western Union "A", Electric Power and Light, Columbia Gas, Kennecott, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Texas Company.

In the Curb, Hearn Department Stores moved up on a larger dividend. Claude Neon Lights, opened ... 45,000-share block, improved a point. Favored were Humble Oil and United Light. Turnover here was 470,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

Long-term federal loans gained an outside of twenty-three thirty-seconds of a point in the over-the-counter market. The Victory loan Dec. 2 ½s moved up to 103 26-32 bid, for a net gain of around twenty-two thirty seconds.

Turnover of $3,420,000 compared with $3,340,000 Thursday.

Special Issues Negotiate Good Advances in "Thin" Stock Market

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Another exceptionally "thin" stock market today saw an assortment of special issues negotiate good advances while many leaders loafed in the losing ranks.

Dealings tapered after fairly active forenoon intervals and minus and plus signs were almost evenly divided at the close. Transfers of 980,000 shares compared with 1,140,000 the day before. It was the first drop to under the million mark for a full session since May 1.

Reports of a granted price boost for carbon plates put Lukens Steel up two and seven-eights at $26. American Sumatra Tobacco added one and three-fourth at $64.75 on an increased extra disbursement while a raised payment on the common enabled Industrial Rayon to tack on one and one-half at $51.50. American Woolen was up one at $59.87. Schenley two at $82.62, Homestake two at $48, Liggett and Myers "B" one and one-fourth at $102.25, Youngstown Sheet two at $76.75, Texas and Pacific Railway one and three-fourth at $58.50 and Howe Sound one at $47.50.

Ahead were Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, International Telephone, United Gas Improvement, American Can, General Electric, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, United States Lines, American Tobacco "B," National Distillers, Standard Oil (NJ) and Erie.

The recently - soaring Publicker Industries conceded two and one-fourth at $61 and Hiram Walker, up six and one-half in the preceding session, backed down one and seven-eighth at $135.12 as talk of a split waned. Other casualties were United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, Beech Aircraft, Western Union "A", Electric Power and Light, Columbia Gas, Kennecott, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Texas Company.

In the Curb, Hearn Department Stores moved up on a larger dividend. Claude Neon Lights, opened 45,000-share block, improved a point. Favored were Humble Oil and United Light. Turnover here was 470,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

Long-term federal loans gained an outside of twenty-three thirty-seconds of a point in the over-the-counter market. The Victory loan Dec. 2 ½s moved up to 103 26-32 bid, for a net gain of around twenty-two thirty seconds.

Turnover of $3,420,000 compared with $3,340,000 Thursday.

Collision Near Keyser Delays Rail Traffic

Keyser, W. Va., May 17—A Western Maryland Railway engine lay on its side in a field today and two carloads of coal were piled high along the tracks just west of Twenty-first Bridge as the result of the rear-end collision of two eastbound coal trains at 10:30 last night. Traffic was blocked until 8 a. m. today.

No one was injured in the wreck which brought ambulances on emergency calls from Keyser and Cumberland.

The collision occurred, according to railway officials, shortly after Extra Train No. 1108 stopped near Twenty-first Bridge for mechanical adjustments. The train's conductor and flagman alighted from the caboose, the former going forward of the train and the latter down the track to signal "danger ahead."

Neither had gotten very far away, it was reported, before Extra Train No. 823 roared into view and smashed into the train ahead, making kindling wood of its caboose and damaging two coal cars and an empty flat car.

Due to the impact the engine of No. 823 careened off the track and fell on its side in an adjacent field. To clear the tracks it was found necessary to dump the two coal cars.

E. R. McDaniels and P. A. Corwell, both of this city, were the engineer and fireman on No. 823. Both escaped injury by jumping from the cab seconds before the engine turned over.

L. E. Ferguson, of this city, was conductor of the train ahead. J. R. Fishel, also of this city, was the flagman. They escaped possible death by being out of their caboose at the time of the collision.

Collision Near Keyser Delays Rail Traffic

Keyser, W. Va., May 17—A Western Maryland Railway engine lay on its side in a field today and two carloads of coal were piled high along the tracks just west of Twenty-first Bridge as the result of the rear-end collision of two eastbound coal trains at 10:30 last night. Traffic was blocked until 8 a. m. today.

No one was injured in the wreck which brought ambulances on emergency calls from Keyser and Cumberland.

The collision occurred, according to railway officials, shortly after Extra Train No. 1108 stopped near Twenty-first Bridge for mechanical adjustments. The train's conductor and flagman alighted from the caboose, the former going forward of the train and the latter down the track to signal "danger ahead."

Neither had gotten very far away, it was reported, before Extra Train No. 823 roared into view and smashed into the train ahead, making kindling wood of its caboose and damaging two coal cars and an empty flat car.

Due to the impact the engine of No. 823 careened off the track and fell on its side in an adjacent field. To clear the tracks it was found necessary to dump the two coal cars.

E. R. McDaniels and P. A. Corwell, both of this city, were the engineer and fireman on No. 823. Both escaped injury by jumping from the cab seconds before the engine turned over.

L. E. Ferguson, of this city, was conductor of the train ahead. J. R. Fishel, also of this city, was the flagman. They escaped possible death by being out of their caboose at the time of the collision.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

The Farmer

Face furrowed by the springs of hard ploughing. Skin bronzed by sun-scorched summers, beard whitened with the hoar frost of country winters. Eyes that glisten as the early morning dew. A smile that glows with kindly light, like the first sliver of the harvest moon.

The Farmer . . . one of the giants in the earth!

He knows what it is to plant and pray . . . to work and hope and trust . . . to scan golden acres without false pride and blighted fields without bitterness. He knows both victory and defeat; but neither vanity nor despair. And when the crops are in the barn—in good years and in poor—he raises thanks to a gracious God, and plans for another spring.

The simple, courageous faith of the farmer is the faith of his pioneer forefathers . . . of men who came to these shores to worship God in freedom . . . of men who, with ploughs and harrows, carved a nation from a wilderness.

In the churches of our great, free land that faith is still making giants . . . Christians equal to the challenging problems of modern life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

Area CIO-PAC Committee Set, Feldstein Says

National Field Representative Speaks at Local 1874 Meetings

Western Maryland CIO unions have initiated steps towards forming a CIO Political Action Committee for this area, and all candidates for legislative office will be measured by the yardstick of the seventeen-point CIO-PAC "people's program" announced April 16 in Washington, according to Harry Epstein.

Epstein, who is field representative of the national CIO Political Action Committee, addressed special membership meetings of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, here this week.

The meeting unanimously indorsed the Local 1874's participation in carrying out the Political Action program and moved to assure full publicity among the local's membership by making available the PAC pamphlet-of-the-month series stressing outstanding national issues, according to William Boyd Coleman, president.

Contributions Sought

The union's Political Action committee will also immediately initiate a campaign for voluntary contributions of $1 per member per year to finance the work of local, state and national Political Action committees.

The speaker stressed the progress made in Cumberland in securing participation of all labor organizations through the Labor Unity Conference, comprising AFL, CIO, Railroad Brotherhood and independent unions, and asserted that this kind of unity will guarantee that all the people in the community will participate in bringing about the fulfillment of the "people's program."

The national field representative cited the Roosevelt Economic Bill of Rights as the basis of the program enunciated by CIO-PAC, including the right of a useful and remunerative job in the industries, or shops or farms, or mines of the nation; the right to earn enough to provide adequate food and clothing and recreation; the right of every farmer to raise and sell his products at a return which will give him and his family a decent living; the right of every businessman, large and small, to trade in an atmosphere of freedom from unfair competition and domination by monopolies at home or abroad; the right of every family to a decent home; the right to adequate protection from the economic fears of old age, sickness, accident and unemployment.

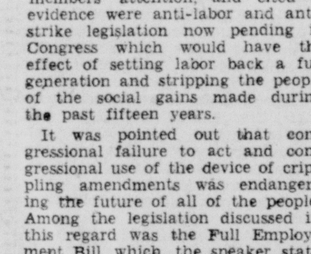

The dangers threatening labor and the people generally at the present time were brought to the members' attention, and cited in evidence were anti-labor and anti-strike legislation now pending in Congress which would have the effect of setting labor back a full generation and stripping the people of the social gains made during the past fifteen years.

It was pointed out that congressional failure to act and congressional use of the device of crippling amendments was endangering the future of all of the people. Among the legislation discussed in this regard was the Full Employment Bill, which, the speaker stated, was passed in a hopelessly ineffective form; the 65 cent Minimum Bill, which was rendered unworkable by a paralyzing amendment; the Wagner Housing Bill, which is still awaiting final action; and the Wagner - Murray - Dingle Health Bill, also awaiting the attention of the legislators.

The speaker specially stressed the attack which has been made on legislation to extend the OPA for a full year without modification or crippling amendments, and asserted that this essential legislation to keep price controls in effective form is being subjected to a lobbying attack financed by millions of dollars which, unless it is beaten back by the people, will bring on a disastrous depression preceded for a very short period by a false prosperity.

The National CIO-PAC field representative warned that the wage increases achieved by organized labor over the period of the past few months are endangered and could be wiped out completely by legislative action if the present trend in Congress is not reversed. He also declared that labor's greater awareness of the issues and fuller use of the ballot is the most effective method of remedying legislators' failure to act in the interests of the nation.

A Friend Who Learned to Believe

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 19 is John 11:7-16; 20:19-29, the Memory Verse being Mark 5:36, "Fear not; only believe.")

WE KNOW very little about the disciple, Thomas. Except for these three episodes told us by John, we would hardly have heard of him, except that he was one of the twelve.

Now Lazarus, and his sisters Mary and Martha, were warm friends of Jesus and their home was in Bethany. Word was brought to Jesus from the sisters that Lazarus was sick. At the time He and His disciples were on the other side of Jordan, and He waited two days and then told His disciples, "Let us go into Judea again."

The disciples tried to dissuade Him, saying, "Master, the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and Thou goest thither again?" His answer was rather puzzling, meaning, probably, either that He would not die until His time came, or that He should take the opportunity when it came, by asking them if there were not 12 hours in the day. "If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of the world."

Then He said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him from sleep." Not understanding, the disciples answered, "Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well." Jesus then told them plainly, "Lazarus is dead." He added, "And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him."

Thomas Would Go With Jesus

Then Thomas, who was called Didymus, a Greek name meaning a twin, said to the rest, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him." Thomas may have accepted and become resigned to the fact that his Lord would probably die in the cause, and he was willing to be with Him and die too. He was a loyal and devoted friend.

This episode, and that succeeding it, of the raising of Lazarus from the dead, not included in our lesson today, took place in January, A. D. 30, and the following April Jesus was crucified.

The next mention of Thomas is after the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. The disciples were gathered together in a room with the door closed because they feared their Jewish enemies who had killed Jesus. All were present, that is, except Judas Iscariot, who had betrayed Him and later killed himself, and Thomas.

Suddenly Jesus appeared in their midst and said, "Peace be unto you." This, then, was confirmation of what had been told them, and which they wanted to believe, but hardly dared do so, that Jesus had risen from the dead.

"And when He had so said, He shewed unto them His hands and His side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord." Glad seems an understatement, doesn't it, at such a time?

"Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as My Father hath sent Me, even so send I you." Then He breathed on them, and, said, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost: Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained."

Thomas Doubts

When the other disciples saw Thomas and told him they had seen the Lord, he said: "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe." He probably wanted to believe, but his spirit doubted.

Eight days after this the disciples were again behind closed doors, and Thomas was with them this time. "Then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you."

"Then said He to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold My hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into My side: and be not faithless, but believing.

"And Thomas answered, and said unto Him. My Lord and my God." How humble, yet how glad and grateful must he have been.

"And Jesus said unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

Blessed indeed are they who cannot see the wonders of the spirit, but have the faith and courage to believe they really exist. "Fear not, only believe," says our Memory Verse.

A Friend Who Learned to Believe ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 11:7-16; 20:19-29.

Jesus was told that His friend Lazarus was sick, and He said to His disciples, "Let us go into Judaea," but they were afraid He would be stoned to death if He went.

"Lazarus is dead," Jesus told His disciples, "nevertheless, let us go unto him." Thomas said to the other disciples, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him."

After Jesus' resurrection, all the disciples but Thomas were gathered together and Jesus came and stood in the midst of them and said unto them, "Peace be unto you."

Thomas would not believe Jesus had risen, but when He came to them, Thomas saw Him and was convinced that He really had.

Area CIO-PAC Committee Set, Feldstein Says

National Field Representative Speaks at Local 1874 Meetings

Western Maryland CIO unions have initiated steps towards forming a CIO Political Action Committee for this area, and all candidates for legislative office will be measured by the yardstick of the seventeen-point CIO-PAC "people's program" announced April 16 in Washington, according to Harry Epstein.

Epstein, who is field representative of the national CIO Political Action Committee, addressed special membership meetings of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, here this week.

The meeting unanimously indorsed the Local 1874's participation in carrying out the Political Action program and moved to assure full publicity among the local's membership by making available the PAC pamphlet-of-the-month series stressing outstanding national issues, according to William Boyd Coleman, president.

Contributions Sought

The union's Political Action committee will also immediately initiate a campaign for voluntary contributions of $1 per member per year to finance the work of local, state and national Political Action committees.

The speaker stressed the progress made in Cumberland in securing participation of all labor organizations through the Labor Unity Conference, comprising AFL, CIO, Railroad Brotherhood and independent unions, and asserted that this kind of unity will guarantee that all the people in the community will participate in bringing about the fulfillment of the "people's program."

The national field representative cited the Roosevelt Economic Bill of Rights as the basis of the program enunciated by CIO-PAC, including the right of a useful and remunerative job in the industries, or shops or farms, or mines of the nation; the right to earn enough to provide adequate food and clothing and recreation; the right of every farmer to raise and sell his products at a return which will give him and his family a decent living; the right of every businessman, large and small, to trade in an atmosphere of freedom from unfair competition and domination by monopolies at home or abroad; the right of every family to a decent home; the right to adequate protection from the economic fears of old age, sickness, accident and unemployment.

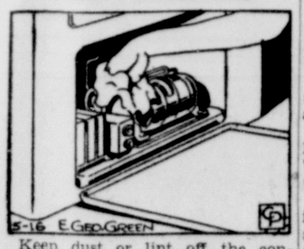

The dangers threatening labor and the people generally at the present time were brought to the members' attention, and cited in evidence were anti-labor and anti-strike legislation now pending in Congress which would have the effect of setting labor back a full generation and stripping the people of the social gains made during the past fifteen years.

It was pointed out that congressional failure to act and congressional use of the device of crippling amendments was endangering the future of all of the people. Among the legislation discussed in this regard was the Full Employment Bill, which, the speaker stated, was passed in a hopelessly ineffective form; the 65 cent Minimum Bill, which was rendered unworkable by a paralyzing amendment; the Wagner Housing Bill, which is still awaiting final action; and the Wagner - Murray - Dingle Health Bill, also awaiting the attention of the legislators.

The speaker specially stressed the attack which has been made on legislation to extend the OPA for a full year without modification or crippling amendments, and asserted that this essential legislation to keep price controls in effective form is being subjected to a lobbying attack financed by millions of dollars which, unless it is beaten back by the people, will bring on a disastrous depression preceded for a very short period by a false prosperity.

The National CIO-PAC field representative warned that the wage increases achieved by organized labor over the period of the past few months are endangered and could be wiped out completely by legislative action if the present trend in Congress is not reversed. He also declared that labor's greater awareness of the issues and fuller use of the ballot is the most effective method of remedying legislators' failure to act in the interests of the nation.

A Friend Who Learned to Believe

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 19 is John 11:7-16; 20:19-29, the Memory Verse being Mark 5:36, "Fear not; only believe.")

WE KNOW very little about the disciple, Thomas. Except for these three episodes told us by John, we would hardly have heard of him, except that he was one of the twelve.

Now Lazarus, and his sisters Mary and Martha, were warm friends of Jesus and their home was in Bethany. Word was brought to Jesus from the sisters that Lazarus was sick. At the time He and His disciples were on the other side of Jordan, and He waited two days and then told His disciples, "Let us go into Judea again."

The disciples tried to dissuade Him, saying, "Master, the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and Thou goest thither again?" His answer was rather puzzling, meaning, probably, either that He would not die until His time came, or that He should take the opportunity when it came, by asking them if there were not 12 hours in the day. "If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of the world."

Then He said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him from sleep." Not understanding, the disciples answered, "Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well." Jesus then told them plainly, "Lazarus is dead." He added, "And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him."

Thomas Would Go With Jesus

Then Thomas, who was called Didymus, a Greek name meaning a twin, said to the rest, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him." Thomas may have accepted and become resigned to the fact that his Lord would probably die in the cause, and he was willing to be with Him and die too. He was a loyal and devoted friend.

This episode, and that succeeding it, of the raising of Lazarus from the dead, not included in our lesson today, took place in January, A. D. 30, and the following April Jesus was crucified.

The next mention of Thomas is after the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. The disciples were gathered together in a room with the door closed because they feared their Jewish enemies who had killed Jesus. All were present, that is, except Judas Iscariot, who had betrayed Him and later killed himself, and Thomas.

Suddenly Jesus appeared in their midst and said, "Peace be unto you." This, then, was confirmation of what had been told them, and which they wanted to believe, but hardly dared do so, that Jesus had risen from the dead.

"And when He had so said, He shewed unto them His hands and His side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord." Glad seems an understatement, doesn't it, at such a time?

"Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as My Father hath sent Me, even so send I you." Then He breathed on them, and, said, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost. Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained."

Thomas Doubts

When the other disciples saw Thomas and told him they had seen the Lord, he said: "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe." He probably wanted to believe, but his spirit doubted.

Eight days after this the disciples were again behind closed doors, and Thomas was with them this time. "Then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you."

"Then said He to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold My hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into My side: and be not faithless, but believing.

"And Thomas answered, and said unto Him. My Lord and my God." How humble, yet how glad and grateful must he have been.

"And Jesus said unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

Blessed indeed are they who cannot see the wonders of the spirit, but have the faith and courage to believe they really exist. "Fear not, only believe," says our Memory Verse.

A Friend Who Learned to Believe ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 11:7-16; 20:19-29.

Jesus was told that His friend Lazarus was sick, and He said to His disciples, "Let us go into Judaea," but they were afraid He would be stoned to death if He went.

"Lazarus is dead," Jesus told His disciples, "nevertheless, let us go unto him." Thomas said to the other disciples, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him."

After Jesus' resurrection, all the disciples but Thomas were gathered together and Jesus came and stood in the midst of them and said unto them, "Peace be unto you."

Thomas would not believe Jesus had risen, but when He came to them, Thomas saw Him and was convinced that He really had.

Tami Mauriello Knocks Out British Champion in Fifth

Short Smashing Right Puts Woodcock Down after Invader Piles Up Early Lead

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—For four rounds tonight it appeared a new style British heavyweight champion was invading American rings, but after taking as much or more than he was dishing out for twelve minutes, Tami Mauriello, the Bronx fat boy, flattened the empire king, Bruce Woodcock, in the fifth session of their ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden. Mauriello weighed 198¼; Woodcock, 186¾.

Successor to such previous "peaceful" empire champions as Bombardier Wells, Horizontal Phil Scott and Tommy Farr down through the years, the square-chinned Woodcock turned out to be a clouter who could set off more fireworks than any of them—and for four rounds he set them off. Then the round man from uptown caught up with him late in the fifth with a short smashing right.

Referee Halts Bout

Down went the Doncaster Dynamiter, flat on his back, his arms outstretched. He pulled himself up at the nine count, but he obviously didn't know where he was or what time it was and Referee Eddie Josephs halted the proceedings there at two minutes, sixteen seconds of the session.

One of the smaller Garden crowds of the year, 13,749 customers, chipped in to a gross gate of $98,590 to see Woodcock and Mauriello collide for what may be a September heavyweight title shot. The best guess as to the reason for the comparatively tiny turnout was that the cash customers didn't like the $20 ringside tops Promoter Mike Jacobs pinned on this tussle.

Loser Is 6 to 1 Underdog

Up to the start of the fifth, Woodcock was moving right along on what could have been one of the biggest upsets ever pulled out of the hat in the Garden. He was a 6 to 1 underdog among the lobby bookmakers and was 2 to 1 to be flattened along the way.

Yet, he walked out, tucked his chin in behind his left shoulder, and was even-up on the Associated Press score card at the end of four rounds against the pudgy pounder from uptown.

Paw Paw Shows Courage

By C. V. BURNS

Johnny Idleman, Keyser high school's ace high jumper, soared over the bar at five feet, eight inches to win the event last Saturday in the Martinsburg sectional meet instead of five feet, four inches as mentioned in this paper on Monday.

Idleman's best jump this season was five feet, ten inches in the Mineral county championship meet about a month ago.

In the other sectionals held throughout West Virginia last week the best the winners could do was five feet, four and one-half inches.

This makes Idleman look like a hot number in the state championship meet today at Laidley field in Charleston.

The best mark ever made in the high jump in a West Virginia state meet is six feet.

Juan Carrero, the classy Puerto Rican lightweight, who stopped Lee Sheppard, of Cleveland, in three rounds in the main go of "Vic" Ricker's last show here, will be one of the headliners in the next fistic program to be presented at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona, Pa., on May 29.

John Zan, manager of the Zan Athletic Club stable of boxers at Morgantown, W. Va., is matchmaker for an amateur show to be staged at Grant Town, W. Va., on Monday night.

Leading simon pures of the Zan A.C. and Fairmont will meet beak busters of the Canonsburg, Pa., team in the feature matches.

Which reminds us that Zan's boxers really had a field day in Cumberland during the past season. Our records show the Morgantown mittmen engaged in thirteen amateur and professional bouts here and bagged ten of them, which is a nice average.

The amateurs won eight of eleven bouts while the pros won twice in as many starts.

Vance Sinclair, the lightweight, was Zan's ace with four straight triumphs over Mike Leslie, Bobby Porter, Bob Nazelrod and Jimmie Catanese. Sam McCusky stopped Bob Kerns in 53 seconds, Billy Hines whipped Bobby Porter and Frankie Niland and Junior Parenti decisioned Joe Niland.

"Skeets" Starkey, the local featherweight star, however, defeated Don Post and Roger Shifflett and Jackie Kiosterman outpointed Post to give the home boys their three wins.

In the pro matches, Young Torchy, Zan's 168-pounder, kayoed Joey Ford, of Hagerstown, in two heats, and Joe Testa, Morgantown's 152-pounder, flattened Tommy Hare of Meyersdale, in the opening round.

"I see where Lonaconing has seceded from the State of Maryland, and is now in Pennsylvania," remarks Prof. John J. Cavanaugh, Fort Hill's baseball mentor.

The major was referring to a recent article in a well known baseball weekly which mentioned "Lefty" Grove's son being from Lonaconing, Pa.

Jimmie Brown, local colored lightweight boxer, who lost an unpopular decision to Johnny Esposito early in the boxing season, squared matters with the latter in last Sunday's game at Community Park.

Brown, who came into the game as a relief pitcher for Fulton Myers Post after Harvey was laid low when struck on the head by a thrown ball, faced Esposito twice—in the eighth and ninth innings—and struck him out on both occasions.

"Wonder who he was waving at?" asked Jimmie.

"Buddy" belted a homer with two aboard the other day as the Bushwicks beat the Union City, N. J., Reds, 13 to 5.

Defeated in seven consecutive games, Paw Paw high school of the Tri-State Baseball Conference, has yielded a total of 148 runs or an average of twenty-one per game.

Most teams would have quit after taking it on the chin by scores such as 16-2, 16-1, 31-1, 30-3, 15-4, 18-3 and 22-1 but not those hardy Mountaineers.

If there are any awards being passed out this band of boys deserves one for their gameness and courage.

Pavlick has signed Irv Sarlin, Pittsburgh heavyweight, as one of the principals in the American Business Men's Milk Fund Show on May 23 at The Point stadium.

Proceeds will be used to purchase milk for needy first grade pupils in all Johnstown schools.

Snead Takes Lead In Houston Golf

Sammy Moves Out Front at Halfway Mark with 140 Card

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 17 (AP)—Baldish Sammy Snead, that drawlin' man from Virginia, breezed in with a one-under-par 69 today to capture the lead at the midway point in the Colonial national invitation golf tournament.

One of three in the field of 28 to better regulations figures, Snead had a total of 140 for the 36 holes—one lower than Herman Keiser of Akron, O., who also shot a 69; Harry Todd of Dallas, who equalled par, and George Schneiter, yesterday's leader, who ran into a string of bad holes on the incoming nice — going one-over on each 12, 13, 14 and 15—and closed with a fat 74.

Snead, the Hot Springs, Va., veteran, had only two birdies but he went one over on just one hole although he missed five greens.

The 6,962-yard Colonial Country Club course again proved too much for pre-tournament favorites Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan. Nelson, and Hogan had two-over 72.

Arthur Donovan Freed Of Homicide Charge

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Arthur Donovan, third man in the ring at many world title boxing bouts, was freed of a homicide charge today in the fatal injury of David Stanley Corcoran April 19.

Assistant District Attorney Karl Grebow said that a grand jury after questioning Donovan and several other witnesses, had declined to indict the 54-year-old referee.

Magistrate Morris Rothenberg dismissed the charge.

Police reported that Corcoran, 56, a glass importer, fell to the pavement after Donovan slapped him on leaving a cab about 5 a. m. a few blocks from the New York Athletic Club where Donovan was athletic director. Cocoran was staying at the club. The two had known each other for years.

Court Upholds Decision In Tom Smith Case

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The appellate division of the state supreme court today upheld the New York State Racing Commission and the Jockey Club (New York) in revoking the 1945 license of Trainer Tom Smith, who was suspended for one year in connection with the drugging of a horse in his barn.

The court asserted that the commission and Jockey Club, which ordered the suspension, starting last November 2, had the right to take such action where "just cause" existed.

The hearings alleged, however, that the stimulant was administered by Ernest Peveler, a groom in the barn. Smith was punished under the racing law which holds that a trainer is responsible at all times for horses in his care.

CLEVELAND, May 17 (AP) — Fireball Bob Feller pitched five-hit, shutout ball and struck out fourteen batters today as the Indians split a doubleheader with Washington, 3 to 0 and 4 to 9.

The nightcap was called at the end of the eighth inning because of darkness.

The Indians' star hurler ran his season strikeout total to eighty-five and took his fifth win against three losses, in the first-game mound duel with Southpaw Mickey Haefner, who held the Tribe to six safe blows, two of them doubles. Box:

TIGERS NOSE OUT A's

DETROIT, May 17 — A pair of unearned eighth inning runs enabled the Detroit Tigers to squeeze out a 3 to 1 victory today over the Philadelphia Athletics, who put runners in scoring position in each of the last four innings but lacked the punch to drive them across.

Virgil Trucks, who yielded eight hits, thus notched his fourth victory, this time at the expense of Phil Marchildon, who gave the Tigers only five safeties but was charged with the loss. Box:

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP) — Pitcher Randy Gumpert came to the relief of Joe Page in the fifth inning today and gave up only three hits the rest of the way to enable the New York Yankees to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 4-2.

Charley Keller put New York out in front with a two-run homer in the first inning off starting Pitcher Bill Dietrich. The Yanks added two more in the second on four hits but were held to two safeties thereafter by Dietrich, Fran Papish and Earl Caldwell.

Gets 17-Pound Trout

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Fishermen's Paradise, Pennsylvania's specially stocked trout stream, opened its 1946 season to anglers today with a new record catch—a 30½ inch brown, weighing seventeen pounds.

"I was certainly lucky to get that one out," exclaimed Francis Kartsch, of Johnstown, Pa., as he netted the exhausted fish, which had battled for an hour and forty minutes.

Before the turn of the century, track and field events at Colgate University included stilt, egg, barrel and wheelbarrow races.

QUEEN CITY WILL TEST 'CONEY AND MIDLAND IN LEAGUE GAMES

Both Tilts Listed Here; Moorefield, Eagles To Play Legion

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove's Lonaconing Republican Club and Bobby Blair's Midland American Legion Club will provide the opposition for the Queen City Brewers in Bi-State Baseball League games scheduled at Stitcher Field today and tomorrow at 3 p. m.

These two games are important as a double win would boost the Brewers' average from their present .333—one win and two losses—to .600, or three victories and two defeats.

Lonaconing is tied with Westvaco for first place in President Roy Beeman's circuit and will be angling for its fourth straight triumph when it tangles with Manager Charley Doyle's tossers this afternoon in North End.

Midland Is Here Sunday

Tommorrow Midland will blow into town and Queen City will be striving to blow them down and out. The Blairmen are tied with Queen City in the league standings and expect to give the Brewers a battle since strengthening their lineup in the past week.

C. Arthur Smith, Jr., business manager of the Brewers, yesterday announced that Bernard Baker, rightnanded pitcher, has been added to the Queen City roster. Baker pitched winning ball for the locals last year and may appear in today's or tomorrow's game.

Other Bi-State games on tap for today finds Frostburg Legion at Centerville, Westvaco at Midland and Barton at Romney.

If both Lonaconing and Westvaco win games today the big battle Sunday will be between those undefeated league leaders at Memorial Park, Westernport. Other Sabbath tilts are between Romney at Centreville on the Reds' field and Frostburg and Barton at the latter place.

In other Interstate League games scheduled for today, Moorefield meets Fort Cumberland Post at Community Park, Hyndman Firemen invade Barrelville and Fulton Myers Post is at Mt. Savage. The Eagles-Moose game scheduled for today has been postponed until next Saturday at 3 p. m. at Stitcher field.

1923 Game Is Recalled

Fulton Myers Post's visit to Mt. Savage today marks the first appearance of a Negro baseball team in Mt. Savage since 1923 when John Brown's Cubs played there and won by the score of 24 to 1. Oldtimers recall that the Cubs made seven home runs in that contest. Clarence "Cannonball" Smith, manager of the Fulton Myers Post team, was a pitcher with the Cubs in those days.

Tomorrow Fort Cumberland Post engages the Cumberland Eagles at Community Park at 3 p. m., Barrelville is host to Mt. Savage, the Moose travels to Moorefield and Fulton Myers Post battles the Firemen at Hyndman.

Mt. Savage heads this circuit with three wins and no losses while Fort Cumberland and Moorefield are knotted for runner-up honors with three wins and one loss each.

SPORT BRIEFS

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Disturbed by the batting slump that has carried his average well below .300, Joe DiMaggio underwent a complete physical checkup this week in St. Louis. However, the outfielder says he learned nothing that a few base hits could not cure.

"The doctor didn't give me a clean bill of health," DiMaggio said today, "but there was nothing organically wrong."

LIVERPOOL, England, May 17 (AP)—British Open Golf Champion Dick Burton embarked on the Swedish liner Gripsholm tonight for New York where he will meet Byron Nelson in a 36-hole challenge match. He also will play in various tournaments.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 17 (AP) — The Royal and Ancient Golf Club announced today that Tommy Armour and possibly three other Americans — Gene Sarazen, Lloyd Mangrum and Johnny Bulla—would compete in the British open golf tourney here starting July 1.

BROOKLYN, May 17 (AP) — Bob Elliott, Pittsburgh outfielder, was knocked unconscious by a line drive today in the midst of a Brooklyn Dodger first inning scoring spree.

Two runs were across and Cookie Lavagetto on base when Charles Furillo slammed one to the right field wall. The ball caromed off the fence and struck Elliott with such force that he was knocked out. Lavagetto, meantime, scored the third run of the inning.

Elliott was replaced by Jack Barrett.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 17 (AP)—Army and Virginia Poly will meet on the gridiron in both 1947 and 1948, Graduate Manager of Athletics Col. L. M. (Biff) Jones said today. The first game will be played here Oct. 18, 1947. The two last met in 1942 when Army won, 19 to 7.

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Walter Johnson, one of baseball's oldtime pitching greats, went for his first ride in a wheelchair today after being confined to a hospital bed for five weeks.

Johnson's daughter, Miss Barbara Joan, told a reporter that the strikeout king of the Washington Senators a quarter of a century ago has shown "slow but sure improvement and his spirit is fine."

CLEVELAND, May 17 (AP) — The Cleveland Browns of the All-America Pro Football Conference today announced signing of Ends George Young of Georgia University and Gregg Browning of Denver University and Guard Tony Rosselli of Youngstown College and Don Marlin of Western Colorado State College.

Billy Dean's timely single, which featured a four-run rally in the sixth inning, coupled with the pitching of Billy Underdonk who yielded seven hits and struck out nine batsmen, enabled the Williams Street Merchants to snap the five-game winning streak of Lacy's Delicatets yesterday in a City Softball League game on the Rolling Mill diamond. The score was 7 to 5.

It was the first setback of the season for Lacy's and also the Delicatets' first defeat since the opening game of the championship series with the Eagles last fall.

Trailing 5 to 3 going into the dast half of the sixth, Williams Street staged a rousing four-run rally to put the game on ice. After one down, Hartsock singled Porter and Algieri walked to fill the bases and Billy Dean knocked in three runs with a timely single. A wild throw by Athey enabled Dean to race to third from where he scored later on Harry Minnicks' long fly to the outfield. At this point, "Bunny" Saum, Lacy's pitching ace, was replaced by Jim Roby, who pitched to the last batter.

Billy Dean, Spoltore and Hartsock banged out two hits each for the victors while Catcher Harry Dean connected for a two bagger. "Pooch" Orndorff obtained two of the Delicatets' seven bingles.

Despite the defeat, Lacy's clung on to first place by one half game due to the Maccabees-East Side game being postponed on account of wet grounds. A victory for East Side would have tied that club with Lacy's for first place.

Rice Boys Steal Show

The Rice Brothers — George and Jim — put the slug on Keegan's Jupers as the Shamrocks romped off with an 8 to 5 victory at Campobello.

George Rice was hitting for distance and contributed three home runs while Jim Rice had a perfect day at bat with three doubles and a single in four trips. The brothers accounted for seven of the Shamrocks' thirteen hits.

Legion Wins, 30 to 0

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, went on a batting spree at Community Park and swamped the Veterans of Foreign Wars by the score of 30 to 0.

Don Harden, right fielder, and Ralph Twigg, first baseman, clouted home runs in the one-sided affair. Each of the Legion players obtained two or more hits and ran the team's total to nineteen.

Sain Registers Fourth Triumph Over St. Louis

Holmes Leads Batting Attack as Boston Braves Win, 4-1

BOSTON, May 17 (AP) — Tommy Holmes continued his savage attack against the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching today and his pair of doubles plus a single paced the Boston Braves to a 4-1 triumph.

The Tribesmen got topnotch twirling from Johnny Sain, who, while chalking up his fourth win of the season, held the Cards at bay in all but the fourth inning and limited them to seven hits. Box:

DODGERS WALLOP BUCS

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers raked six Pittsburgh pitchers for seventeen hits today to overwhelm the Pirates 16 to 6 and climb back into the National League lead. The St. Louis Cardinals fell to second place by losing to Boston.

Biggest blow of the Dodgers' barrage was Pete Reiser's inside-the-park homer with two on in the fourth. The runs proved to be the deciding markers since they overcome a 6-5 Pirate lead. Box:

Tami Mauriello Knocks Out British Champion in Fifth

Short Smashing Right Puts Woodcock Down after Invader Piles Up Early Lead

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—For four rounds tonight it appeared a new style British heavyweight champion was invading American rings, but after taking as much or more than he was dishing out for twelve minutes, Tami Mauriello, the Bronx fat boy, flattened the empire king, Bruce Woodcock, in the fifth session of their ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden. Mauriello weighed 198¼; Woodcock, 186¾.

Successor to such previous "peaceful" empire champions as Bombardier Wells, Horizontal Phil Scott and Tommy Farr down through the years, the square-chinned Woodcock turned out to be a clouter who could set off more fireworks than any of them—and for four rounds he set them off. Then the round man from uptown caught up with him late in the fifth with a short smashing right.

Referee Halts Bout

Down went the Doncaster Dynamiter, flat on his back, his arms outstretched. He pulled himself up at the nine count, but he obviously didn't know where he was or what time it was and Referee Eddie Josephs halted the proceedings there at two minutes, sixteen seconds of the session.

One of the smaller Garden crowds of the year, 13,749 customers, chipped in to a gross gate of $98,590 to see Woodcock and Mauriello collide for what may be a September heavyweight title shot. The best guess as to the reason for the comparatively tiny turnout was that the cash customers didn't like the $20 ringside tops. Promoter Mike Jacobs pinned on this tussle.

Loser Is 6 to 1 Underdog

Up to the start of the fifth, Woodcock was moving right along on what could have been one of the biggest upsets ever pulled out of the hat in the Garden. He was a 6 to 1 underdog among the lobby bookmakers and was 2 to 1 to be flattened along the way.

Yet, he walked out, tucked his chin in behind his left shoulder, and was even-up on the Associated Press score card at the end of four rounds against the pudgy pounder from uptown.

Paw Paw Shows Courage

By C. V. BURNS

Johnny Idleman, Keyser high school's ace high jumper, soared over the bar at five feet, eight inches to win the event last Saturday in the Martinsburg sectional meet instead of five feet, four inches as mentioned in this paper on Monday.

Idleman's best jump this season was five feet, ten inches in the Mineral county championship meet about a month ago.

In the other sectionals held throughout West Virginia last week the best the winners could do was five feet, four and one-half inches.

The best mark ever made in the high jump in a West Virginia state meet is six feet.

Juan Carrero, the classy Puerto Rican lightweight, who stopped Lee Sheppard, of Cleveland, in three rounds in the main go of "Vic" Ricker's last show here, will be one of the headliners in the next fistic program to be presented at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona, Pa., on May 29.

John Zan, manager of the Zan Athletic Club stable of boxers at Morgantown, W. Va., is matchmaker for an amateur show to be staged at Grant Town, W. Va., on Monday night.

Leading simon pures of the Zan A.C. and Fairmont will meet beak busters of the Canonsburg, Pa., team in the feature matches.

Which reminds us that Zan's boxers really had a field day in Cumberland during the past season. Our records show the Morgantown mittmen engaged in thirteen amateur and professional bouts here and bagged ten of them, which is a nice average.

The amateurs won eight of eleven bouts while the pros won twice in as many starts.

"I see where Lonaconing has seceded from the State of Maryland, and is now in Pennsylvania," remarks Prof. John J. Cavanaugh, Fort Hill's baseball mentor.

Jimmie Brown, local colored lightweight boxer, who lost an unpopular decision to Johnny Esposito early in the boxing season, squared matters with the latter in last Sunday's game at Community Park.

Brown, who came into the game as a relief pitcher for Fulton Myers Post after Harvey was laid low when struck on the head by a thrown ball, faced Esposito twice—in the eighth and ninth innings—and struck him out on both occasions.

"Buddy" belted a homer with two aboard the other day as the Bushwicks beat the Union City, N. J., Reds, 13 to 5.

Defeated in seven consecutive games, Paw Paw high school of the Tri-State Baseball Conference, has yielded a total of 148 runs or an average of twenty-one per game.

Most teams would have quit after taking it on the chin by scores such as 16-2, 16-1, 31-1, 30-3, 15-4, 18-3 and 22-1 but not those hardy Mountaineers.

Pavlick has signed Irv Sarlin, Pittsburgh heavyweight, as one of the principals in the American Business Men's Milk Fund Show on May 23 at The Point stadium.

Snead Takes Lead In Houston Golf

Sammy Moves Out Front at Halfway Mark with 140 Card

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 17 (AP)—Baldish Sammy Snead, that drawlin' man from Virginia, breezed in with a one-under-par 69 today to capture the lead at the midway point in the Colonial national invitation golf tournament.

One of three in the field of 28 to better regulations figures, Snead had a total of 140 for the 36 holes—one lower than Herman Keiser of Akron, O., who also shot a 69; Harry Todd of Dallas, who equalled par, and George Schneiter, yesterday's leader, who ran into a string of bad holes on the incoming nine — going one-over on each 12, 13, 14 and 15—and closed with a fat 74.

Snead, the Hot Springs, Va., veteran, had only two birdies but he went one over on just one hole although he missed five greens.

Arthur Donovan Freed Of Homicide Charge

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Arthur Donovan, third man in the ring at many world title boxing bouts, was freed of a homicide charge today in the fatal injury of David Stanley Corcoran April 19.

Assistant District Attorney Karl Grebow said that a grand jury after questioning Donovan and several other witnesses, had declined to indict the 54-year-old referee.

Police reported that Corcoran, 56, a glass importer, fell to the pavement after Donovan slapped him on leaving a cab about 5 a. m. a few blocks from the New York Athletic Club where Donovan was athletic director. Cocoran was staying at the club. The two had known each other for years.

Court Upholds Decision In Tom Smith Case

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The appellate division of the state supreme court today upheld the New York State Racing Commission and the Jockey Club (New York) in revoking the 1945 license of Trainer Tom Smith, who was suspended for one year in connection with the drugging of a horse in his barn.

The court asserted that the commission and Jockey Club, which ordered the suspension, starting last November 2, had the right to take such action where "just cause" existed.

The hearings alleged, however, that the stimulant was administered by Ernest Peveler, a groom in the barn. Smith was punished under the racing law which holds that a trainer is responsible at all times for horses in his care.

TIGERS NOSE OUT A's

DETROIT, May 17 — A pair of unearned eighth inning runs enabled the Detroit Tigers to squeeze out a 3 to 1 victory today over the Philadelphia Athletics, who put runners in scoring position in each of the last four innings but lacked the punch to drive them across.

Virgil Trucks, who yielded eight hits, thus notched his fourth victory, this time at the expense of Phil Marchildon, who gave the Tigers only five safeties but was charged with the loss. Box:

Charley Keller put New York out in front with a two-run homer in the first inning off starting Pitcher Bill Dietrich. The Yanks added two more in the second on four hits but were held to two safeties thereafter by Dietrich, Fran Papish and Earl Caldwell.

Gets 17-Pound Trout

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Fishermen's Paradise, Pennsylvania's specially stocked trout stream, opened its 1946 season to anglers today with a new record catch—a 30½ inch brown, weighing seventeen pounds.

"I was certainly lucky to get that one out," exclaimed Francis Kartsch, of Johnstown, Pa., as he netted the exhausted fish, which had battled for an hour and forty minutes.

Before the turn of the century, track and field events at Colgate University included stilt, egg, barrel and wheelbarrow races.

QUEEN CITY WILL TEST 'CONEY AND MIDLAND IN LEAGUE GAMES

Both Tilts Listed Here; Moorefield, Eagles To Play Legion

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove's Lonaconing Republican Club and Bobby Blair's Midland American Legion Club will provide the opposition for the Queen City Brewers in Bi-State Baseball League games scheduled at Stitcher Field today and tomorrow at 3 p. m.

These two games are important as a double win would boost the Brewers' average from their present .333—one win and two losses—to .600, or three victories and two defeats.

Lonaconing is tied with Westvaco for first place in President Roy Beeman's circuit and will be angling for its fourth straight triumph when it tangles with Manager Charley Doyle's tossers this afternoon in North End.

Midland Is Here Sunday

Tommorrow Midland will blow into town and Queen City will be striving to blow them down and out. The Blairmen are tied with Queen City in the league standings and expect to give the Brewers a battle since strengthening their lineup in the past week.

C. Arthur Smith, Jr., business manager of the Brewers, yesterday announced that Bernard Baker, righthanded pitcher, has been added to the Queen City roster. Baker pitched winning ball for the locals last year and may appear in today's or tomorrow's game.

Other Bi-State games on tap for today finds Frostburg Legion at Centerville, Westvaco at Midland and Barton at Romney.

If both Lonaconing and Westvaco win games today the big battle Sunday will be between those undefeated league leaders at Memorial Park, Westernport. Other Sabbath tilts are between Romney at Centreville on the Reds' field and Frostburg and Barton at the latter place.

In other Interstate League games scheduled for today, Moorefield meets Fort Cumberland Post at Community Park, Hyndman Firemen invade Barrelville and Fulton Myers Post is at Mt. Savage. The Eagles-Moose game scheduled for today has been postponed until next Saturday at 3 p. m. at Stitcher field.

1923 Game Is Recalled

Fulton Myers Post's visit to Mt. Savage today marks the first appearance of a Negro baseball team in Mt. Savage since 1923 when John Brown's Cubs played there and won by the score of 24 to 1. Oldtimers recall that the Cubs made seven home runs in that contest. Clarence "Cannonball" Smith, manager of the Fulton Myers Post team, was a pitcher with the Cubs in those days.

Tomorrow Fort Cumberland Post engages the Cumberland Eagles at Community Park at 3 p. m., Barrelville is host to Mt. Savage, the Moose travels to Moorefield and Fulton Myers Post battles the Firemen at Hyndman.

Mt. Savage heads this circuit with three wins and no losses while Fort Cumberland and Moorefield are knotted for runner-up honors with three wins and one loss each.

SPORT BRIEFS

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Disturbed by the batting slump that has carried his average well below .300, Joe DiMaggio underwent a complete physical checkup this week in St. Louis. However, the outfielder says he learned nothing that a few base hits could not cure.

"The doctor didn't give me a clean bill of health," DiMaggio said today, "but there was nothing organically wrong."

LIVERPOOL, England, May 17 (AP)—British Open Golf Champion Dick Burton embarked on the Swedish liner Gripsholm tonight for New York where he will meet Byron Nelson in a 36-hole challenge match. He also will play in various tournaments.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 17 (AP) — The Royal and Ancient Golf Club announced today that Tommy Armour and possibly three other Americans — Gene Sarazen, Lloyd Mangrum and Johnny Bulla—would compete in the British open golf tourney here starting July 1.

BROOKLYN, May 17 (AP) — Bob Elliott, Pittsburgh outfielder, was knocked unconscious by a line drive today in the midst of a Brooklyn Dodger first inning scoring spree.

Two runs were across and Cookie Lavagetto on base when Charles Furillo slammed one to the right field wall. The ball caromed off the fence and struck Elliott with such force that he was knocked out. Lavagetto, meantime, scored the third run of the inning.

Elliott was replaced by Jack Barrett.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 17 (AP)—Army and Virginia Poly will meet on the gridiron in both 1947 and 1948, Graduate Manager of Athletics Col. L. M. (Biff) Jones said today. The first game will be played here Oct. 18, 1947. The two last met in 1942 when Army won, 19 to 7.

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Walter Johnson, one of baseball's oldtime pitching greats, went for his first ride in a wheelchair today after being confined to a hospital bed for five weeks.

Johnson's daughter, Miss Barbara Joan, told a reporter that the strikeout king of the Washington Senators a quarter of a century ago has shown "slow but sure improvement and his spirit is fine."

CLEVELAND, May 17 (AP) — The Cleveland Browns of the All-America Pro Football Conference today announced signing of Ends George Young of Georgia University and Gregg Browning of Denver University and Guard Tony Rosselli of Youngstown College and Don Marlin of Western Colorado State College.

MONDAY GAMES

Keegan's at Legion
Maccabees at Shamrocks
Williams Street at V. F. W.

Billy Dean's timely single, which featured a four-run rally in the sixth inning, coupled with the pitching of Billy Underdonk who yielded seven hits and struck out nine batsmen, enabled the Williams Street Merchants to snap the five-game winning streak of Lacy's Delicatets yesterday in a City Softball League game on the Rolling Mill diamond. The score was 7 to 5.

It was the first setback of the season for Lacy's and also the Delicatets' first defeat since the opening game of the championship series with the Eagles last fall.

Trailing 5 to 3 going into the dast half of the sixth, Williams Street staged a rousing four-run rally to put the game on ice. After one down, Hartsock singled Porter and Algieri walked to fill the bases and Billy Dean knocked in three runs with a timely single. A wild throw by Athey enabled Dean to race to third from where he scored later on Harry Minnicks' long fly to the outfield. At this point, "Bunny" Saum, Lacy's pitching ace, was replaced by Jim Roby, who pitched to the last batter.

Billy Dean, Spoltore and Hartsock banged out two hits each for the victors while Catcher Harry Dean connected for a two bagger. "Pooch" Orndorff obtained two of the Delicatets' seven bingles.

Despite the defeat, Lacy's clung on to first place by one half game due to the Maccabees-East Side game being postponed on account of wet grounds. A victory for East Side would have tied that club with Lacy's for first place.

Rice Boys Steal Show

The Rice Brothers — George and Jim — put the slug on Keegan's Jupers as the Shamrocks romped off with an 8 to 5 victory at Campobello.

George Rice was hitting for distance and contributed three home runs while Jim Rice had a perfect day at bat with three doubles and a single in four trips. The brothers accounted for seven of the Shamrocks' thirteen hits.

Legion Wins, 30 to 0

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, went on a batting spree at Community Park and swamped the Veterans of Foreign Wars by the score of 30 to 0.

Don Harden, right fielder, and Ralph Twigg, first baseman, clouted home runs in the one-sided affair. Each of the Legion players obtained two or more hits and ran the team's total to nineteen.

Sain Registers Fourth Triumph Over St. Louis

Holmes Leads Batting Attack as Boston Braves Win, 4-1

BOSTON, May 17 (AP) — Tommy Holmes continued his savage attack against the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching today and his pair of doubles plus a single paced the Boston Braves to a 4-1 triumph.

The Tribesmen got topnotch twirling from Johnny Sain, who, while chalking up his fourth win of the season, held the Cards at bay in all but the fourth inning and limited them to seven hits. Box:

DODGERS WALLOP BUCS

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers raked six Pittsburgh pitchers for seventeen hits today to overwhelm the Pirates 16 to 6 and climb back into the National League lead. The St. Louis Cardinals fell to second place by losing to Boston.

Biggest blow of the Dodgers' barrage was Pete Reiser's inside-the-park homer with two on in the fourth. The runs proved to be the deciding markers since they overcome a 6-5 Pirate lead. Box:

Lane Says Major Road Projects Are Needed Here

Gubernatorial Candidate Calls for Improved School System

William Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown, Democratic candidate for governor, last night told a local radio audience that Western Maryland should have a number of major road improvements during the next four years and pledged himself to see to it that this end of the state gets its full share of new construction if he is elected.

"During the past five or six years, due to the war, and perhaps to other causes, very little has been done in the way of constructing roads in Western Maryland," Lane said, "and with its hills and mountains, there is no part of the state in which good roads are more important.

"Furthermore, because of its scenic beauty and its geographical location for east and west traffic, there is no part of the state which attracts more tourists. Both for the convenience of our own citizens and for the benefits which flow from tourist travel, which will be tremendously increased as soon as new automobiles are available, Western Maryland should have a number of major road improvements," Lane said.

Favors Better Schools

Lane also declared that "as governor, I will seek to give Maryland the best schools in the nation so that our boys and girls may become the best citizens in the nation."

The speaker ,who devoted a large portion of his talk to schools, said "the Maryland public school system has been greatly improved in recent years but there is room for still further improvement and I intend to place the maintenance and improvements of the public school system of Maryland high on the list of my chief objectives. I believe firmly in economy but it is false economy to be niggardly about the public schools and the public school teachers.

"Delinquents among juveniles and adult criminals are to a great extent recruited from the ranks of those who were improperly educated or who failed to secure an adequate education", Lane said, "and the cost to the state of looking after juvenile delinquents and criminal adults can be materially decreased if proper educational facilities are afforded all our citizens.

In addition, partly as a result of the war, we are living in a time when many strange ideas are being circulated among our people. Some of these ideas and tendencies are at variance with established American principals of government and unless checked and corrected, they may result in undermining the very foundations of our government. The best cure for this sort of thing is a sound educational system."

As a business man and as an attorney, Lane said he has had many contacts with labor and "I think those contacts have enabled me to learn and appreciate labor's viewpoint just as well as I know and understand the viewpoint of management."

Would Aid Veterans

Lane said that it follows that both management and labor are interested in business making a fair profit, and in employes receiving fair wages, "and the sooner this is realized and amicably worked out, the better off everyone will be."

Lane said there may be no simple panacea that will solve the age-old conflict between labor and management, "but I do believe that the use of good hard American common sense with honesty and fairness on both sides, will greatly minimize the difficulties."

As a World War I veteran, Lane said there are many ways in which the state can be helpful to the veterans and "when elected governor I will do everything possible to aid them.

"However, it is well to remember", Lane continued, "that the primary obligation to the veterans rests upon the Federal government and not upon the individual states, but to the extent that the state can aid in securing proper facilities for them, in providing jobs, in helping them to secure proper homes and particularly in being solicitous to see that all disabled veterans receive every possible benefit and attention, I pledge my full co-operation."

FBI Agents Arrest Corriganville Man

James Kennedy Is Jailed on Charge of Transporting Stolen Car

James Leonard Kennedy, 21, of Corriganville, arrested at his home yesterday by FBI agents, on a charge of transporting a stolen auto across a state line, was arraigned before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, and committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bond.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Baltimore, said last night that Kennedy is charged with taking a 1935 Pontiac sedan owned by Melvin C. Abe, of Ridgeley, W. Va., and transporting it to Portage, Pa., on April 15. The car, according to police, was stolen from a city street in Cumberland, and when it was discovered in Portage, it had been abandoned and was in a damaged condition.

Authorities indicated that Kennedy will be taken to Pittsburgh, Pa., where he will face charges of having transported the stolen vehicle in interstate commerce.

Hallford said Kennedy is a veteran of the United States navy, and was discharged March 7, 1946. The agent said Kennedy received a bad conduct discharge, after serving about eight months of a sentence imposed by a court martial for being AWOL.

Federal officials said last night the maximum penalty for violating the National Motor Vehicle act is five years in the penitentiary or $5,000 fine or both.

Production Needed To Combat Hunger, Beall Declares

Stating that "production, not propaganda for the continuance of government mismanagement, is the answer to hunger," Representative J. Glenn Beall joined this week with other members of Congress in protesting to Chester Bowles, stabilization director, regarding the rationing of food.

Beall and other congressmen pointed out that despite the alleged necessity to continue rationing, nothing has been done to increase production of farm machinery; government-owned nitrate plants have been idle since last summer despite a "critical" world shortage of fertilizer; the OPA has been permitted to retain a price structure that is a "detriment" to the production of milk, sugar, butter, meat and other basic foods; and "millions of pounds" of copra are being allowed to rot on the ground in the Philippines, despite the shortage of fats and oils.

Following House passage this week of his bill to amend the adoption law of the District of Columbia, Beall is now working on legislation to amend the Civil Service act with regard to retirement pay.

Each morning this week, Beall attended hearings of the sub-committee considering rent control on commercial property in the district. He also attended hearings of the flood control committee considering legislation affecting Louisiana and Mississippi.

The congressman has asked the administrator of the War Assets Administration to change regulations to make it easier for educational institutions to obtain surplus property.

Scottish Rite Plans Programs For Ladies Night

The "Ladies Night" programs planned for Thursday and Friday, May 23 and 24, by the members of Cumberland Consistory of the Scottish Rite of Free Masonry give promise of being the most attractive in some time, it was revealed yesterday.

Members of the committee on arrangements headed by Lawrence H. Shafferman have announced that the event will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with attendance limited to 250 guests each night.

The program for each night will start with a banquet at 6:15 p. m. with Shafferman serving as toastmaster. A floor show will follow at 8 p. m. which includes a star-studded cast of professional entertainers.

The floor show, consisting of four acts, will open with a performance by Kennon and Company, accordian and zillophone specialists. Benny O'Neal, a widely-known impersonation specialist, will next appear. Peck and Reed, who are billed as "two screwballs of pantomine" will put on an original act and the show will conclude with Robert and Roberta, a balancing and adagio team.

Ladies who attend this year's programs are going to be pleasantly surprised when favors are distributed that have been selected by a special committee. Nothing like them has been seen since the war, committee members admitted.

After the floor show and distribution of gifts, there will be dancing for the guests from 9:15 to 12:30. The Aristocrats will play for dancing Thursday night with the Society Ramblers providing the music on Friday.

Committee members assisting Chairman Shafferman are Ralph R. Webster, Joseph V. Tuk, Kenneth S. Hopwood and Harold C. Wickard.

Board Is Advised That Coal Prices Will Be Higher

Increase on All Types Will Be Effective May 13, Jenkins Says

William S. Jenkins, secretary of the Consolidated Fuel Company, yesterday advised the board of county commissioners that the Office of Price Administration has indicated that an increase in the price of all types of coal is to be granted effective May 13.

The board last week decided to order a supply of coal from the Consolidated Fuel Company for Sylvan Retreat, the county asylum, where the fuel was nearly exhausted. It was agreed to pay any price which may be fixed by government agencies.

It was assumed that the proposed increase in cost will follow any wage increase granted to the miners during negotiations between the operators and the United Mine Workers of America.

New Roadway Sought

William P. Cooper, of Barton high school faculty, asked the board to construct a roadway from McCoole road to the Potomac river to enable the McCoole Volunteer Fire Company to reach the river with an auxiliary pumper recently purchased. The request was referred to County Engineer John H. Carscaden.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles W. Lee Elgin asked that the board give him authority to send checks for state auto and truck license taxes to County Tax Collector Lucian C. Radcliffe. Through error, the checks have been made out to County Treasurer Frederick C. Dreyer. It was explained that in most Maryland counties the treasurer is also tax collector and checks due to those counties were made out to the treasurers.

J. Walter Byer, president of the Western Maryland Motor Club, thanked the board for a $50 donation to the schoolboy patrol fund. The board accepted a bid of $150 from Aaron Lazarus for Lot No. 302 of Walsh's Addition on Lafayette avenue.

Walsh Tells Democratic Workers Lane Will Carry Allegany County

William C. Walsh, former attorney-general, last night told a large crowd of party workers including standees, at the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club that farsighted strategy on the part of the party definitely pointed to the fact that William Preston Lane, Jr., is the man Maryland Democrats should nominate for governor on June 24.

Walsh told the auidence that Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore, probably will be the Republican nominee and told his listeners to "make no mistake about it, the mayor is a vote getter."

However, with Lane nominated, Walsh said the party would have the advantage of having a World War I veteran who knows veterans' problems oppposing McKeldin. Lane, Walsh declared, is the only Democratic candidate in the race who is a war veteran. Another advantage in having Lane as the Democratic standard bearer in the state is the fact that the Hagerstown man, the first Western Maryland man likely to be governor in sixty years, could be counted on to make greater inroads into the Republican party in this section than any other Democratic possibility, Walsh said.

Lane Makes Talk

Walsh told the crowd that there is some opposition to Lane in Allegany county at the moment but predicted that Lane will carry the county by a large majority. In referring to opposition to Lane here, Walsh reminded his audience that some of Tawes's local supporters are "employed by him" and also cited the fact that one man on the Tawes ticket is an Allegany county man.

Citing his long friendship with Lane that dates back to the time they soldiered together on the Mexican border, Walsh denied suggestions that have been made to the effect that he "isn't in earnest" about the present campaign and said "I was never more in earnest in my life."

Lane, who had previously made an address over Station WTBO before going to the Cosmopolitan Club, told the club he wanted to be governor to have the opportunity and privilege of serving the people of his state. He told his listeners no candidate should say he knows all the answers because it wouldn't be honest but pledged that, if nominated and elected, he would endeavor to bring an intellectual honesty to the position and would have the courage to act.

Lane, who speaks quietly and without fanfare, spoke at some length on the type of government Americans believe in—the belief that people can govern themselves—

Railroad Management and Labor Officials Prepare for Strike

Trainmen and Engineers Will Meet Here Tonight at 7 O'Clock

Railroad management and labor officials alike here last night seemed puzzled about just what to say over the government's seizure of rail transportation service, and the pending strike of engineers and trainmen, scheduled for this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

H. F. Wyatt, superintendent of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, explained he had received official notice from the line's president, Roy B. White, explaining the situation, and confirming President Truman's seizure order.

Wyatt was hopeful that something might be worked out before 4 p. m. today to avert the tie-up of the country's transportation system. He explained that no special preparations were being made by the road here, and that the pressure of the threatened strike has already curtailed traffic considerably. People are not traveling, he explained, because they do not like the idea of possibly being stranded somewhere, and unable to return home.

Trainmen Will Meet

An embargo on perishables and livestock was self-imposed late last night by all major railroads, Wyatt said, because railroads do not want train loads of cattle and perishable foodstuffs on their tracks if trains are unable to move because of a strike.

G. Edwin Parker, 705 Elm street, vice chairman of the legislative board of Maryland for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said last night that the strike call was issued for his union some time ago, and that as far as he knew last night, the strike would become effective this afternoon as scheduled.

A meeting of the Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomitive Engineers, the two organized groups which have called the strike, will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the IOOF hall, over the Leader theater, Virginia avenue.

Parker said strike headquarters will be established there if the strike is called.

The spokesman for the Brotherhood explained that trainmen and engineers have agreed to move only milk trains, hospital trains and troop trains. No other freight or passenger traffic will be moved, re-

Attorney General Files an Answer In Cromwell Suit

William Curran Asserts 1933 Liquor Control Act Is Constitutional

In an answer filed yesterday in circuit court Attorney General William Curran submitted that the 1933 Liquor Control act is not unconstitutional and said he concurs with Clerk Robert Jackson who filed an answer May 4 to a petition for a writ of mandamus docketed April 13 by Eldred A. Cromwell, operator of the Elda Inn, who charged the act was unconstitutional and asked for a liquor permit under the saloon law of 1894.

The brief answer filed yesterday by Curran and Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general, said in part:

"We submit that the provisions of Chapter 5 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed at its 1933 special session are not unconstitutional and void as alleged in the tenth paragraph and elsewhere in the plaintiff's petition."

The answer also stated that the attorney general accepts in its entirety the answer filed by Clerk of Court Jackson.

The petition for a license under the old saloon law was filed by F. Neale Parke, Westminister, former judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, counsel for Cromwell, and named Clerk Jackson as defendant, alleging the latter had refused to issue Cromwell a liquor under the old saloon law. Cromwell has been denied a license under the 1933 act after applying several times in recent years.

Clerk Jackson's answer to the petition was filed by former Attorney General William C. Walsh, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the court of appeals. They denied that the 1933 act in unconstitutional and asserted it repealed the 1894 law. The attorneys also cited that the county "might go dry" in event the 1933 act was declared illegal in the court test, since no licenses could then be issued until the next session of the legislature in January, when a new act would be passed.

No date for a hearing on the petition has been set but it will be conducted in the local court by Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown.

MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR PORT CONCESSION TO BE READY TODAY

Charles C. Sullivan, who has bid for a restaurant and night club concession at the Cumberland Municipal airport, said last night that he will have completed by this morning a detailed statement of his proposed plan of managing the concession, as well as building specifications.

Sullivan was requested by the municipal airport commission earlier this week to prepare such a statement and submit it to Cumberland Airways, Inc., the West Virginia corporation which operates the airport under lease from the city.

The commission will then study the statement and in turn submit it to the mayor and city council if it is approved.

Sullivan, who operates a restaurant at 332 Virginia avenue, said he plans to spend between $12,000 and $15,000 in constructing a building for a restaurant and night club at the airport, if his bid for the concession is approved.

He indicated last night that he will ask John A. Chapman, airport manager, to contact the members of the commission today with a view to getting a final decision on his plans and specifications, so that they may be submitted to the mayor and city council Monday if approved.

The meeting of the Kelly local will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the union hall.

Beard said a number of members wish to return to the Thursdays for the bi-weekly meetings so that they may have Sunday free.

UNION PLANS DRIVE TO ORGANIZE ALL RETAIL CLERKS HERE

Plans for placing under contract all employes of department, accessory, grocery and meat stores in the Cumberland area will be formulated at meetings to be held Monday in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland hotel, William R. McGinnis, Pittsburgh, international representative of the Retail Clerks Protective Association, announced yesterday.

McGinnis said clerks at both chain and independent food stores will be unionized.

The union official said the locals will also take action to intensify the picketing of the Peskin's Shoe Store here which has been on strike since last Friday. He asserted settlement of the issue is hinging on the return of one clerk and a union shop.

Pastor of First Methodist Church To Resign June 1

The Rev. G. E. Baughman To Enter Construction Business Here

The Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of First Methodist church for the past thirteen years, announced yesterday that he will submit his resignation Sunday afternoon at the quarterly conference of the church. The resignation will become effective June 1.

A native of York, Pa., the Rev. Mr. Baughman has served in the Methodist ministry for twenty-one years. He was pastor of the Bedford circuit in Centerville and Bedford Valley, Pa., before coming to Cumberland.

His successor is expected to be appointed at the annual session of the Baltimore conference of the Methodist church, which will be held in Westminster from May 29 to June 2.

The Rev. Mr. Baughman said a full report of his pastorate at First Methodist church for the past thirteen years will be given at the quarterly conference of the church Sunday, as well as all reports for the year. New members will also be received into the church at that time.

The minister said he is resigning his pastorate to enter the construction business. The state tax commission has issued a certificate of incorporation to the Baughman Construction Company, with offices here. Capital stock consists of 100 shares, with par value of $100 each, and the firm will engage in a general construction business. Besides the minister, subscribers are his wife, Mr. Grace N. Baughman, and Earl E. Manges, local attorney.

The Rev. and Mrs. Baughman were honored by the membership of First Methodist church with a farewell party Wednesday evening at the church. A gift of furniture for use in their new home in Allegany Grove, which is nearing completion, was presented by Mrs. Frederick W. Growden on behalf of the congregation.

13 Kelly Workers Are Apprehended In Traffic Drive

Thirteen Kelly-Springfield Tire Company workers were arrested during the past two days as a result of a drive by local police to eliminate what they term a serious traffic hazard resulting when homeward bound Kelly workers leave the rear gate of the plant by way of Springfield boulevard.

Seven of the motorists were arrested Thursday afternoon, four that evening and two more yesterday afternoon. All were asked to post $5 bonds.

Six of the drivers picked up Thursday afternoon forfeited bonds while Maurice Leasure, 515 Pearre avenue, who appeared at a hearing in police court, was fined $5 after police exhibited photographs indicating clearly, police said, the boulevard was a one way street.

Police said the drivers left the rear gate of the plant by State street and turned into Springfield boulevard so they might enter Kelly boulevard ahead of other cars and added that the traffic jam endangers both pedestrians and vehicular traffic.

Those who forefeited bonds yesterday were booked as Harold J. J. May, Hyndman; Morgan D. Morgan, Mt. Savage; and Gerald Hager, Joseph Nies, J. C. B. Treiber and George D. Swan, all of this city.

Arrested at the same place Thursday night were J. S. Rhodes, Keyser; James Austin, Meyersdale; Vance Goldsworthy, 326 Grand avenue, and C. C. Baker, 425 Henderson avenue. Rhodes forfeited bond and the other three were fined $5 each on careless driving charges.

Elinor G. Wiseman, Boulevard apartments, and L. A. Long, Route 1, were arrested on the same street yesterday and posted $5 bonds for hearings today.

In other traffic cases, Carl W. Jewell, Cresaptown, forfeited $5 bond and Austin Mullenax, Route 3, paid a $5 fine on a careless driving charge.

400 School Children To Take Part In First Project of Nutrition Unit

Approximately 400 elementary school pupils in Westernport and Luke will have taken part in the first project of the nutrition unit of the United States Public Health Service when it is completed next week, health department officials said yesterday.

A three-day examination of 120 fifth and sixth grade pupils at the Hammond street school, Westernport, was concluded yesterday at noon. Nine teachers also participated in the tests, which were made on a voluntary basis. The tests included a blood test for anemia, a one-day diet record, and a physical inspection.

It was pointed out that of a total enrollment of 137 in the two grades, ten were absent during the days the tests were held, and that ninety-four per cent of the remaining pupils in those grades took part.

Request Slips Distributed

Preliminary arrangements included giving each child a request slip to be filled out by his parents, stating that if permission were granted by parents for the child to take part, a hemoglobin test for anemia would be given and a physical inspection made under the direction of a health officer.

No child was examined without presenting a signed request slip, it was stated.

A similar examination of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils at the Luke school will be held Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday pupils in the seventh and eighth grades of Bruce high school in Westernport will be examined.

Any unusual findings will be reported to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, and complete reports will be sent to the United States Public Health Service in Washington, to contribute to the nationwide picture of nutrition standards throughout the country.

Approximately ten children are examined an hour, health officials said. Several mothers of pupils at the Hammond street school acted as clerical helpers in registering the children prior to examination.

Results of individual examinations will be made available to parents, and during the second week in June clinics are planned at each of the three schools so that parents may discuss the findings with personnel of the nutrition unit.

Staff Chemist Joins Unit

The entire personnel of the nutrition unit, headed by Dr. John Smillie, is conducting the project. Dr. Smillie is assisted by Miss Mary L. Brakel, nutritionist; Miss Dolores Howley, public health nurse; Miss Miriam Eads, who is assisting Miss

Unity Conference Indorses Lane And McKeldin

The Labor Unity Conference here has indorsed three state candidates for political office, according to an announcement made by Paul L. Burley, secretary.

The group, composed of representatives of all branches of organized labor, has voted to support William Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown, and Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore, candidates for the Democratic and Republican nominations for governor, respectively, and the candidacy of Herbert R. O'Conor, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

In Baltimore yesterday Albert Atallah, chairman of the Maryland CIO Political Action Committee, announced that the PAC has not indorsed "any particular candidate."

"No one from the (State) CIO-PAC has made a public statement of any kind to anyone as far as support of political candidates goes," Atallah said.

He added that the committee intended to discuss "several matters" next week and that "among those matters, we possibly may discuss some candidate."

Although the State CIO-PAC has not announced support of candidates, the national group has endorsed Governor O'Conor for the Senate in his campaign against Senator Radcliffe for the Democratic nomination.

The Labor Unity Conference appointed a committee composed of William Boyd Coleman, G. E. Parker and W. J. Jones to make a study of county candidates and submit some recommendations.

Harry Epstein, field representative of the National CIO Political Action Committee, urged united political action and steps were discussed to form ward and precinct organizations for getting out the vote.

New Recruiting Program Will Be Worked Out Soon

Army, navy and marine corps recruiters here are all "singing the blues," since President Truman signed the amended selective service extension act, which bans induction of 18 and 19-year-old youths.

Recruiters explain that many of the men enlisted, did so because they would have been drafted through local draft boards sooner or later, and by enlisting are able to select their theater and branch of service. Some prefer the navy and marines to the army, and consequently enlisted in one of these two services to avoid the army.

With the age limit moved up, it has become necessary for recruiters to work out new sales talks and new selling ideas to obtain recruits, and fewer volunteers can be expected, they claim, since there are fewer men in the older aged brackets to come in.

Plans are already underway to "go to work" on a new recruiting program, but recruiters know that their work is going to be more difficult, and fewer enlistments will probably result in the changed law.

Local draft board officials say they have reached the "bottom of the barrel," since induction of the 18 and 19-year-olds is banned, and non-fathers between 20 and 30 can be drafted. Inductions here will probably cease, as there are few if any eligible men here for draft. No pre-induction groups will be sent to Baltimore for physical examinations until after July 1.

The large number of 18 year old youths in high schools and colleges, deferred until the end of the school terms, are literally "up in the air," because they don't know where they stand—except to July 1, and they can't be called up to that time, under the amended bill.

An indication of the small number of men between 20 and 30 on the registration books in the county draft board offices is shown in the announcement from Washington that only 61,000 eligibles left in this bracket in the entire nation. And it is estimated that about half of that number would fail to pass physical examinations.

One group of 15 youths was slated to go to Baltimore next Tuesday for pre-induction tests, according to P. Emmett Fahey, chief clerk of Local Board No. 2, but this has been cancelled since the new bill went into effect.

After President Truman signed the act, which he termed "a bad bill," Selective Service officials in Washington announced that its men 26 and over will be continued.

Tawes, Roloson And Cobey Make Tour of County

Candidate for Governor Outlines Program in Address Here

A radio address followed by a reception in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland hotel last night, climaxed an all-day tour of Allegany county yesterday by J. Millard Tawes, of Crisfield, Democratic candidate for governor, W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, candidate for attorney general, and Charles H. Roloson, Baltimore, candidate for state comptroller.

The caravan started its tour here, went to Cresaptown, McCoole, Westernport, Luke, and down through the George's Creek region, stopping at Vale Summit, Lonaconing, Barton, Midland, Frostburg and Mt. Savage, back to this city. The reception at Fort Cumberland last night was attended by a large crowd of party workers, candidates and interested persons.

Despite rainy weather, candidates and workers who made up the tour said they were received by "large groups of party members and friends everywhere they stopped."

Would Cut Indebtedness

In his radio address last night, Tawes indorsed his running mates, Cobey and Roloson, and told his radio audience that he and Roloson are "asserting every effort in Cobey's behalf throughout the state and are asking our friends to vote for him." He stated "it is most reassuring to me that in turn, he is asking his friends here in Western Maryland to support Mr. Roloson for comptroller and my candidacy for governor."

Tawes expressed the view that every section of the state has the right to representation in the high offices of the state and said, "I believe you will find that our ticket or slate is the only primary group which offers that choice."

Reviewing the program of Tawes, Cobey and Roloson, the speaker said, "first of all we intend to adhere to and improve upon that fiscal policy which has brought Maryland back to the status of a state with good credit, cutting our public indebtedness in half, and staying well within our budget program."

"One of the most important problems facing people of Maryland," the speaker continued, "is the problem of the public school system. Very early in this campaign we contacted the legislative committee of the Teachers Association of Allegany County. Under the leadership of Orbie B. Boughton, chairman, Robert C. Morris and Harold C. Wickard, this committee has received statewide recognition as an intelligent and reasonable group. In response to my inquiry, they gave a public statement worthy of not only county publicity, but statewide publicity.

Citing the make-shifts in our educational system, the emergency teachers and the continual shifting of teacher population, they forcibly bring out the fact that such continuing conditions deny the boys and girls of Maryland a chance to gain the knowledge and capability to meet the problems of life.

"Their last paragraph is worthy of complete quotation here. It states, 'There is little real shortage of available capable teachers, but there is a decided shortage of due compensation to get and hold such teachers'.

Would Raise Teachers' Pay

"We take full cognizance of this situation and if I am elected, I shall request the legislature to fix teachers salaries in accordance with the rise in the cost of living since the last enactment of school teachers' pay."

Speaking of industrial and labor relations he said "I have constantly fought for and aided labor legislation in such fields as unemployment

Gubernatorial Candidate Calls for Improved School System

William Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown, Democratic candidate for governor, last night told a local radio audience that Western Maryland should have a number of major road improvements during the next four years and pledged himself to see to it that this end of the state gets its full share of new construction if he is elected.

"During the past five or six years, due to the war, and perhaps to other causes, very little has been done in the way of constructing roads in Western Maryland," Lane said, "and with its hills and mountains, there is no part of the state in which good roads are more important.

"Furthermore, because of its scenic beauty and its geographical location for east and west traffic, there is no part of the state which attracts more tourists. Both for the convenience of our own citizens and for the benefits which flow from tourist travel, which will be tremendously increased as soon as new automobiles are available, Western Maryland should have a number of major road improvements," Lane said.

Favors Better Schools

Lane also declared that "as governor, I will seek to give Maryland the best schools in the nation so that our boys and girls may become the best citizens in the nation."

The speaker ,who devoted a large portion of his talk to schools, said "the Maryland public school system has been greatly improved in recent years but there is room for still further improvement and I intend to place the maintenance and improvements of the public school system of Maryland high on the list of my chief objectives. I believe firmly in economy but it is false economy to be niggardly about the public schools and the public school teachers.

"Delinquents among juveniles and adult criminals are to a great extent recruited from the ranks of those who were improperly educated or who failed to secure an adequate education", Lane said, "and the cost to the state of looking after juvenile delinquents and criminal adults can be materially decreased if proper eduecational facilities are afforded all our citizens.

In addition, partly as a result of the war, we are living in a time when many strange ideas are being circulated among our people. Some of these ideas and tendencies are at variance with established American principals of government and unless checked and corrected, they may result in undermining the very foundations of our government. The best cure for this sort of thing is a sound educational system."

As a business man and as an attorney, Lane said he has had many contacts with labor and "I think those contacts have enabled me to learn and appreciate labor's viewpoint just as well as I know and understand the viewpoint of management."

Would Aid Veterans

Lane said that it follows that both management and labor are interested in business making a fair profit, and in employes receiving fair wages, "and the sooner this is realized and amicably worked out, the better off everyone will be."

Lane said there may be no simple panaces that will solve the age-old conflict between labor and management, "but I do believe that the use of good hard American common sense with honesty and fairness on both sides, will greatly minimize the difficulties."

As a World War I veteran, Lane said there are many ways in which the state can be helpful to the veterans and "when elected governor I will do everything possible to aid them.

"However, it is well to remember", Lane continued, "that the primary obligation to the veterans rests upon the Federal government and not upon the individual states, but to the extent that the state can aid in securing proper facilities for them, in providing jobs, in helping them to secure proper homes and particularly in being solicitous to see that all disabled veterans receive every possible benefit and attention, I pledge my full co-operation."

FBI Agents Arrest Corriganville Man

James Kennedy Is Jailed on Charge of Transporting Stolen Car

James Leonard Kennedy, 21, of Corriganville, arrested at his home yesterday by FBI agents, on a charge of transporting a stolen auto across a state line, was arraigned before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, and committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bond.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Baltimore, said last night that Kennedy is charged with taking a 1935 Pontiac sedan owned by Melvin C. Abe, of Ridgeley, W. Va., and transporting it to Portage, Pa., on April 15. The car, according to police, was stolen from a city street in Cumberland, and when it was discovered in Portage, it had been abandoned and was in a damaged condition.

Authorities indicated that Kennedy will be taken to Pittsburgh, Pa., where he will face charges of having transported the stolen vehicle in interstate commerce.

Hallford said Kennedy is a veteran of the United States navy, and was discharged March 7, 1946. The agent said Kennedy received a bad conduct discharge, after serving about eight months of a sentence imposed by a court martial for being AWOL.

Federal officials said last night the maximum penalty for violating the National Motor Vehicle act is five years in the penitentiary or $5,000 fine or both.

Production Needed To Combat Hunger, Beall Declares

Stating that "production, not propaganda for the continuance of government mismanagement, is the answer to hunger," Representative J. Glenn Beall joined this week with other members of Congress in protesting to Chester Bowles, stabilization director, regarding the rationing of food.

Beall and other congressmen pointed out that despite the alleged necessity to continue rationing, nothing has been done to increase production of farm machinery; government-owned nitrate plants have been idle since last summer despite a "critical" world shortage of fertilizer; the OPA has been permitted to retain a price structure that is a "detriment" to the production of milk, sugar, butter, meat and other basic foods; and "millions of pounds" of copra are being allowed to rot on the ground in the Philippines, despite the shortage of fats and oils.

Following House passage this week of his bill to amend the adoption law of the District of Columbia, Beall is now working on legislation to amend the Civil Service act with regard to retirement pay.

Each morning this week, Beall attended hearings of the sub-committee considering rent control on commercial property in the district. He also attended hearings of the flood control committee considering legislation affecting Louisiana and Mississippi.

The congressman has asked the administrator of the War Assets Administration to change regulations to make it easier for educational institutions to obtain surplus property.

Scottish Rite Plans Programs For Ladies Night

The "Ladies Night" programs planned for Thursday and Friday, May 23 and 24, by the members of Cumberland Consistory of the Scottish Rite of Free Masonry give promise of being the most attractive in some time, it was revealed yesterday.

Members of the committee on arrangements headed by Lawrence H. Shafferman have announced that the event will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with attendance limited to 250 guests each night.

The program for each night will start with a banquet at 6:15 p. m. with Shafferman serving as toastmaster. A floor show will follow at 8 p. m. which includes a star-studded east of professional entertainers.

The floor show, consisting of four acts, will open with a performance by Kennon and Company, accordian and xillophone specialists. Benny O'Neal, a widely-known impersonation specialist, will next appear. Peck and Reed, who are billed as "two screwballs of pantomime" will put on an original act and the show will conclude with Robert and Roberta, a balancing and adagio team.

Ladies who attend this year's programs are going to be pleasantly surprised when favors are distributed that have been selected by a special committee. Nothing like them has been seen since the war, committee members admitted.

After the floor show and distribution of gifts, there will be dancing for the guests from 9:15 to 12:30. The Aristocrats will play for dancing Thursday night with the Society Ramblers providing the music on Friday.

Walsh Tells Democratic Workers Lane Will Carry Allegany County

William C. Walsh, former attorney-general, last night told a large crowd of party workers including standees, at the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club that farsighted strategy on the part of the party definitely pointed to the fact that William Preston Lane, Jr., is the man Maryland Democrats should nominate for governor on June 24.

Walsh told the auidence that Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore, probably will be the Republican nominee and told his listeners to "make no mistake about it, the mayor is a vote getter."

However, with Lane nominated, Walsh said the party would have the advantage of having a World War I veteran who knows veterans' problems opposing McKeldin. Lane, Walsh declared, is the only Democratic candidate in the race who is a war veteran. Another advantage in having Lane as the Democratic standard bearer in the state is the fact that the Hagerstown man, the first Western Maryland man likely to be governor in sixty years, could be counted on to make greater inroads into the Republican party in this section than any other Democratic possibility, Walsh said.

Lane Makes Talk

Walsh told the crowd that there is some opposition to Lane in Allegany county at the moment but predicted that Lane will carry the county by a large majority. In referring to opposition to Lane here, Walsh reminded his audience that some of Tawes's local supporters are "employed by him" and also cited the fact that one man on the Tawes ticket is an Allegany county man.

Citing his long friendship with Lane that dates back to the time they soldiered together on the Mexican border, Walsh denied suggestions that have been made to the effect that he "isn't in earnest" about the present campaign and said "I was never more in earnest in my life."

Lane, who had previously made an address over Station WTBO before going to the Cosmopolitan Club, told the club he wanted to be governor to have the opportunity and privilege of serving the people of his state. He told his listeners no candidate should say he knows all the answers because it wouldn't be honest but pledged that, if nominated and elected, he would endeavor to bring an intellectual honesty to the position and would have the courage to act.

Lane, who speaks quietly and without fanfare, spoke at some length on the type of government Americans believe in—the belief that people can govern themselves—

Board Is Advised That Coal Prices Will Be Higher

Increase on All Types Will Be Effective May 13, Jenkins Says

William S. Jenkins, secretary of the Consolidated Fuel Company, yesterday advised the board of county commissioners that the Office of Price Administration has indicated that an increase in the price of all types of coal is to be granted effective May 13.

The board last week decided to order a supply of coal from the Consolidated Fuel Company for Sylvan Retreat, the county asylum, where the fuel was nearly exhausted. It was agreed to pay any price which may be fixed by government agencies.

It was assumed that the proposed increase in cost will follow any wage increase granted to the miners during negotiations between the operators and the United Mine Workers of America.

New Roadway Sought

William P. Cooper, of Barton high school faculty, asked the board to construct a roadway from McCoole road to the Potomac river to enable the McCoole Volunteer Fire Company to reach the river with an auxiliary pumper recently purchased. The request was referred to County Engineer John H. Carscaden.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles W. Lee Elgin asked that the board give him authority to send checks for state auto and truck license taxes to County Tax Collector Lucian C. Radcliffe. Through error, the checks have been made out to County Treasurer Frederick C. Dreyer. It was explained that in most Maryland counties the treasurer is also tax collector and checks due to those counties were made out to the treasurers.

J. Walter Byer, president of the Western Maryland Motor Club, thanked the board for a $50 donation to the schoolboy patrol fund. The board accepted a bid of $150 from Aaron Lazarus for Lot No. 302 of Walsh's Addition on Lafayette avenue.

Railroad Management and Labor Officials Prepare for Strike

Trainmen and Engineers Will Meet Here Tonight at 7 O'Clock

Railroad management and labor officials alike here last night seemed puzzled about just what to say over the government's seizure of rail transportation service, and the pending strike of engineers and trainmen, scheduled for this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

H. F. Wyatt, superintendent of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, explained he had received official notice from the line's president, Roy B. White, explaining the situation, and confirming President Truman's seizure order.

Wyatt was hopeful that something might be worked out before 4 p. m. today to avert the tie-up of the country's transportation system. He explained that no special preparations were being made by the road here, and that the pressure of the threatened strike has already curtailed traffic considerably. People are not traveling, he explained, because they do not like the idea of possibly being stranded somewhere, and unable to return home.

Trainmen Will Meet

An embargo on perishables and livestock was self-imposed late last night by all major railroads, Wyatt said, because railroads do not want train loads of cattle and perishable foodstuffs on their tracks if trains are unable to move because of a strike.

G. Edwin Parker, 705 Elm street, vice chairman of the legislative board of Maryland for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said last night that the strike call was issued for his union some time ago, and that as far as he knew last night, the strike would become effective this afternoon as scheduled.

A meeting of the Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomitive Engineers, the two organized groups which have called the strike, will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the IOOF hall, over the Leader theater, Virginia avenue.

Parker said strike headquarters will be established there if the strike is called.

The spokesman for the Brotherhood explained that trainmen and engineers have agreed to move only milk trains, hospital trains and troop trains. No other freight or passenger traffic will be moved, re-

Attorney General Files an Answer In Cromwell Suit

William Curran Asserts 1933 Liquor Control Act Is Constitutional

In an answer filed yesterday in circuit court Attorney General William Curran submitted that the 1933 Liquor Control act is not unconstitutional and said he concurs with Clerk Robert Jackson who filed an answer May 4 to a petition for a writ of mandamus docketed April 13 by Eldred A. Cromwell, operator of the Elda Inn, who charged the act was unconstitutional and asked for a liquor permit under the saloon law of 1894.

The brief answer filed yesterday by Curran and Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general, said in part:

"We submit that the provisions of Chapter 5 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed at its 1933 special session are not unconstitutional and void as alleged in the tenth paragraph and elsewhere in the plaintiff's petition."

The answer also stated that the attorney general accepts in its entirety the answer filed by Clerk of Court Jackson.

The petition for a license under the old saloon law was filed by F. Neale Parke, Westminister, former judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, counsel fer Cromwell, and named Clerk Jackson as defendant, alleging the latter had refused to issue Cromwell a liquor under the old saloon law. Cromwell has been denied a license under the 1933 act after applying several times in recent years.

Clerk Jackson's answer to the petition was filed by former Attorney General William C. Walsh, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the court of appeals. They denied that the 1933 act in unconstitutional and asserted it repealed the 1894 law. The attorneys also cited that the county "might go dry" in event the 1933 act was declared illegal in the court test, since no licenses could then be issued until the next session of the legislature in January, when a new act would be passed.

No date for a hearing on the petition has been set but it will be conducted in the local court by Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown.

MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR PORT CONCESSION TO BE READY TODAY

Charles C. Sullivan, who has bid for a restaurant and night club concession at the Cumberland Municipal airport, said last night that he will have completed by this morning a detailed statement of his proposed plan of managing the concession, as well as building specifications.

Sullivan was requested by the municipal airport commission earlier this week to prepare such a statement and submit it to Cumberland Airways, Inc., the West Virginia corporation which operates the airport under lease from the city.

The commission will then study the statement and in turn submit it to the mayor and city council if it is approved.

Sullivan, who operates a restaurant at 332 Virginia avenue, said he plans to spend between $12,000 and $15,000 in constructing a building for a restaurant and night club at the airport, if his bid for the concession is approved.

He indicated last night that he will ask John A. Chapman, airport manager, to contact the members of the commission today with a view to getting a final decision on his plans and specifications, so that they may be submitted to the mayor and city council Monday if approved.

UNION PLANS DRIVE TO ORGANIZE ALL RETAIL CLERKS HERE

Plans for placing under contract all employes of department, accessory, grocery and meat stores in the Cumberland area will be formulated at meetings to be held Monday in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland hotel, William R. McGinnis, Pittsburgh, international representative of the Retail Clerks Protective Association, announced yesterday.

McGinnis said clerks at both chain and independent food stores will be unionized.

The union official said the locals will also take action to intensify the picketing of the Peskin's Shoe Store here which has been on strike since last Friday. He asserted settlement of the issue is hinging on the return of one clerk and a union shop.

Pastor of First Methodist Church To Resign June 1

The Rev. G. E. Baughman To Enter Construction Business Here

The Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of First Methodist church for the past thirteen years, announced yesterday that he will submit his resignation Sunday afternoon at the quarterly conference of the church. The resignation will become effective June 1.

A native of York, Pa., the Rev. Mr. Baughman has served in the Methodist ministry for twenty-one years. He was pastor of the Bedford circuit in Centerville and Bedford Valley, Pa., before coming to Cumberland.

Before entering the ministry, he served as a member of the Pennsylvania State Police for a year and a half, working out of Chambersburg and York on a special headlight detail.

His successor is expected to be appointed at the annual session of the Baltimore conference of the Methodist church, which will be held in Westminster from May 29 to June 2.

The Rev. Mr. Baughman said a full report of his pastorate at First Methodist church for the past thirteen years will be given at the quarterly conference of the church Sunday, as well as all reports for the year. New members will also be received into the church at that time.

The minister said he is resigning his pastorate to enter the construction business. The state tax commission has issued a certificate of incorporation to the Baughman Construction Company, with offices here. Capital stock consists of 100 shares, with par value of $100 each, and the firm will engage in a general construction business. Besides the minister, subscribers are his wife, Mr. Grace N. Baughman, and Earl E. Manges, local attorney.

The Rev. and Mrs. Baughman were honored by the membership of First Methodist church with a farewell party Wednesday evening at the church. A gift of furniture for use in their new home in Allegany Grove, which is nearing completion, was presented by Mrs. Frederick W. Growden on behalf of the congregation.

13 Kelly Workers Are Apprehended In Traffic Drive

Thirteen Kelly-Springfield Tire Company workers were arrested during the past two days as a result of a drive by local police to eliminate what they term a serious traffic hazard resulting when homeward bound Kelly workers leave the rear gate of the plant by way of Springfield boulevard.

Seven of the motorists were arrested Thursday afternoon, four that evening and two more yesterday afternoon. All were asked to post $5 bonds.

Six of the drivers picked up Thursday afternoon forfeited bonds while Maurice Leasure, 515 Pearre avenue, who appeared at a hearing in police court, was fined $5 after police exhibited photographs indicating clearly, police said, the boulevard was a one way street.

Police said the drivers left the rear gate of the plant by State street and turned into Springfield boulevard so they might enter Kelly boulevard ahead of other cars and added that the traffic jam endangers both pedestrians and vehicular traffic.

Those who forefeited bonds yesterday were booked as Harold J. J. May, Hyndman; Morgan D. Morgan, Mt. Savage; and Gerald Hager, Joseph Nies, J. C. B. Treiber and George D. Swan, all of this city.

Arrested at the same place Thursday night were J. S. Rhodes, Keyser; James Austin, Meyersdale; Vance Goldsworthy, 326 Grand avenue, and C. C. Baker, 425 Henderson avenue. Rhodes forfeited bond and the other three were fined $5 each on careless driving charges.

Elinor G. Wiseman, Boulevard apartments, and L. A. Long, Route 1, were arrested on the same street yesterday and posted $5 bonds for hearings today.

400 School Children To Take Part In First Project of Nutrition Unit

Approximately 400 elementary school pupils in Westernport and Luke will have taken part in the first project of the nutrition unit of the United States Public Health Service when it is completed next week, health department officials said yesterday.

A three-day examination of 120 fifth and sixth grade pupils at the Hammond street school, Westernport, was concluded yesterday at noon. Nine teachers also participated in the tests, which were made on a voluntary basis. The tests included a blood test for anemia, a one-day diet record, and a physical inspection.

It was pointed out that of a total enrollment of 137 in the two grades, ten were absent during the days the tests were held, and that ninety-four per cent of the remaining pupils in those grades took part.

Request Slips Distributed

Preliminary arrangements included giving each child a request slip to be filled out by his parents, stating that if permission were granted by parents for the child to take part, a hemoglobin test for anemia would be given and a physical inspection made under the direction of a health officer.

No child was examined without presenting a signed request slip, it was stated.

A similar examination of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils at the Luke school will be held Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday pupils in the seventh and eighth grades of Bruce high school in Westernport will be examined.

Any unusual findings will be reported to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, and complete reports will be sent to the United States Public Health Service in Washington, to contribute to the nationwide picture of nutrition standards throughout the country.

Approximately ten children are examined an hour, health officials said. Several mothers of pupils at the Hammond street school acted as clerical helpers in registering the children prior to examination.

Results of individual examinations will be made available to parents, and during the second week in June clinics are planned at each of the three schools so that parents may discuss the findings with personnel of the nutrition unit.

Staff Chemist Joins Unit

The entire personnel of the nutrition unit, headed by Dr. John Smillie, is conducting the project. Dr. Smillie is assisted by Miss Mary L. Brakel, nutritionist; Miss Dolores Howley, public health nurse; Miss Miriam Eads, who is assisting Miss

Unity Conference Indorses Lane And McKeldin

The Labor Unity Conference here has indorsed three state candidates for political office, according to an announcement made by Paul L. Burley, secretary.

The group, composed of representatives of all branches of organized labor, has voted to support William Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown, and Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore, candidates for the Democratic and Republican nominations for governor, respectively, and the candidacy of Herbert R. O'Conor, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

In Baltimore yesterday Albert Atallah, chairman of the Maryland CIO Political Action Committee, announced that the PAC has not indorsed "any particular candidate."

"No one from the (State) CIO-PAC has made a public statement of any kind to anyone as far as support of political candidates goes," Atallah said.

He added that the committee intended to discuss "several matters" next week and that "among those matters, we possibly may discuss some candidate."

Although the State CIO-PAC has not announced support of candidates, the national group has endorsed Governor O'Conor for the Senate in his campaign against Senator Radcliffe for the Democratic nomination.

The Labor Unity Conference appointed a committee composed of William Boyd Coleman, G. E. Parker and W. J. Jones to make a study of county candidates and submit some recommendations.

Harry Epstein, field representative of the National CIO Political Action Committee, urged united political action and steps were discussed to form ward and precinct organizations for getting out the vote.

New Recruiting Program Will Be Worked Out Soon

Army, navy and marine corps recruiters here are all "singing the blues," since President Truman signed the amended selective service extension act, which bans induction of 18 and 19-year-old youths.

Recruiters explain that many of the men enlisted, did so because they would have been drafted through local draft boards sooner or later, and by enlisting are able to select their theater and branch of service. Some prefer the navy and marines to the army, and consequently enlisted in one of these two services to avoid the army.

With the age limit moved up, it has become necessary for recruiters to work out new sales talks and new selling ideas to obtain recruits, and fewer volunteers can be expected, they claim, since there are fewer men in the older aged brackets to come in.

Plans are already underway to "go to work" on a new recruiting program, but recruiters know that their work is going to be more difficuit, and fewer enlistments will probably result in the changed law.

Local draft board officials say they have reached the "bottom of the barrel," since induction of the 18 and 19-year-olds is banned, and non-fathers between 20 and 30 can be drafted. Inductions here will probably cease, as there are few if any eligible men here for draft. No pre-induction groups will be sent to Baltimore for physical examinations until after July 1.

The large number of 18 year old youths in high schools and colleges, deferred until the end of the school terms, are literally "up in the air," because they don't know where they stand—except to July 1, and they can't be called up to that time, under the amended bill.

An indication of the small number of men between 20 and 30 on the registration books in the county draft board offices is shown in the announcement from Washington that only 61,000 eligibles left in this bracket in the entire nation. And it is estimated that about half of that number would fail to pass physical examinations.

One group of 15 youths was slated to go to Baltimore next Tuesday for pre-induction tests, according to P. Emmett Fahey, chief clerk of Local Board No. 2, but this has been cancelled since the new bill went into effect.

After President Truman signed the act, which he termed "a bad bill," Selective Service officials in Washington announced that its men 26 and over will be continued.

Tawes, Roloson And Cobey Make Tour of County

Candidate for Governor Outlines Program in Address Here

A radio address followed by a reception in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland hotel last night, climaxed an all-day tour of Allegany county yesterday by J. Millard Tawes, of Crisfield, Democratic candidate for governor, W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, candidate for attorney general, and Charles H. Roloson, Baltimore, candidate for state comptroller.

The caravan started its tour here, went to Cresaptown, McCoole, Westernport, Luke, and down through the George's Creek region, stopping at Vale Summit, Lonaconing, Barton, Midland, Frostburg and Mt. Savage, back to this city. The reception at Fort Cumberland last night was attended by a large crowd of party workers, candidates and interested persons.

Despite rainy weather, candidates and workers who made up the tour said they were received by "large groups of party members and friends everywhere they stopped."

Would Cut Indebtedness

In his radio address last night, Tawes indorsed his running mates, Cobey and Roloson, and told his radio audience that he and Roloson are "asserting every effort in Cobey's behalf throughout the state and are asking our friends to vote for him." He stated "it is most reassuring to me that in turn, he is asking his friends here in Western Maryland to support Mr. Roloson for comptroller and my candidacy for governor."

"Their last paragraph is worthy of complete quotation here. It states, 'There is little real shortage of available capable teachers, but there is a decided shortage of due compensation to get and hold such teachers'.

Would Raise Teachers' Pay

"We take full cognizance of this situation and if I am elected, I shall request the legislature to fix teachers salaries in accordance with the rise in the cost of living since the last enactment of school teachers' pay."

Speaking of industrial and labor relations he said "I have constantly fought for and aided labor legislation in such fields as unemployment
